COMPLETE RETURNS SHOW SUBMISSION HAS SAFE MAJORITY

EARLY LEAD WAS SLIGHTLY REDUCED BY RETURNS FROM EL PASO COUNTY, WHERE VOTE STOOD THREE TO ONE AGAINST AMENDMENT.

170,732 FOR--168,387 AGAINST

Special from Dallas Gives a Smaller Majority, With Prediction That the Final Count Will Cut It Down to 1000—Several Anti Counties Voted for Submission.

Dallas, Tex., July 29.—Complete returns from 237 counties on the proposition to submit a prohibition amendment to the voters of the state show a favorable majority of 2,345 tonight. Practically complete returns from El Paso county, the largest section outstanding, reduced an early lead. El Paso county voted almost three to one against submission.

What is considered virtually the final total is: For 170,732; against 168,387. No further totals until the state's vote is officially canvassed August 7, are looked for.

An Unofficial Report.

Dallas, Tex., July 29.—At a late hour tonight complete election returns had been received from 197 counties and partial returns from 146. On the basis of these figures the submission lead had been reduced to 2,043, the vote standing 166,269 for submission and 164,226 against.

The reduction in the lead for submission is accounted for by receipt of full returns from DeWitt county and a full report from Rusk county cutting dow nsuomission's lead there, a similar report from Hamilton county another submission county and a corrected report on Howard county cutting down submission lead there. Submission of course made gains in some counties, among them Haskell and Liberty, which reported complete. Upshur, Lee and others but the larger gain in other way cut down the submission lead.

Bandera counted as an anti-submission county had reported partially and favored submission on its partial report. El Paso county had not reported further but Liberty county classed as an anti-submission county, had reported in full and gone for submission.

As previously predicted by the News the chances still favor submission by a majority which may not exceed 1,000.

Gatesville Instructs for Submission.

Gatesville, Tex., July 29.—Eleven delegates were elected to the statt democratic convention, six antis and five pros. They were instructed to vote for submission if it carries the state.

DESPERATE COUNTER ATTACKS TO REGAIN DELVILLE WOOD

RUSSIAN SUCCESS ADMITTED

British and Germans Continue Fierce Fighting Around Pozieres, but British Maintain Advance Toward Rising Land Between Pozieres and Bapaume, Still Held by Germans.

London, July 29.—The importance attached by the Germans to the possession of Delville wood is shown by the desperate character of their constant counter attacks on this wood since it was captured by the British. The counter attacks, according to the British report, have been repulsed on every occasion with heavy German losses.

In the neighborhood of Pozieres, also, the British and Germans continue in the closest grips and the severest hand-to-hand fighting is going on incessantly. The British, however, maintain their advance toward the remaining portion of the rising ground between Pozieres and Bapaume still in the hands of the Germans.

Many German infantry units withdrawn from the Meuse area have been recognized in the forces opposing the progress of the British. This is the probable reason why the fighting around Verdun as shown by French reports, has developed into almost purely artillery engagements. Intermittent minor infantry attacks, however, have occurred there, initiated by either side, in which the French report some success with a gain in ground.

The Russian armies under General Brussiloff and General Letchitzky have pushed further forward in a penetrating movement through the Austro-German territory and their success is admitted in the Berlin and Vienna reports of today, which say:

"Northwestward of Lutsk the enemy succeeded in penetrating our lines and we withdrew behind the river."

A belated Turkish official report belittles the Russian successes in the Caucasus and describes the capture of Baiburt and Erzingan as of little importance to the Turkish general scheme of operations.

Austria Admits Loss.

Vienna, via London, July 29.—Austrian general headquarters admits a withdrawal of the Austrian forces between the Turia river and the Rovno-Kovel railway on the eastern front. The official statement tonight reads:

"Between the Turia and the Rovno-Kovel railway, after the repulse of several Russian storming attacks the defenders of the positions before the Stokhod were withdrawn behind the river."

The German submarine Deutschland will make its dash from Baltimore to the open sea under water. When well beyond the cordon of allied warships off the Virginia capes it will rise cautiously until the periscope is above the surface. If a careful search reveals no hostile craft on the horizon the Deutschland will then rise to the surface and remain there until the approach of a hostile vessel compels her to again submerge.

SPECIAL CONVOY IS NOT ACCORDED GERMAN SUB

Washington, July 29.—Special protection for the German merchant submarine Deutschland when she starts out of American territorial waters was asked of the American government late today with the intimation that the boat would leave Baltimore some time tomorrow. After conferences between state, treasury, navy department officials, it was ruled that no extraordinary precautions could be ordered because the United States views the Deutschland as an ordinary merchantman.

It is understood that the application for protection was made through the collector of customs at Baltimore and that Captain Koenig, the submarine commander, desired a coast guard cutter or naval vessel to escort him down Chesapeake Bay and to the three-mile limit.

Unless steps are taken to prevent it, the submarine probably will be followed out by a fleet of small craft, carrying newspaper correspondents, photographers and sightseers. It is said, too, that the Germans fear some British merchant ship might go to sea in the wake of the Deutschland, advertising her presence to the allied cruisers waiting off the Virginia coast, or even attempting to ram her as she leaves American territorial waters.

Officials of the state department held that while American neutrality must be safeguarded, it will be a bad precedent for the government to convoy or accord any other unusual attention to a vessel which can be rated only as a merchantman.

Deutschland Ready to Go.

Baltimore, Md., Juy 29.—The German subsea freighter which arrived at this port from Germany three weeks ago tomorrow night, was all ready tonight to start on her perilous homeward voyage. The tug Thomas F. Timmins, which met the Deutschland at the Virginia Capes and conveyed her to Baltimore, was close by with steam up.

Impeached Attorney Found Guilty

Nashville, Tenn., July 29.—Z. Newton Estes, attorney general of Shelby county, was found guilty today by the state senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, on one of the twenty-five articles of impeachment returned by the house of representatives and was acquitted of the other twenty-four charges.

His conviction on the one count will operate to remove him from office, but a resolution adopted by the senate provides that he should not be disqualified from holding office in the future.

The allegation of which Estes was found guilty charges that he corruptly confederated with former Judge Jess Edgington of the Shelby county criminal court in an effort to collect $1,468.35 in illegal fees. Judge Edgington recently was impeached and removed from office.

London Mayor Prepares to Die

London, July 29.—Mayor Charles E. Sebastian began putting his affairs in order today to face his future, he having but eight months to live, according to a group of physicians. The mayor was said to be suffering from Bright's disease in an advanced stage.

Sebastian and his friends debated last night the advisability of the mayor resigning to get complete rest. The mayor settled the matter by declaring "they may have to carry me out of my office on a cot, but I'll never quit."

Wilson Endorsed; Ferguson Censured

Bremond, Tex., July 29.—Robertson county convention endorsed Wilson administration, C. A. Culberson for United States senator, condemned Governor Ferguson in stumping the state for and against certain candidates, endorsed submission if carried and the Robertson life insurance law and instructed delegates to the state convention to vote as unit.

SENATOR CULBERSON IN FAVOR OF BRAZOS NAVIGATION PROJECT

Senator Culberson is, as ever, in favor of the Brazos river navigation project, in which Waco as a city is deeply interested. The men at the head of the project have for some time known they could depend on the senator for his support in measures tending to secure much needed improvement, but the following telegram dispels all doubts as to where Mr. Culberson stands in this vital matter:

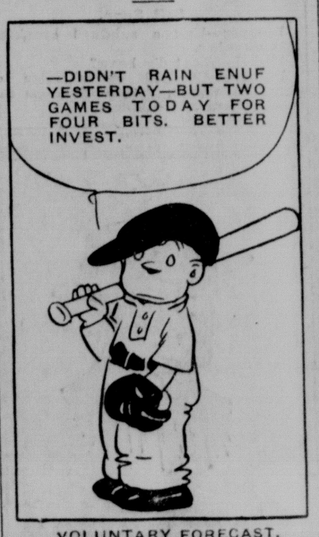
"Washington, D. C., July 29, 1916.—Hon. James B. Baker, 903 Columbus Street, Waco, Texas: In reply to your telegram, will say that I have always heartily favored the Brazos river project and still do so.

"C. A. CULBERSON."

Innes Denied New Trial

Atlanta, Ga., July 29.—Victor E. Innes, recently sentenced to seven years imprisonment for larceny after trust of funds alleged to have been placed in his hands by Mrs. Eloi Nelms Dennis, today was denied new trial by Superior Judge Ben Hill. Mrs. Dennis and her sister, Miss Beatrice Nelms, disappeared two years ago and Innes' conviction was an outgrowth of the search for them. Innes was acquitted at San Antonio, Texas, on a charge of murdering the women.

TODAY'S WEATHER.



VOLUNTARY FORECAST.

Generally fair; slight probability of showers.

The intense heat in the central portion of the United States in the opinion of Dr. Block will be broken by tonight or Monday. This is predicted on account of the high pressure moving in over the Rocky mountains, which is scheduled to give relief.

Local Readings.

Local readings for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. yesterday: Maximum temperature 88 degrees at 5 p. m., minimum 71 1-2 at 5 a. m., barometer 30.05, humidity 75, total wind passage 101 miles, 30 miles being the fastest at 7:45 p. m., rainfall .25 inch.

Government Forecast.

Washington, July 29.—East Texas and Louisiana—Sunday and Monday unsettled, scattered showers.

West Texas and Oklahoma—Sunday and Monday unsettled.

MEXICAN PROBLEM NOTE TRANSLATED FOR SR. CARRANZA

Mexico City, July 29.—The answer of the United States government accepting the proposal for a conference concerning relations with Mexico was translated into Spanish today and submitted to General Carranza. It is possible that his reply acquainting the United States with his desires as to the time and place of holding the conference will go forward tonight to Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador designate at Washington.

Two Killed When Auto Plunges Over 200-Foot Embankment

Colorado Springs, July 29.—Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Bachman of Wichita Falls, Texas, were instantly killed, a daughter, Miss Stella Bachman, 18 years old, was seriously injured, and a son, H. J. Bachman Jr., was badly bruised when the automobile in which they were riding plunged over a 200-foot embankment on the Canon City road ten miles south of Colorado Springs today. The car left the road at a sharp curve.

Kelly and Smith Excluded from Great Britain

Washington, July 29.—American Ambassador Page at London today cabled the state department that Great Britain insists upon excluding from England and Ireland Eugene Hughes Kelly of New York, treasurer of the Irish relief fund; his assistant, Joseph Smith, and Mrs. Kelly. They will leave England Monday on the American liner Philadelphia.

Culberson Announces for Second Primary

Washington, July 29.—In an address issued today to the democrats of Texas, Senator Culberson, who ran next to former Governor Colquitt in the recent senatorial primary in that state, announced that his name would be submitted to the second primary, which will be held in August.

Passengers Have Narrow Escape

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 29.—More than one hundred passengers on Baltimore and Ohio train No. 12, St. Louis to New York, escaped injury or death today when eight cars of the train were derailed in a tunnel near Cairo, thirty-three miles east of here. No one was injured seriously. The cars were derailed near the end of the tunnel, due to spreading rails.

MANHATTAN ISLAND IS SHAKEN BY TERRIFIC EXPLOSION THIS MORNING

69 CARLOADS OF AMMUNITION CAUSE

Second Shock Follows, but of Less Intensity—Men, Women and Children in Night Clothes Crowd Streets. Many Thrown from Beds by Shock—Almost Crazed With Fright—33 Jersey City Firemen Killed.

New York, July 30.—Thirty-three Jersey City firemen are reported to have been killed early this morning by a terrible explosion in the plant of the National Storage company on Black Tom Island, near Communipaw, N. J., where they had gone to fight a fire resulting from a terrific explosion just thirty minutes earlier.

In the Storage company plant are said to have been enormous quantities of ammunition consigned to the entente allies. The entire plant is reported to have been wrecked. The entire island appeared at 3:30 o'clock to be covered with a sheet of flames. Access to it is gained from the mainland by a bridge over which runs tracks of the Central railroad of New Jersey.

Sixty-nine carloads of ammunition are said to have been stored on the railroad tracks on the island. All of them are believed to have been blown up.

Edmund Mackenzie, president of the National Storage company, said at his home at Plainfield, N. J., at 3:30 o'clock this morning that he had just received a telegram informing him that a great fire was raging in the plant of his company following an explosion.

The plant of the Storage company consists of about eighty-five warehouses and three or four covered piers, one of which is a powder pier, said Mr. McKenzie. He explained that there were no combustibles in the warehouses. He expressed the belief from the meagre information he had received that the explosion must have been in trains of munitions which had been run to the powder docks awaiting regulation lighters to ships anchored in the bay. He declared the plant was valued at about $7,000,000.

Manhattan Horror-Stricken.

New York, July 30.—All Manhattan Island was shaken by a terrific explosion at 2:08 o'clock this (Sunday) morning. Windows of buildings all over the lower end of the island were shattered. The explosion is believed to have been in a large dye works not far from Newark.

The force of the explosion was so great that thousands of heavy plate glass windows in office buildings in lower Manhattan and Brooklyn were shattered. Streets for many blocks in the downtown section were literally strewn with broken glass.

Thousands of persons swarmed into the streets in all parts of the city from buildings, subway exits and railway stations, running about in a panic. Many women became hysterical. Police whistles were blown frantically, but the police themselves did not know what it was all about. The first explosion was followed by a second at 2:39, slightly less violent, but which again shook all New York.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT.

Nearly all the fire apparatus in Brooklyn was called out in the belief that somewhere in that part of the city there was a great fire, but no trace of one was to be found.

Police headquarters in all boroughs received reports of disasters of all kinds both on the New York and New Jersey sides. One report was that an oil ship was blown up near the Statue of Liberty.

A report received at 2:40 was that several carloads of shrapnel consigned to the entente allies and lying on the Black Tom, where the Eagle Oil Works were located, had exploded. So far as known at that hour no one had been injured.

Brooklyn police headquarters reported that ten persons had been killed in an explosion in the subway at Washington street and Myrtle avenue, but the report apparently was unfounded.

POLICE REPORT HEAVY LOSSES.

Police headquarters in Manhattan expressed the belief that many thousands of dollars damage had been caused in this city by the explosion. It was conjectured that the combinations of the vaults in the financial district might have been so seriously damaged that difficulty would be experienced in opening them.

The New York Telephone company announced at 2:38 a. m. that all telephone lines leading from New York to nearby points in Jersey City were down and communication was almost impossible.

There are persistent reports here that the immense Standard Oil plant at Bayonne had blown up but police headquarters in that city was reached at 3 o'clock and declared positively that the explosion had not been in Bayonne.

The thousands who had flocked to the streets after the first explosion were reinforced by thousands more after the second explosion. Men, women and children left their homes in their night clothes. Many declared they had been thrown out of bed by the force of the explosion which was felt even more severely in Brooklyn than in New York. Women who were in Brooklyn streets when the first explosion occurred were thrown to the pavement and many of them became almost crazed with fear.

Guests in the big uptown hotels ran frantically into the corridors when the windows in their rooms were shattered. Patients in city hospitals were greatly alarmed and their attendants experienced much difficulty in quieting them. Prompt action was taken by the police to prevent looting in buildings which had been vacated by frightened tenants.

Elevated trains crossing Brooklyn Bridge and other bridges were shaken and many panes of glass in the cars were broken. The same was true of surface cars in all parts of the city.

Panic was most pronounced among the dwellers in crowded east side tenements and many of those who had hastened into the streets were cut by broken glass.

A series of less severe explosions were heard, one after another in Brooklyn after the first two.

Fears for the safety of persons traveling beneath the North river in the tubes of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad company were set at rest soon after 3 o'clock by a report from the trainmaster's office in the Hudson terminal building that the property of the company had not been damaged.

Observers at the Battery and other points of vantage declared the flames which illuminated the Communipaw section of Jersey City seemed to emanate from one tremendous fire and scores of smaller ones.

Explosion Felt at Camden, N. J.

Philadelphia, July 30.—The explosion near Jersey City was felt at Camden, N. J., opposite this city and at Bristol, Pa. Telephone inquiries into Philadelphia said the shock was plainly felt. Bristol is sixty-six miles from Jersey City and Camden nearly ninety miles.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

Senate.

Resolution adopted urging upon Great Britain clemency for Irish political prisoners.

Adjourned at 5 p. m. until 10 a. m. Monday.

House.

Representative Gardner declared it inadequate.

Speeches were made by North Carolina members in memory of the late Senator Vance, whose statue was recently unveiled at the capital.

Adjourned at 4:30 p. m until noon Wednesday.

How About This?

WILSON'S POLICY REPUDIATED IN TEXAS

HUGHES WILL ATTACK

Washington, July 24.—News from New York that Charles E. Hughes, republican presidential nominee, will strike hard at President Wilson's Mexican policy during his August speech-making tour of the West, coupled with reports of Saturday's primary election results in Texas, today served to arouse apprehension among democratic administration supporters in and out of congress.

Senator R. B. Fall of New Mexico, who made a long personal investigation of conditions along the border, has been summoned by Chairman W. R. Wilcox of the republican national committee for a conference with Mr. Hughes in New York.

As an indication of disapproval of the president's Mexican policy, the Texas primary vote is considered significant.

President's Critics Nominated.

Latest returns show former Governor O. B. Colquitt, a bitter critic of the president, to have defeated Senator Charles A. Culberson for the democratic senatorial nomination by more than 20,000 votes. Culberson has been a staunch Wilson supporter.

South's Defeat Best for All Concerned--Tillman

Washington, July 29.—"I never believed it possible that I could do it, but slowly and by degrees I have come to think that it was best for all concerned that the South was defeated," said Senator Tillman of South Carolina today, urging passage of a bill dealing with Arlington National cemetery.

"Slavery," he continued, "was a curse which had to be destroyed ere the South and the world could advance. It was a curse for which the South was no more responsible than the North. Both sections were responsible—and both paid four long, bloody years of penance for their joint sin. It had to go and while it went in the worst possible way and its going gave birth to an apparently unsolvable problem, still I was born in and of the South, am glad it is gone never to return. I am glad, also, that the idea of nationality has supplanted that of confederation despite the danger involved. And so, I can find it in my heart to want to make the ampitheatre at Arlington thorough in its national scope."

COMPLETE RETURNS SHOW SUBMISSION HAS SAFE MAJORITY

EARLY LEAD WAS SLIGHTLY REDUCED BY RETURNS FROM EL PASO COUNTY, WHERE VOTE STOOD THREE TO ONE AGAINST AMENDMENT.

Special from Dallas Gives a Smaller Majority, With Prediction That the Final Count Will Cut It Down to 1000—Several Anti Counties Voted for Submission.

Dallas, Tex., July 29.—Complete returns from 237 counties on the proposition to submit a prohibition amendment to the voters of the state show a favorable majority of 2,345 tonight. Practically complete returns from El Paso county, the largest section outstanding, reduced an early lead. El Paso county voted almost three to one against submission.

What is considered virtually the final total is: For 170,732; against 168,387. No further totals until the state's vote is officially canvassed August 7, are looked for.

An Unofficial Report.

Dallas, Tex., July 29.—At a late hour tonight complete election returns had been received from 197 counties and partial returns from 146. On the basis of these figures the submission lead had been reduced to 2,043, the vote standing 166,269 for submission and 164,226 against.

The reduction in the lead for submission is accounted for by receipt of full returns from DeWitt county and a full report from Rusk county cutting dow nsuomission's lead there, a similar report from Hamilton county another submission county and a corrected report on Howard county cutting down submission lead there. Submission of course made gains in some counties, among them Haskell and Liberty, which reported complete. Upshur, Lee and others but the larger gain in other way cut down the submission lead.

Bandera counted as an anti-submission county had reported partially and favored submission on its partial report. El Paso county had not reported further but Liberty county classed as an anti-submission county, had reported in full and gone for submission.

As previously predicted by the News the chances still favor submission by a majority which may not exceed 1,000.

Gatesville Instructs for Submission.

Gatesville, Tex., July 29.—Eleven delegates were elected to the statt democratic convention, six antis and five pros. They were instructed to vote for submission if it carries the state.

DESPERATE COUNTER ATTACKS TO REGAIN DELVILLE WOOD

RUSSIAN SUCCESS ADMITTED

British and Germans Continue Fierce Fighting Around Pozieres, but British Maintain Advance Toward Rising Land Between Pozieres and Bapaume, Still Held by Germans.

London, July 29.—The importance attached by the Germans to the possession of Delville wood is shown by the desperate character of their constant counter attacks on this wood since it was captured by the British. The counter attacks, according to the British report, have been repulsed on every occasion with heavy German losses.

In the neighborhood of Pozieres, also, the British and Germans continue in the closest grips and the severest hand-to-hand fighting is going on incessantly. The British, however, maintain their advance toward the remaining portion of the rising ground between Pozieres and Bapaume still in the hands of the Germans.

Many German infantry units withdrawn from the Meuse area have been recognized in the forces opposing the progress of the British. This is the probable reason why the fighting around Verdun as shown by French reports, has developed into almost purely artillery engagements. Intermittent minor infantry attacks, however, have occurred there, initiated by either side, in which the French report some success with a gain in ground.

The Russian armies under General Brussiloff and General Letchitzky have pushed further forward in a penetrating movement through the Austro-German territory and their success is admitted in the Berlin and Vienna reports of today, which say:

"Northwestward of Lutsk the enemy succeeded in penetrating our lines and we withdrew behind the river."

A belated Turkish official report belittles the Russian successes in the Caucasus and describes the capture of Balburt and Erzingan as of little importance to the Turkish general scheme of operations.

Austria Admits Loss.

Vienna, via London, July 29.—Austrian general headquarters admits a withdrawal of the Austrian forces between the Turia river and the Rovno-Kovel railway on the eastern front. The official statement tonight reads:

"Between the Turia and the Rovno-Kovel railway, after the repulse of several Russian storming attacks the defenders of the positions before the Stokhod were withdrawn behind the river."

The German submarine Deutschland will make its dash from Baltimore to the open sea under water. When well beyond the cordon of allied warships off the Virginia capes it will rise cautiously until the periscope is above the surface. If a careful search reveals no hostile craft on the horizon the Deutschland will then rise to the surface and remain there until the approach of a hostile vessel compels her to again submerge.

SPECIAL CONVOY IS NOT ACCORDED GERMAN SUB

Washington, July 29.—Special protection for the German merchant submarine Deutschland when she starts out of American territorial waters was asked of the American government late today with the intimation that the boat would leave Baltimore some time tomorrow. After conferences between state, treasury, navy department officials, it was ruled that no extraordinary precautions could be ordered because the United States views the Deutschland as an ordinary merchantman.

It is understood that the application for protection was made through the collector of customs at Baltimore and that Captain Koenig, the submarine commander, desired a coast guard cutter or naval vessel to escort him down Chesapeake Bay and to the three-mile limit.

Unless steps are taken to prevent it, the submarine probably will be followed out by a fleet of small craft, carrying newspaper correspondents, photographers and sightseers. It is said, too, that the Germans fear some British merchant ship might go to sea in the wake of the Deutschland, advertising her presence to the allied cruisers waiting off the Virginia coast, or even attempting to ram her as she leaves American territorial waters.

Officials of the state department held that while American neutrality must be safeguarded, it will be a bad precedent for the government to convoy or accord any other unusual attention to a vessel which can be rated only as a merchantman.

Deutschland Ready to Go.

Baltimore, Md., July 29.—The German subsea freighter which arrived at this port from Germany three weeks ago tomorrow night, was all ready tonight to start on her perilous homeward voyage. The tug Thomas F. Timmins, which met the Deutschland at the Virginia Capes and conveyed her to Baltimore, was close by with steam up.

Impeached Attorney Found Guilty

Nashville, Tenn., July 29.—Z. Newton Estes, attorney general of Shelby county, was found guilty today by the state senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, on one of the twenty-five articles of impeachment returned by the house of representatives and was acquitted of the other twenty-four charges.

His conviction on the one count will operate to remove him from office, but a resolution adopted by the senate provides that he should not be disqualified from holding office in the future.

The allegation of which Estes was found guilty charges that he corruptly confederated with former Judge Jess Edgington of the Shelby county criminal court in an effort to collect $1,468.35 in illegal fees. Judge Edgington recently was impeached and removed from office.

Innes Denied New Trial

Atlanta, Ga., July 29.—Victor E. Innes, recently sentenced to seven years imprisonment for larceny after trust of funds alleged to have been placed in his hands by Mrs. Elois Nelms Dennis, today was denied new trial by Superior Judge Ben Hill. Mrs. Dennis and her sister, Miss Beatrice Nelms, disappeared two years ago and Innes' conviction was an outgrowth of the search for them. Innes was acquitted at San Antonio, Texas, on a charge of murdering the women.

Force of Shock So Great Thousands of Heavy Plate Glass Windows Break and Vault Combinations Are Broken—Telephone Communication Interrupted.

69 CARLOADS OF AMMUNITION CAUSE

Second Shock Follows, but of Less Intensity—Men, Women and Children in Night Clothes Crowd Streets. Many Thrown from Beds by Shock—Almost Crazed With Fright—33 Jersey City Firemen Killed.

New York, July 30.—Thirty-three Jersey City firemen are reported to have been killed early this morning by a terrible explosion in the plant of the National Storage company on Black Tom Island, near Communipaw, N. J., where they had gone to fight a fire resulting from a terrific explosion just thirty minutes earlier.

In the Storage company plant are said to have been enormous quantities of ammunition consigned to the entente allies. The entire plant is reported to have been wrecked. The entire island appeared at 3:30 o'clock to be covered with a sheet of flames. Access to it is gained from the mainland hy a bridge over which runs tracks of the Central railroad of New Jersey.

Sixty-nine carloads of ammunition are said to have been stored on the railroad tracks on the island. All of them are believed to have been blown up.

Edmund Mackenzie, president of the National Storage company, said at his home at Plainfield, N. J., at 3:30 o'clock this morning that he had just received a telegram informing him that a great fire was raging in the plant of his company following an explosion.

The plant of the Storage company consists of about eighty-five warehouses and three or four covered piers, one of which is a powder pier, said Mr. McKenzie. He explained that there were no combustibles in the warehouses. He expressed the belief from the meagre information he had received that the explosion must have been in trains of munitions which had been run to the powder docks awaiting regulation lighters to ships anchored in the bay. He declared the plant was valued at about $7,000,000.

Manhattan Horror-Stricken.

New York, July 30.—All Manhattan Island was shaken by a terrific explosion at 2:08 o'clock this (Sunday) morning. Windows of buildings all over the lower end of the island were shattered. The explosion is believed to have been in a large dye works not far from Newark.

The force of the explosion was so great that thousands of heavy plate glass windows in office buildings in lower Manhattan and Brooklyn were shattered. Streets for many blocks in the downtown section were literally strewn with broken glass.

Thousands of persons swarmed into the streets in all parts of the city from buildings, subway exits and railway stations, running about in a panic. Many women became hysterical. Police whistles were blown frantically, but the police themselves did not know what it was all about. The first explosion was followed by a second at 2:39, slightly less violent, but which again shook all New York.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT.

Nearly all the fire apparatus in Brooklyn was called out in the belief that somewhere in that part of the city there was a great fire, but no trace of one was to be found.

Police headquarters in all boroughs received reports of disasters of all kinds both on the New York and New Jersey sides. One report was that an oil ship was blown up near the Statue of Liberty.

A report received at 2:40 was that several carloads of shrapnel consigned to the entente allies and lying on the Black Tom, where the Eagle Oil Works were located, had exploded. So far as known at that hour no one had been injured.

Brooklyn police headquarters reported that ten persons had been killed in an explosion in the subway at Washington street and Myrtle avenue, but the report apparently was unfounded.

POLICE REPORT HEAVY LOSSES.

Police headquarters in Manhattan expressed the belief that many thousands of dollars damage had been caused in this city by the explosion. It was conjectured that the combinations of the vaults in the financial district might have been so seriously damaged that difficulty would be experienced in opening them.

The New York Telephone company announced at 2:38 a. m. that all telephone lines leading from New York to nearby points in Jersey City were down and communication was almost impossible.

There are persistent reports here that the immense Standard Oil plant at Bayonne had blown up but police headquarters in that city was reached at 3 o'clock and declared positively that the explosion had not been in Bayonne.

The thousands who had flocked to the streets after the first explosion were reinforced by thousands more after the second explosion. Men, women and children left their homes in their night clothes. Many declared they had been thrown out of bed by the force of the explosion which was felt even more severely in Brooklyn than in New York. Women who were in Brooklyn streets when the first explosion occurred were thrown to the pavement and many of them became almost crazed with fear.

Guests in the big uptown hotels ran frantically into the corridors when the windows in their rooms were shattered. Patients in city hospitals were greatly alarmed and their attendants experienced much difficulty in quieting them. Prompt action was taken by the police to prevent looting in buildings which had been vacated by frightened tenants.

Elevated trains crossing Brooklyn Bridge and other bridges were shaken and many panes of glass in the cars were broken. The same was true of surface cars in all parts of the city.

Panic was most pronounced among the dwellers in crowded east side tenements and many of those who had hastened into the streets were cut by broken glass.

A series of less severe explosions were heard, one after another in Brooklyn after the first two.

Fears for the safety of persons traveling beneath the North river in the tubes of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad company were set at rest soon after 3 o'clock by a report from the trainmaster's office in the Hudson terminal building that the property of the company had not been damaged.

Observers at the Battery and other points of vantage declared the flames which illuminated the Communipaw section of Jersey City seemed to emanate from one tremendous fire and scores of smaller ones.

Explosion Felt at Camden, N. J.

Philadelphia, July 30.—The explosion near Jersey City was felt at Camden, N. J., opposite this city and at Bristol, Pa. Telephone inquiries into Philadelphia said the shock was plainly felt. Bristol is sixty-six miles from Jersey City and Camden nearly ninety miles.

South's Defeat Best for All Concerned--Tillman

Washington, July 29.—"I never believed it possible that I could do it, but slowly and by degrees I have come to think that it was best for all concerned that the South was defeated," said Senator Tillman of South Carolina today, urging passage of a bill dealing with Arlington National cemetery.

"Slavery," he continued, "was a curse which had to be destroyed ere the South and the world could advance. It was a curse for which the South was no more responsible than the North. Both sections were responsible—and both paid four long, bloody years of penance for their joint sin. It had to go and while it went in the worst possible way and its going gave birth to an apparently unsolvable problem, still I was born in and of the South, am glad it is gone never to return. I am glad, also, that the idea of nationality has supplanted that of confederation despite the danger involved. And so, I can find it in my heart to want to make the ampitheatre at Arlington thorough in its national scope."

WILSON'S POLICY REPUDIATED IN TEXAS

HUGHES WILL ATTACK

Washington, July 24.—News from New York that Charles E. Hughes, republican presidential nominee, will strike hard at President Wilson's Mexican policy during his August speech-making tour of the West, coupled with reports of Saturday's primary election results in Texas, today served to arouse apprehension among democratic administration supporters in and out of congress.

Senator R. B. Fall of New Mexico, who made a long personal investigation of conditions along the border, has been summoned by Chairman W. R. Wilcox of the republican national committee for a conference with Mr. Hughes in New York.

As an indication of disapproval of the president's Mexican policy, the Texas primary vote is considered significant.

President's Critics Nominated.

Latest returns show former Governor O. B. Colquitt, a bitter critic of the president, to have defeated Senator Charles A. Culberson for the democratic senatorial nomination by more than 20,000 votes. Culberson has been a staunch Wilson supporter.

FORTY-SIX DEATHS IN CHICAGO CAUSED BY HEAT YESTERDAY

FIRE MARSHAL DETAILS FIRE ENGINE COMPANIES TO SPRINKLE STREETS AND SIDEWALKS TO COOL THE ATMOSPHERE IN ORDER TO SLEEP.

COOLER WEATHER NOW COMING

Lake Michigan Bathing Beaches Afforded Only Heat to Chicago. Twenty Men Injured When 500 Attempted to Force Way Through Door of Municipal Bathing House.

Chicago, July 29.—Nearly the entire middlewest sweltered through another day of hundred degree weather and tonight received the prediction of "fair and continued high temperature for tomorrow."

The high barometric pressure area, which the local government forecaster says will bring some relief from the heat tonight passed over Montana heading for the St. Lawrence valley. It will reach the Mississippi valley and Northern Plains states Monday or Tuesday, he said, unless it turns further north.

Lak Michigan afforded the only real relief to Chicago and it was estimated tonight that many hundreds of thousands of persons had visited the various bathing beaches during the day. Early in the afternoon several beaches ran short of bathing suits and crowds stood in line for blocks in Lincoln park for half a mile waiting for a chance to get into the water.

At the Clarendon, the newest municipal beach, one man was injured and about twenty were overcome by the heat when a crowd of 500 persons tried to force their way through the doors which had been closed because all the suits were in use. Twenty policemen were required to quell the disturbance.

At 10 o'clock tonight the mercury stood at ninety degrees in Chicago. In an effort to cool the streets and thereby making sleeping easier, Fire Marshal Thomas O'Connor ordered the commanding officer of all fire engine companies to detail three men from each company to sprinkle streets and sidewalks in every part of the city. This is the first time that such an order has been issued to fire departments here.

At that hour the total of deaths attributed to the heat today in reports to the police and coroner had reached forty-six, bringing the total for the present spell in Chicago to 130.

NEW DIVISIONS OF TEXAS GUARDSMEN TO BE ORGANIZED

WILL REPAIR TRUCK ROAD

Only Thirteen Men Drop Out During Fourteen-mile "Hike" of Third and Fourth Illinois Infantry, Viewed by General Funston Yesterday En Route to New Braunfels.

San Antonio, July 29.—Organization of the national guard has reached a new stage with the detailing of nine officers from the general staff to the border, it was announced at Fort Sam Houston today.

The war department informed Major General Funston that eight of these officers would be named chiefs of staff of provisional divisions to be organized from the guardsmen. The ninth will report to the general to be used as he sees fit, but it is assumed that he will receive a similar appointment.

The eight officers to draw divisional assignments are Lieut.-Col. Wm. F. Martin, Maj. Munroe McFarland, Maj. George A. Nugent, Capt. Tenney Ross, Capt. Monroe C. Kerth, Capt. Oliver Edwards, Capt. Briant H. Wells, Capt. Walter C. Babcock. The ninth officer, as yet unassigned, is Capt. Wm. H. Raymond.

The exact number of new divisions to be formed from the guardsmen is not yet known. There are several extra regiments of infantry that might be formed into a division, but these lack auxiliary organizations of cavalry and artillery.

The war department also notified General Funston today that General Pershing's request for $50,000 with which to repair the truck road from Columbus to Colonia Dublan had been granted. Some army men consider this evidence that there is no disposition to bring the army out of Mexico for some time.

The "hike" of the Third and Fourth Illinois Infantry, viewed by General Funston today, was a great success, only thirteen men dropping out during the march of fourteen miles. This was the first lap of a march to New Braunfels, where the regiment will camp.

Troops in Good Condition.

New York, July 29.—Troops along the border and in Mexican territory are in excellent condition insofar as health and sanitation are concerned, according to a report made public today by Dr. Richard Pearson Strong of Harvard university. Dr. Strong made an extended tour of all the border camps at the request of acting Surgeon General Birmingham of the war department.

Petrograd, July 29.—The beginning of the third year of the war finds Russia on the offensive along a large part of her western front. In the Caucasus Russian forces are pushing westward well beyond Erzerum and southward toward the Mesopotamian border. Her armies have been reorganized and strengthened and the shortage of ammunition, which was responsible for one of the most spectacular and at the same time one of the most successfully conducted retreats in history, has been remedied. Today she has shells, cannon and small arms in abundance. Her munition factories have been improved and enlarged and are putting out large quantities of war materials, in addition to the enormous shipments arriving from abroad. The personnel of the croops is as high, if not higher, than it was a year ago. The present financial needs have been adjusted through loans placed in England, France and America.

The outlook today presents a striking contrast to that of last August, which saw the fall of Warsaw and the continuation of the retirement of the Russian armies, with the Germans and Austrians, buoyed up with a long succession of victories, still fiercely engaging in rear-guard attacks. The turning point came early in the fall. On September 9 the Russians stopped the Austrians at Tarnopol. The German wave of invasion continued to roll onward, but in the latter days of September it had spent its force. The Russian armies turned upon the enemy along the line of the Dwina, Berezina, Shara, Styr and Sereth rivers and checked them there. Desperate repeated efforts of the Germans to capture Riga and Dvinsk, in which they hoped to establish winter bases, failed. They attacked again and again throughout the winter, but the Rurssian line held—and still holds.

EMPEROR NICHOLAS PERSONALLY COMMANDS.

Emperor Nicholas took personal command of the armies early in September, and since then has been continuously at general staff headquarters here and there along the front, counselling officers, cheering and encouraging the men. He appointed Gen. M. V. Alexeiff, who was the right hand man of General Ivanoff during the latter's brilliant campaign in Galicia during the fall and winter of 1914, to be chief of staff, and Grand Duke Nicholas, hitherto commander-in-chief, was assigned to command in the Caucasus.

The winter saw offensives and counter offensives locally in various sections of the western front, but no definite advance was undertaken until January, when the Russians moved forward slightly along the 200-mile line from Czartorysk to the Rumanian frontier—the scene of General Brussiloff's recent successes; but the spring thaw put an end to the movement and the armies settled into another period of inertia which lasted until the beginning of June, when General Brussiloff, who had recently been appointed successor to General Ivanoff as commander of the southern armies, began the drive which carried the Russian front forward to the Stokhod and to Kolomea on the west and overran the entire province of Bukowina.

Meanwhile Grand Duke Nicholas had been justifying the wisdom of his appointmen to the command in the Caucasus. He reorganized the armies which had been carrying the struggle against the Turks with varying success since the beginning of the war and by New Year's day had started a campaign along definite lines. The Turks were driven back upon Erzerum and the Russians on February 16, after overcoming what appeared to be insurmountable obstacles in the way of difficult mountainous country and fearful weather conditions, forced the surrender of Erzerum and scattered the Turkish armies. In the succeeding months they carried the advance beyond Mamakhatum fifty miles further west. On April 19 Trebizond, an important port on the Black Sea, capitulated. The more recent captures of Beiburt, an important stronghold between Trebizond and Mamakhatum, followed. To the southward the armies occupied the greater part of Kurdistan including the cities of Bitlis, Revanduz, Serdasht, Khanikin and Kermanshah, constituting a front of 400 miles from the sea southeastward into western Persia.

General Brusisloff's advance reached its point of deepest penetration in Bukowina, where it pushed the enemy back sixty-five miles and gained an average of twenty-five miles along a total front of 275 miles from the Kovel-Sarny railway to Rumania. The Russian commander cut the forces under General Planzer into pieces and showed them into the Carpathian mountains; had General Bothmer fighting on the defensive west of the Stripa, General von Boehm-Ermolli hard pressed before Brody in Galicia, the eastern defense of Lemberg, and General von Linsingen and Archduke Ferdinand engaged in a life and death struggle along the Stokhod before Kovel.

RUSSIANS BAG 300,000 PRISONERS.

General Grussiloff's stupendous bag of prisoners, according to the latest estimates, numbers 500,000 officers and men, and this is still being increased by thousands and tens of thousands from week to week. It is declared that probably an equal number have been put out of action, counting the dead and wounded. His booty in guns and equipment runs into extravagant figures.

Prospects point to average crop conditions. The shortage of field hands and consequent curtailment of cultivation has been partially overcome by the employment of prisoners of war. The high prices of food are due as much to difficulties of transportation as to shortage of provisions. The scarcity of meat for civilian consumption is due to the fact that the soldiers who, before enlistment, were small consumers, are now receiving daily rations of meat. Considerable benefit is accruing to the Russians from the captured fields, where they are profiting from the thrift of the Galicians. One of the first requisitions made by General Brussiloff was for hands to harvest the abundant crops.

It is a fact widely commented upon here, in Moscow, Kiev and elsewhere that the new troops, recently called to the colors, are sturdy men of good physique and equal to the best troops of the first line.

President Arrives at Fort Monroe

Fortress Monroe, Va., July 29.—President Wilson arrived here late today on the yacht Mayflower. Soon after the armored cruiser North Carolina, which has been patrolling outside the capes on neutrality duty, steamed in and dropped anchor within hailing distance. There followed a long exchange of messages between Mortress Monroe, the Mayflower and the North Carolina, wigwagging continually under darkness when lights were substituted.

The appearance of the North Carolina near the Mayflower and the signalling of Fortress Monroe almost coincident with receipt of reports that the German merchant submarine Deutschland would sail tomorrow aroused great interest along the water front. About 9 o'clock tonight two of the three destroyers which have been off the entrance of Chesapeake bay with the North Carolina came into the roads and joined in the signalling.

The president and his party saw several large sharks in the wake of the yacht as she passed through the lower bay.

Held for Highway Robbery.

Wesley Crippen is being held in connection with the highway robbery of G. M. C. Johnson of Crawford on North Second street Friday night. Johnson is alleged to have been robbed of some thirty dollars after having been thrown to the ground by his assailant.

Officers were recalling last night that it was only one year ago to the day from Friday night that Crippen shot Policeman W. S. Spiller in the reservation, almost fatally wounding the officer.

HOLLAND ON GUARD AGAINST GERMANY

The Hague, Netherlands, July 29.—Holland is anticipating and preparing for a great economic world struggle after the war. It is publicly urged that she must be on her guard against an overwhelming foreign invasion, particularly from Germany, which, even before the war, wielded an almost predominant influence in several spheres of Dutch life. At the same time, the commercial and industrial princes of the Netherlands cherish the hope that in some respects peace may bring them specially favorable opportunities in new and valuable markets.

From either point of view it is demanded that Holland shall economically arm herself while there is yet time, particularly emphasizing the importance of an improved foreign intelligence. The result is that a special commercial envoy has already been charged with investigations in Russia, and a bill has now been introduced by Dr. John London, the minister of foreign affairs, to vote money for an extension of the Dutch economic intelligence service abroad.

Dr. London proposes to make the service more mobile by enabling the professional consuls to travel far more extensively in their consular districts and establish personal relations with the honorary consuls and vice-consuls with whom they have to co-operate. Special measures are also to be taken to enable them to become better acquainted with the Dutch colonies. A number of consular officials in general service are also to be held at the disposal of the foreign office for special missions and charges of a temporary nature, with the object of keeping Dutch agriculture, industry and commerce well informed. And finally, experts will be employed to report and advise on technical matters, some of them joining the permanent staff. A sum of $20,000 is asked for to cover the estimated expenditure in the remaining months of the current year.

Man Imprisoned as German Spy Kills Himself

Boston, July 29.—Frank A. Doring of Quincy who arrived yesterday from Liverpool where he said he had been imprisoned for several weeks on suspicion of being a German spy, killed himself by shooting here today. He left a note in which he alleged that cruel treatment by the British authorities was responsible for his act.

The note said that Doring was arrested while on his way to France to establish a factory for the manufacture of wooden legs for injured soldiers and that when the fact of his German parentage became known to the police he was subjected to many indignities and cruelties.

Will Employ Idle Mexicans.

Laredo, July 29.—With a view to furnishing employment to upwards of 3000 Mexicans who are now in want, one of the large smelters at Monterey will open August 1, according to Vicente Ferrara, one of the owners of the smelter, who left here for Monterey today.

Street Car Strike Paralyzes Traffic

New York, July 29.—After many street demonstrations tonight the strike of motormen and conductors which for several days has paralyzed surface car traffic in the Bronx and adjoining portions of Westchester county, spread to the lines of the Third avenue railway in Manhattan.

Cars were stoned and there were scenes of disorder that the police apparently were unable to control for several hours. A temporary suspension of service was ordered but later arrangements were made to run cars with uniformed police guards on board.

Pauline Cohen, four years old, was killed today by a car operated by strikebreakers. A policeman was forced to draw his revolver to protect the motorman from a mob.

LEAGUE OF BRITONS TO PUNISH GERMAN KAISER FOR MURDER

London, July 30.—The Liverpool Express says that a league of Britons has been established to secure the trial and punishment of the German emperor and other highly placed Germans "for the murder of Captain Fryatt and other victims."

The members of the league, according to the paper, are pledged to vote against any government which refuses to make an indispensible condition of peace that such tribunal be established and that the emperor and others, if convicted, shall be executed.

PEKIN PALACE IS STRIPPED BY LATE PRESIDENT'S WIVES

Pekin, June 29.—Thirty-five trains were required to carry Yuan Shi-kai's family and their possessions from Pekin to the Yuan Shi-kai home at Changtehfu. The late president was known to have sixteen wives and it has been reported that the number was even greater. One paper is responsible for the statement that in addition to his first wife, who is the legal wife under the Chinese laws, the late president had twenty-six others. Upon the birth of a son to one a few months ago, it was officially announced that Yuan Shi-kai was the father of thirty-one children, sixteen sons and fifteen daughters.

Ever since Yuan Shi-kai's death on June 6, his family have been sending their effects to their southern home, which will be their permanent residence. Trainloads of furniture, trunks and curios of all sorts were moved from the palace grounds in the imperial city. A constant stream of two-wheel Pekin carts has been hauling these possessions to the railway station.

Revolutionists' papers have complained bitterly of the manner in which the Yuan family stripped the palace of curios. It has been charged that the action of the wives and children of Yuan Shi-kai was nothing short of looting, as many of the curios they took were clearly government property, and should not have been removed from the palace.

Many reports have been printed concerning violent rows in whic hthe older sons of Yuan Shi-kai engaged concerning the division of their father's property. Yuan Ko-ting, the eldest son, who is now about thirty-eight, and several of the other grown-up sons had decided differences as to the medical treatment which the late father should have, and are reported to have been engaged in violent quarreis while he was lying at the point of death.

Many strange rumors concerning the various wives of the late president have been circulated among the superstitious and ignorant Chinese since Yuan Shi-kai's death. One rumor, which gained general circulation, but is not credited by foreigners, is that the second wife killed herself after Yuan Shi-kai's death.

RECOUNT SHERIFF RACE IS STAYED

After the county democratic executive committee had yielded to the request to make a recount of the primary ballot in the case of the sheriff race yesterday, legal objection on the score that a formal contest had not been made of the results was made and the ballot boxes were denied the counting committee by the county clerk.

The committee recessed after its session yesterday, after failing to declare the official results of the recent primary, to meet again Tuesday morning. Nothing will be done in the way of an official count until this meeting.

State Troops in Federal Service to Protect U. S. From Invasion Only

Washington, July 29.—Mooted questions about the status of state troops called into the federal service for the Mexican emergency are recited in an exhaustive opinion given Secretary Baker today by Brig. Gen. Crowder, judge advocate general of the army. General Crowder holds that the state soldiers are not subject to duty outside of the United States unless and until they are formally drafted by order of the president; that they are under control of the federal government and not of their respective state governors; and that they are entitled to the same pensions and privileges as regulars.

While congress by joint resolution has conferred upon the president authority to draft the militia and national guard in his discretion, the general points out that the president had not exercised that authority. In the meantime he says the status of the state troops "is that of militia called into the service of the United States for one of the purposes specified in the constitution, that is to protect the United States from invasion."

There are three classes of troops now in federal service, according to the opinion. They are first "the organized militia" of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico, summoned by the president in his first call for state troops under the Dick law of 1903; second, the national guard automatically placed in federal service under the new national defense act, the Hay-Chamberlain bill; and third, the regular troops. Militia which have not qualified under the new law have status identical with those of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

Guard Newspaper Correspondents Are Barred.

Laredo, Tex., July 29.—Officers and enlisted men of the Missouri National Guard stationed here are prohibited from acting as newspaper correspondents under orders issued here tonight by General Clark, commanding Missouri troops in the Laredo district. The orders were issued, it is understood, from General Funston's headquarters at San Antonio, and are to be made general.

The order, it is understood, will affect several newspapers for whom officers and enlisted men in the guard have been acting as border correspondents.

Former Police Chief of Danville Proven Escaped Convict Get Full Pardon

Atlanta, Ga., July 29.—Thomas Edgar Stripling, who served as chief of police of Danville, Va., for almost four of the fourteen years that he was an escaped convice, was granted a full pardon by Governor Nat E. Harris at 6 o'clock tonight.

Stripling on September 4, 1897, shot and killed W. J. Cornett, his neighbor, in Harris county, Georgia, firing through a window of Cornett's home at night. Stripling testified at the trial that Cornett had insulted his wife and married sister and that Cornett had threatened to kill him.

Stripling was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. While his case was awaiting outcome of an appeal he escaped from jail. He eventually made his way to North Carolina, where his wife joined him in 1899. He entered the employ of the Southern railway as special agent under the name of "R. E. Morris."

Later, at Danville, Va., he was elected chief of police, where he was arrested and returned to Georgia and again placed in prison. His wife and their eight children took up their residence near the prison farm.

Packing House Strikers Reject Company's Offer

East St. Louis, Ill., July 29.—Striking employes of the packing houses here today rejected a proposition that they return to work at the plants of Armour & Co., Swift & Co. and Morris & Co.

About 4,300 men are out in East St. Louis. Several hundred men also are out in St. Louis, Mo.

Dennis Lake, national organizer for the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers' union of America, told the strikers that if the strike were not settled within a reasonable time by concessions of the packers the Chicago, Kansas and Omaha packing plants would be "closed tight to tie up the meat supply of the country."

Menace, Anti-Catholic Paper, Is Dynamited

Springfield, Mo., July 29.—Dynamite was used in the effort to wreck the plant of the Menace Publishing company at Aurora, Mo., near here, early this morning, according to Chas. Terry, sheriff of Lawrence counyt, who completed an examination of the partly wrecked building this afternoon. Sheriff Terry declared he had found no particles of metal to confirm beliefs that a bomb had been used.

No wires that might have connected the charge of dynamite with electrical batteries were found. The authorities apparently are without clues.

Sister: Read My Free Offer!

I am a woman.
I know a woman's trials.
I know her need of sympathy and help.

If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. FORTY-SIX DEATHS IN CHICAGO CAUSED BY HEAT YESTERDAY

FIRE MARSHAL DETAILS FIRE ENGINE COMPANIES TO SPRINKLE STREETS AND SIDEWALKS TO COOL THE ATMOSPHERE IN ORDER TO SLEEP.

COOLER WEATHER NOW COMING

Lake Michigan Bathing Beaches Afforded Only Heat to Chicago. Twenty Men Injured When 500 Attempted to Force Way Through Door of Municipal Bathing House.

Chicago, July 29.—Nearly the entire middlewest sweltered through another day of hundred degree weather and tonight received the prediction of "fair and continued high temperature for tomorrow."

The high barometric pressure area, which the local government forecaster says will bring some relief from the heat tonight passed over Montana heading for the St. Lawrence valley. It will reach the Mississippi valley and Northern Plains states Monday or Tuesday, he said, unless it turns further north.

Lak Michigan afforded the only real relief to Chicago and it was estimated tonight that many hundreds of thousands of persons had visited the various bathing beaches during the day. Early in the afternoon several beaches ran short of bathing suits and crowds stood in line for blocks in Lincoln park for half a mile waiting for a chance to get into the water.

At the Clarendon, the newest municipal beach, one man was injured and about twenty were overcome by the heat when a crowd of 500 persons tried to force their way through the doors which had been closed because all the suits were in use. Twenty policemen were required to quell the disturbance.

At 10 o'clock tonight the mercury stood at ninety degrees in Chicago. In an effort to cool the streets and thereby making sleeping easier, Fire Marshal Thomas O'Connor ordered the commanding officer of all fire engine companies to detail three men from each company to sprinkle streets and sidewalks in every part of the city. This is the first time that such an order has been issued to fire departments here.

At that hour the total of deaths attributed to the heat today in reports to the police and coroner had reached forty-six, bringing the total for the present spell in Chicago to 130.

NEW DIVISIONS OF TEXAS GUARDSMEN TO BE ORGANIZED

WILL REPAIR TRUCK ROAD

Only Thirteen Men Drop Out During Fourteen-mile "Hike" of Third and Fourth Illinois Infantry, Viewed by General Funston Yesterday En Route to New Braunfels.

San Antonio, July 29.—Organization of the national guard has reached a new stage with the detailing of nine officers from the general staff to the border, it was announced at Fort Sam Houston today.

The war department informed Major General Funston that eight of these officers would be named chiefs of staff of provisional divisions to be organized from the guardsmen. The ninth will report to the general to be used as he sees fit, but it is assumed that he will receive a similar appointment.

The eight officers to draw divisional assignments are Lieut.-Col. Wm. F. Martin, Maj. Munroe McFarland, Maj. George A. Nugent, Capt. Tenney Ross, Capt. Monroe C. Kerth, Capt. Oliver Edwards, Capt. Briant H. Wells, Capt. Walter C. Babcock. The ninth officer, as yet unassigned, is Capt. Wm. H. Raymond.

The exact number of new divisions to be formed from the guardsmen is not yet known. There are several extra regiments of infantry that might be formed into a division, but these lack auxiliary organizations of cavalry and artillery.

The war department also notified General Funston today that General Pershing's request for $50,000 with which to repair the truck road from Columbus to Colonia Dublan had been granted. Some army men consider this evidence that there is no disposition to bring the army out of Mexico for some time.

The "hike" of the Third and Fourth Illinois Infantry, viewed by General Funston today, was a great success, only thirteen men dropping out during the march of fourteen miles. This was the first lap of a march to New Braunfels, where the regiment will camp.

Troops in Good Condition.

New York, July 29.—Troops along the border and in Mexican territory are in excellent condition insofar as health and sanitation are concerned, according to a report made public today by Dr. Richard Pearson Strong of Harvard university. Dr. Strong made an extended tour of all the border camps at the request of acting Surgeon General Birmingham of the war department.

Petrograd, July 29.—The beginning of the third year of the war finds Russia on the offensive along a large part of her western front. In the Caucasus Russian forces are pushing westward well beyond Erzerum and southward toward the Mesopotamian border. Her armies have been reorganized and strengthened and the shortage of ammunition, which was responsible for one of the most spectacular and at the same time one of the most successfully conducted retreats in history, has been remedied. Today she has shells, cannon and small arms in abundance. Her munition factories have been improved and enlarged and are putting out large quantities of war materials, in addition to the enormous shipments arriving from abroad. The personnel of the croops is as high, if not higher, than it was a year ago. The present financial needs have been adjusted through loans placed in England, France and America.

The outlook today presents a striking contrast to that of last August, which saw the fall of Warsaw and the continuation of the retirement of the Russian armies, with the Germans and Austrians, buoyed up with a long succession of victories, still fiercely engaging in rear-guard attacks. The turning point came early in the fall. On September 9 the Russians stopped the Austrians at Tarnopol. The German wave of invasion continued to roll onward, but in the latter days of September it had spent its force. The Russian armies turned upon the enemy along the line of the Dwina, Berezina, Shara, Styr and Sereth rivers and checked them there. Desperate repeated efforts of the Germans to capture Riga and Dvinsk, in which they hoped to establish winter bases, failed. They attacked again and again throughout the winter, but the Rurssian line held—and still holds.

EMPEROR NICHOLAS PERSONALLY COMMANDS.

Emperor Nicholas took personal command of the armies early in September, and since then has been continuously at general staff headquarters here and there along the front, counselling officers, cheering and encouraging the men. He appointed Gen. M. V. Alexieff, who was the right hand man of General Ivanoff during the latter's brilliant campaign in Galicia during the fall and winter of 1914, to be chief of staff, and Grand Duke Nicholas, hitherto commander-in-chief, was assigned to command in the Caucasus.

The winter saw offensives and counter offensives locally in various sections of the western front, but no definite advance was undertaken until January, when the Russians moved forward slightly along the 200-mile line from Czartorysk to the Rumanian frontier—the scene of General Brussiloff's recent successes; but the spring thaw put an end to the movement and the armies settled into another period of inertia which lasted until the beginning of June, when General Brussiloff, who had recently been appointed successor to General Ivanoff as commander of the southern armies, began the drive which carried the Russian front forward to the Stokhod and to Kolomea on the west and overran the entire province of Bukowina.

Meanwhile Grand Duke Nicholas had been justifying the wisdom of his appointmen to the command in the Caucasus. He reorganized the armies which had been carrying the struggle against the Turks with varying success since the beginning of the war and by New Year's day had started a campaign along definite lines. The Turks were driven back upon Erzerum and the Russians on February 16, after overcoming what appeared to be insurmountable obstacles in the way of difficult mountainous country and fearful weather conditions, forced the surrender of Erzerum and scattered the Turkish armies. In the succeeding months they carried the advance beyond Mamakhatum fifty miles further west. On April 19 Trebizond, an important port on the Black Sea, capitulated. The more recent captures of BeibURT, an important stronghold between Trebizond and Mamakhatum, followed. To the southward the armies occupied the greater part of Kurdistan including the cities of Bitlis, Revanduz, Serdasht, Khanikin and Kermanshah, constituting a front of 400 miles from the sea southeastward into western Persia.

General Brusisloff's advance reached its point of deepest penetration in Bukowina, where it pushed the enemy back sixty-five miles and gained an average of twenty-five miles along a total front of 275 miles from the Rovel-Sarny railway to Rumania. The Russian commander cut the forces under General Planzer into pieces and showed them into the Carpathian mountains; had General Bothmer fighting on the defensive west of the Strips, General von Boehm-Ermolli hard pressed before Brody in Galicia, the eastern defense of Lemberg, and General von Linsingen and Archduke Ferdinand engaged in a life and death struggle aieng the Stokhod before Kovel.

RUSSIANS BAG 300,000 PRISONERS.

General Grussiloff's stupendous bag of prisoners, according to the latest estimates, numbers 500,000 officers and men, and this is still being increased by thousands and tens of thousands from week to week. It is declared that probably an equal number have been put out of action, counting the dead and wounded. His booty in guns and equipment runs into extravagant figures.

Prospects point to average crop conditions. The shortage of field hands and consequent curtailment of cultivation has been partially overcome by the employment of prisoners of war. The high prices of food are due as much to difficulties of transportation as to shortage of provisions. The scarcity of meat for civilian consumption is due to the fact that the soldiers who, before enlistment, were small consumers, are now receiving daily rations of meat. Considerable benefit is accruing to the Russians from the captured fields, where they are profiting from the thrift of the Galicians. One of the first requisitions made by General Brussiloff was for hands to harvest the abundant crops.

It is a fact widely commented upon here, in Moscow, Kiev and elsewhere that the new troops, recently called to the colors, are sturdy men of good physique and equal to the best troops of the first line.

President Arrives at Fort Monroe

Fortress Monroe, Va., July 29.—President Wilson arrived here late today on the yacht Mayflower. Soon after the armored cruiser North Carolina, which has been patrolling outside the capes on neutrality duty, steamed in and dropped anchor within hailing distance. There followed a long exchange of messages between Mortress Monroe, the Mayflower and the North Carolina, wigwagging continually under darkness when lights were substituted.

The appearance of the North Carolina near the Mayflower and the signalling of Fortress Monroe almost coincident with receipt of reports that the German merchant submarine Deutschland would sail tomorrow aroused great interest along the water front. About 9 o'clock tonight two of the three destroyers which have been off the entrance of Chesapeake bay with the North Carolina came into the roads and joined in the signalling.

The president and his party saw several large sharks in the wake of the yacht as she passed through the lower bay.

Held for Highway Robbery.

Wesley Crippen is being held in connection with the highway robbery of G. M. C. Johnson of Crawford on North Second street Friday night. Johnson is alleged to have been robbed of some thirty dollars after having been thrown to the ground by his assailant.

Officers were recalling last night that it was only one year ago to the day from Friday night that Crippen shot Policeman W. S. Spiller in the reservation, almost fatally wounding the officer.

HOLLAND ON GUARD AGAINST GERMANY

The Hague, Netherlands, July 29.—Holland is anticipating and preparing for a great economic world struggle after the war. It is publicly urged that she must be on her guard against an overwhelming foreign invasion, particularly from Germany, which, even before the war, wielded an almost predominant influence in several spheres of Dutch life. At the same time, the commercial and industrial princes of the Netherlands cherish the hope that in some respects peace may bring them specially favorable opportunities in new and valuable markets.

From either point of view it is demanded that Holland shall economically arm herself while there is yet time, particularly emphasizing the importance of an improved foreign intelligence. The result is that a special commercial envoy has already been charged with investigations in Russia, and a bill has now been introduced by Dr. John London, the minister of foreign affairs, to vote money for an extension of the Dutch economic intelligence service abroad.

Dr. London proposes to make the service more mobile by enabling the professional consuls to travel far more extensively in their consular districts and establish personal relations with the honorary consuls and vice-consuls with whom they have to co-operate. Special measures are also to be taken to enable them to become better acquainted with the Dutch colonies. A number of consular officials in general service are also to be held at the disposal of the foreign office for special missions and charges of a temporary nature, with the object of keeping Dutch agriculture, industry and commerce well informed. And finally, experts will be employed to report and advise on technical matters, some of them joining the permanent staff. A sum of $20,000 is asked for to cover the estimated expenditure in the remaining months of the current year.

Man Imprisoned as German Spy Kills Himself

Boston, July 29.—Frank A. Doring of Quincy who arrived yesterday from Liverpool where he said he had been imprisoned for several weeks on suspicion of being a German spy, killed himself by shooting here today. He left a note in which he alleged that cruel treatment by the British authorities was responsible for his act.

The note said that Doring was arrested while on his way to France to establish a factory for the manufacture of wooden legs for injured soldiers and that when the fact of his German parentage became known to the police he was subjected to many indignities and cruelties.

Will Employ Idle Mexicans.

Laredo, July 29.—With a view to furnishing employment to upwards of 3000 Mexicans who are now in want, one of the large smelters at Monterey will open August 1, according to Vicente Ferrara, one of the owners of the smelter, who left here for Monterey today.

Street Car Strike Paralyzes Traffic

New York, July 29.—After many street demonstrations tonight the strike of motormen and conductors which for several days has paralyzed surface car traffic in the Bronx and adjoining portions of Westchester county, spread to the lines of the Third avenue railway in Manhattan.

Cars were stoned and there were scenes of disorder that the police apparently were unable to control for several hours. A temporary suspension of service was ordered but later arrangements were made to run cars with uniformed police guards on board. Pauline Cohen, four years old, was killed today by a car operated by strikebreakers. A policeman was forced to draw his revolver to protect the motorman from a mob.

LEAGUE OF BRITONS TO PUNISH GERMAN KAISER FOR MURDER

London, July 30.—The Liverpool Express says that a league of Britons has been established to secure the trial and punishment of the German emperor and other highly placed Germans "for the murder of Captain Fryatt and other victims."

The members of the league, according to the paper, are pledged to vote against any government which refuses to make an indispensible condition of peace that such tribunal be established and that the emperor and others, if convicted, shell be executed.

PEKIN PALACE IS STRIPPED BY LATE PRESIDENT'S WIVES

Pekin, June 29.—Thirty-five trains were required to carry Yuan Shi-kai's family and their possessions from Pekin to the Yuan Shi-kai home at Changtehfu. The late president was known to have sixteen wives and it has been reported that the number was even greater. One paper is responsible for the statement that in addition to his first wife, who is the legal wife under the Chinese laws, the late president had twenty-six others. Upon the birth of a son to one a few months ago, it was officially announced that Yuan Shi-kai was the father of thirty-one children, sixteen sons and fifteen daughters.

Ever since Yuan Shi-kai's death on June 6, his family have been sending their effects to their southern home, which will be their permanent residence. Trainloads of furniture, trunks and curios of all sorts were moved from the palace grounds in the imperial city. A constant stream of two-wheel Pekin carts has been hauling these possessions to the railway station.

Revolutionists' papers have complained bitterly of the manner in which the Yuan family stripped the palace of curios. It has been charged that the action of the wives and children of Yuan Shi-kai was nothing short of looting, as many of the curios they took were clearly government property, and should not have been removed from the palace.

Many reports have been printed concerning violent rows in whic hthe older sons of Yuan Shi-kai engaged concerning the division of their father's property. Yuan Ko-ting, the eldest son, who is now about thirty-eight, and several of the other grown-up sons had decided differences as to the medical treatment which the late father should have, and are reported to have been engaged in violent quarrels while he was lying at the point of death.

Many strange rumors concerning the various wives of the late president have been circulated among the superstitious and ignorant Chinese since Yuan Shi-kai's death. One rumor, which gained general circulation, but is not credited by foreigners, is that the second wife killed herself after Yuan Shi-kai's death.

RECOUNT SHERIFF RACE IS STAYED

After the county democratic executive committee had yielded to the request to make a recount of the primary ballot in the case of the sheriff race yesterday, legal objection on the score that a formal contest had not been made of the results was made and the ballot boxes were denied the counting committee by the county clerk.

The committee recessed after its session yesterday, after failing to declare the official results of the recent primary, to meet again Tuesday morning. Nothing will be done in the way of an official count until this meeting.

State Troops in Federal Service to Protect U. S. From Invasion Only

Washington, July 29.—Mooted questions about the status of state troops called into the federal service for the Mexican emergency are recited in an exhaustive opinion given Secretary Baker today by Brig. Gen. Crowder, judge advocate general of the army. General Crowder holds that the state soldiers are not subject to duty outside of the United States unless and until they are formally drafted by order of the president; that they are under control of the federal government and not of their respective state governors; and that they are entitled to the same pensions and privileges as regulars.

While congress by joint resolution has conferred upon the president authority to draft the militia and national guard in his discretion, the general points out that the president had not exercised that authority. In the meantime he says the status of the state troops "is that of militia called into the service of the United States for one of the purposes specified in the constitution, that is to protect the United States from invasion."

There are three classes of troops now in federal service, according to the opinion. They are first "the organized militia" of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico, summoned by the president in his first call for state troops under the Dick law of 1903; second, the national guard automatically placed in federal service under the new national defense act, the Hay-Chamberlain bill; and third, the regular troops. Militia which have not qualified under the new law have status identical with those of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

Guard Newspaper Correspondents Are Barred.

Laredo, Tex., July 29.—Officers and enlisted men of the Missouri National Guard stationed here are prohibited from acting as newspaper correspondents under orders issued here tonight by General Clark, commanding Missouri troops in the Laredo district. The orders were issued, it is understood, from General Funston's headquarters at San Antonio, and are to be made general.

The order, it is understood, will affect several newspapers for whom officers and enlisted men in the guard have been acting as border correspondents.

Atlanta, Ga., July 29.—Thomas Edgar Stripling, who served as chief of police of Danville, Va., for almost four of the fourteen years that he was an escaped convice, was granted a full pardon by Governor Nat E. Harris at 6 o'clock tonight.

Stripling on September 4, 1897, shot and killed W. J. Cornett, his neighbor, in Harris county, Georgia, firing through a window of Cornett's home at night. Stripling testified at the trial that Cornett had insulted his wife and married sister and that Cornett had threatened to kill him.

Stripling was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. While his case was awaiting outcome of an appeal he escaped from jail. He eventually made his way to North Carolina, where his wife joined him in 1899. He entered the employ of the Southern railway as special agent under the name of "R. E. Morris."

Later, at Danville, Va., he was elected chief of police, where he was arrested and returned to Georgia and again placed in prison. His wife and their eight children took up their residence near the prison farm.

Packing House Strikers Reject Company's Offer

East St. Louis, Ill., July 29.—Striking employes of the packing houses here today rejected a proposition that they return to work at the plants of Armour & Co., Swift & Co. and Morris & Co.

About 4,300 men are out in East St. Louis. Several hundred men also are out in St. Louis, Mo.

Dennis Lake, national organizer for the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers' union of America, told the strikers that if the strike were not settled within a reasonable time by concessions of the packers the Chicago, Kansas and Omaha packing plants would be "closed tight to tie up the meat supply of the country."

Menace, Anti-Catholic Paper, Is Dynamited

Springfield, Mo., July 29.—Dynamite was used in the effort to wreck the plant of the Menace Publishing company at Aurora, Mo., near here, early this morning, according to Chas. Terry, sheriff of Lawrence counyt, who completed an examination of the partly wrecked building this afternoon. Sheriff Terry declared he had found no particles of metal to confirm beliefs that a bomb had been used.

No wires that might have connected the charge of dynamite with electrical batteries were found. The authorities apparently are without clues.

Sister: Read My Free Offer!

I am a woman.
I know a woman's trials.
I know her need of sympathy and help.

If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Women's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address

EXECUTION STAGED BY FEDERAL JUDGE

New York, July 29.—A stay of execution in behalf of Charles S. Stielow, a farm hand, was granted tonight by Supreme Court Justice Guy, three hours before the man condemned to death for a double murder at Medina was to have been executed at Sing Sing prison. It was the second time since dawn that the jurist had interceded to save the life of Stielow, whose keepers in the death house and whose neighbors in his home town are firmly convinced he is innocent of the crime for which he was convicted.

The order directs the district attorney of Orleans county to show cause before a justice of the supreme court on August 23 why a new trial should not be granted Stielow.

Newspapermen Are Interned

London, July 29.—A message received here today by the Wireless Press from Berne, Switzerland, says:

"The German military authorities have established a military camp for troublesome Germans. A decree promulgated on Monday consigned to this camp the entire editorial staff of the Leipsig Volks Zeitung, a daily newspaper. These journalists are to be interned until the end of the war."

MAY ESTABLISH FEDERAL LABOR CLEARING BUREAUS.

Washington, July 29.—Plans for establishing federal labor clearing houses in every state were announced tonight by Commissioner General Caminetti of the immigration bureau, who directs the department of labor's employment service. This is the most important of several steps decided upon to strengthen and widen the scope of the government's campaign against unemployment.

The state headquarters will undertake to co-ordinate information as to local conditions and make possible a steady flow of men who are out of work to the positions for which they are best suited. They will work in co-operation with the existing state and municipal bodies and with employers.

Mr. Caminetti also made known that he has worked out arrangements with the war and navy departments by which it is hoped that all men in the army and navy on retiring may find ready for them the kind of work they want in the place where they want it.

A young men's and boys' department similar to the women's and girls' department inaugurated last May is to be created by the service.

WACO BUILDERS HAVE GET-TOGETHER FEED

DALLASITES ARE GUESTS

Live Members Dallas Organization Come Down for Rousing Feast. Start Campaign.

Probably the greatest get-together meeting in the history of Waco builders was held last night at the Raleigh hotel when the Waco Builders' exchange had as guests members of the Dallas Builders' exchange, the visitors having come here for the purpose of encouraging the Waco builders and urging them forward into a campaign for a larger membership and greater work. Secretary O. N. Liggitt of the Dallas Builders' exchange promised to stay here through Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, devoting his time to this campaign. The benefits of organization were stressed by speakers, and the way paved for the proposed campaign. About three-score of the Waco building men and allied lines were present to greet the Dallas visitors. Prizes were given by Alf Edwards of Waco and W. A. Browning and Mr. McKennon of Dallas last night to stimulate interest in the coming campaign.

Toastmaster Cross not only set the company at ease at the outset, but put them in good humor by facetious opening remarks, glimpsing the good things to come from the toastmaster's department throughout the banquet.

Singing by a quartette followed the opening remarks of Toastmaster Cross and at later intervals as the banquet progressed. The quartette was composed of Earl Busby, Carl Austermuehle, Gaylord N. Bebout and J. B. Richardson. As one number the boys sang "Tipperary," the builders joining in the chorus, by request of O. N. Liggett of Dallas.

DALLAS MAN TALKS ON CO-OPERATION.

After the banquet Toastmaster Cross made a happy talk, introducing speakers of the evening. W. A. Browning of Dallas, a man of affairs, was the first speaker, and he spoke on "Co-operation." Mr. Browning showed the need of co-operation all along the line, and said that this organization was the thing to educate the builders and show them the value of co-operation. He urged attendance on meetings, exchange of ideas among builders, material men, plumbers, tinners, etc. The speaker complimented Waco as an example of co-operation, and said J. W. Riggins had been one of Waco's best boosters. He closed by ruging greater co-operation and greater good fellowship. The speaker created a laugh by calling on W. J. Geisler, Louis Bergstrom and J. J. Twaddell and reading "fake" telegrams to them. An invitation to call on the Dallas Builders' exchange for aid in encouraging the Waco organization was extended.

R. J. Potts of Waco was called out and spoke briefly, expressing appreciation of the Waco Builders' exchange and its work. Mr. Potts said there was plenty of business to be had, and organization would be good for the builders and the public.

WACO SHOULD HAVE A STRONG EXCHANGE.

D. C. McCord, member of the board of control of the National Builders' exchange and a director of the Dallas Builders' exchange, was introduced by Toastmaster Cross. Mr. McCord congratulated the builders of Waco in having one of the livest cities in Texas, and referred, among other things, to the benefits of Brazos navigation. Small organizations had to come first, said the speaker, but they would grow if pushed, and he thought the push was in Waco all right and would make of the Waco Builders' exchange the success it should be. He reviewed the history of the organization of the exchange in Dallas, and claimed that wonderful good had come from the organization; it was necessary to organize in this day, and properly conducted organizations were good for all. A builders' exchange should include all crafts and elements having anything to do with the building business, and Dallas had followed this plan, having a paid secretary and a membership of nearly 300. Waco ought to have a paid secretary, its own quarters, etc. The speaker spoke of the national organization of builders, and its affiliated parts; he spoke of its objects and scope, applying them to the local organizations. He said efficiency, co-operation, harmonious relations of all concerned with the building business in any manner were some of the objects of the organizations. He outlined the relation of the national and the individual organizations, indicating that there was no conflict at any point. The speaker read from the rules of the national organization, which urged fairness, justice, care and proper dealing in the matter of bidding on contracts, and said a fair profit should be kept in mind, and no one could object to this; low bidding and poor work were good for no one, said the speaker. He insisted on the rights of subcontractors in the matter of bidding. The motto should be the Golden Rule among building men in all places. The Dallas boys had come down to encourage Waco in getting on foot an organization which would push out for larger and better things, keep the men acquainted with each other, etc. The exchanges were not to control prices or work against organized labor, for certainly laboring men had the right to organize and protect themselves. He spoke of the benefits of the eight-hour day and other things for the good of humanity, worked out by labor unions. Organization was good all along the line, and certainly the builders should follow suit. The speaker thanked the Waco builders for their hospitality and good fellowship, inviting the Waco builders to come to Dallas.

W. C. TORBETT IS SPEAKER.

W. C. Torbett of Waco said he had for a long time favored organization, and had worked at it, but it required much patience and effort; he thought the effort was worth while. There was room for all, and he urged that everybody concerned would take an interest in the movement under way for a better and larger organization.

L. G. Moody of Dallas delivered what the toastmaster termed a "talk." He spoke briefly, emphasizing the good of organizations such as the one under discussion.

D. J. Mahoney, Dallas, expressed pleasure at the meeting of Dallas and Waco builders, predicting good results for both organizations. He thought a great era of prosperity was soon coming, and all should prepare for this, the builders among the rest; organization was more necessary than it had ever been. The speaker mentioned legislation of recent years, which he said was unwise and hurtful, and it was all the more necessary to organize. He spoke of ruinous conditions which have existed as to low bidding and poor work in some cases.

Edgar Witt was introduced by the toastmaster as the man who had aided in the passage of the material man's law while in the legislature of Texas. Mr. Witt delivered an interesting talk on the relation of the bidder, material men and others concerned in building matters. His talk was roundly applauded.

DALLAS SECRETARY ENCOURAGES WACOANS.

O. N. Liggett of Dallas "talked to the boys" as a closing feature. He is the secretary of the Dallas Builders' exchange, and gave interesting facts regarding building exchanges. He promised to stay in Waco Monday and Tuesday to aid in putting on members and the Waco builders promised to do their best to secure a going organization. He outlined plans which will be followed in "ginkering up" matters in Waco. He asked for helpers in the work to be done Monday and Tuesday in getting the builders on a really creditable and satisfactory basis. He showed, in concrete form, the benefits of organizing, and the benefits to the members individually, explaining the daily workings of an exchange with a paid secretary.

Toastmaster Cross spoke of the great place in the world occupied by the builders, giving them a great place in the sun, commending heartily the plan of organizing and getting together. He thanked enthusiastically the Dallas builders for coming to Waco, and the banquet ended.

DALLASITES ARE GUESTS OF HONOR.

The delegation from the Dallas Builders' exchange came down yesterday afternoon to attend the banquet, reaching Waco about 6:45. Among those in the Dallas delegation were the following: O. N. Liggett, D. C. McCord, W. H. King, R. M. Gallaher, W. A. Browning, D. J. Mahoney, L. G. Moody, M. R. McKennon, W. P. Jackson, John Carmichael, D. H. Humphrey. They came to Waco by the Dallas-Waco interurban. The Dallas builders were met by Waco builders, in machines, and driven over the city before the banquet. They were pleased with Waco and their hospitable reception. Dallas speakers were very much in evidence when it came to speaking, and sought to arouse interest in the Waco organization of builders by their remarks.

WILL BUILD UP LOCAL EXCHANGE.

Speaking of the effort to increase the membership of the Waco Builders' exchange last night, E. H. Bruyere of Waco said that applications are coming fast and at every meeting. He said: "We want as members every man connected with the building business in any manner, and they are coming. We must get together in the right kind of an organization, and I am encouraged to believe that this is going to result."

N. S. Hill and others expressed the same view. Mr. Bruyere is president of the Waco Builders' exchange.

August Bettis Is Back to Reorganize a Waco Band

August Bettis, who has been prominently connected with the musical interests of the city, has returned after several months' connection with a dramatic troupe and is planning to reorganize the Bettis band.

Since the departure of the Alessandro band to the border, Waco has been practically without a regularly organized professional band and the city has been in a quandary about the regular summer concerts. The former concerts of the Bettis band will be remembered with pleasure.

It was stated by Professor Bettis yesterday that he expected to soon have a band well organized and that he would apply for the contract of municipal band. He announced that the first rehearsal would be held tomorrow.

Stotter and Trantham Win Final Honors in Tennis Doubles

Yesterday afternoon brought to a close the most successful city tennis tournament ever held here. Over thirty different players took part in either the singles or doubles. It is thought by all tennis enthusiasts that tennis will now enter upon a new career in this city and take the place it rightfully deserves as a recreative sport.

It now seems almost assured that before another season opens the city will install several free municipal courts in various parts of the city. It even seems likely that before fall several courts will be put in Cameron park.

All contestants in the doubles were eliminated by Friday except the two teams which played the championship match Saturday afternoon. These teams were Stotter and Trantham and Daniels and Crawford. This match proved a hard one. Stotter and Trantham took the first set 6-2, then dropped the next one 4-6. The next set went rather easy for Stotter and Trantham 6-2. Then Daniels and Crawford came back strong and took the next set 6-3. Each team now had two sets and the next set was the deciding one as the sets were to be three best out of five. Several deuce games were played and the games went to deuce, but at this stage of the match Stotter and Trantham braced and took the set 7-5. The match as a whole was a good exhibition of tennis, but both teams played lots of in and out tennis.

Stotter was strong at the net and until his opponents in the last two sets resorted to a lobbying game, got in some effective work. Trantham played a safe game and his passing shots netted a great many points. Daniels played a good game all the way through and was so sure that his opponents centered their playing mostly on his teammate. Crawford's lobs were well timed and near the base line and this alone postponed the end for some time.

Mules Back Wagon, Killing Two Children

Natchitoches, La., July 29.——Two children were killed and eleven other persons injured, three probably fatally, as a result of a team of mules backing a wagon carrying members of three families off a bridge over Black lake, near Ebenezer, La., late yesterday, according to reports received here today.

Ten-Cent Cut in Crude Oil.

Ardmore, Okla., July 29.—The Magnolia Petroleum company announces a cut of 10 cents in the price of Healdton crude oil to 60c per barrel, effective July 31. This is the second cut within a week.

Duskey Damsel Uses Revolver Among Crowds

Because her lover had offended her, Della Wright, a negro woman visiting here from Oklahoma, trailed her dusky beau, Eugene Curtis, around the crowded public square district yesterday afternoon with a revolver and the three shots fired created a near panic in the thousand or more pedestrians who had congregated about this section. Chief Guy McNamara, Officer Mack Kennedy and Henry Hudson made a run for the belligerent negro woman and were only able to catch her after several blocks of hard sprinting. She was reluctant to give up possession of the weapon and the officers had to take it from her. Curtis received a painful flesh wound in the arm.

Coming just before the supper hour, the affray could hardly have taken place in a more crowded part of the city, and it was declared almost providential that some bystander did not get shot. A charge of assault with intent to murder will be filed against the woman.

Investigating Rice Freight Increase.

Houston, July 29.—Proposals of the railroads to increase the rates on rice 5 cents a hundred pounds, moving from rice producing points in Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas to Memphis and from any of these states to the other, and rate advancements in other instances is under investigation by the interstate commerce commission in Houston to determine the reasonableness of the proposed advance.

The controversy seems to be the outgrowth of efforts on the part of railroads to make a uniform advance of 5 cents a hundred pounds on all interstate rice shipments in carload lots from the rice producing points in Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas to all points in the United States.

F. Wilbur Crawford Apartment House Has Been Completed

Finishing work on the Crawford apartment house at Twentieth and Austin streets was completed yesterday and seven of the ten apartments had been occupied with the completion of the structure. This strictly modern apartment building is the largest in the city.

In its appointments and conveniences visitors say that it is not excelled in the larger cities where the apartment house has come to be a feature of the housing situation. The structure is built with a court and each of the ten apartments has a southern exposure. The rooms are steam heated, with tile bath rooms and built-in tubs. All conveniences including such details as speaking tubes, mail shutes and the like have been installed.

The servants' quarters and the garage accommodations also have steam heat.

EXECUTION STAGED BY FEDERAL JUDGE

New York, July 29.—A stay of execution in behalf of Charles S. Stielow, a farm hand, was granted tonight by Supreme Court Justice Guy, three hours before the man condemned to death for a double murder at Medina was to have been executed at Sing Sing prison. It was the second time since dawn that the jurist had interceded to save the life of Stielow, whose keepers in the death house and whose neighbors in his home town are firmly convinced he is innocent of the crime for which he was convicted.

The order directs the district attorney of Orleans county to show cause before a justice of the supreme court on August 23 why a new trial should not be granted Stielow.

Newspapermen Are Interned

London, July 29.—A message received here today by the Wireless Press from Berne, Switzerland, says:

"The German military authorities have established a military camp for troublesome Germans. A decree promulgated on Monday consigned to this camp the entire editorial staff of the Leipsig Volks Zeitung, a daily newspaper. These journalists are to be interned until the end of the war."

MAY ESTABLISH FEDERAL LABOR CLEARING BUREAUS.

Washington, July 29.—Plans for establishing federal labor clearing houses in every state were announced tonight by Commissioner General Caminetti of the immigration bureau, who directs the department of labor's employment service. This is the most important of several steps decided upon to strengthen and widen the scope of the government's campaign against unemployment.

The state headquarters will undertake to co-ordinate information as to local conditions and make possible a steady flow of men who are out of work to the positions for which they are best suited. They will work in co-operation with the existing state and municipal bodies and with employers.

Mr. Caminetti also made known that he has worked out arrangements with the war and navy departments by which it is hoped that all men in the army and navy on retiring may find ready for them the kind of work they want in the place where they want it.

A young men's and boys' department similar to the women's and girls' department inaugurated last May is to be created by the service.

WACO BUILDERS HAVE GET-TOGETHER FEED

Live Members Dallas Organization Come Down for Rousing Feast. Start Campaign.

Probably the greatest get-together meeting in the history of Waco builders was held last night at the Raleigh hotel when the Waco Builders' exchange had as guests members of the Dallas Builders' exchange, the visitors having come here for the purpose of encouraging the Waco builders and urging them forward into a campaign for a larger membership and greater work. Secretary O. N. Liggitt of the Dallas Builders' exchange promised to stay here through Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, devoting his time to this campaign. The benefits of organization were stressed by speakers, and the way paved for the proposed campaign. About three-score of the Waco building men and allied lines were present to greet the Dallas visitors. Prizes were given by Alf Edwards of Waco and W. A. Browaing and Mr. McKennon of Dallas last night to stimulate interest in the coming campaign.

Toastmaster Cross not only set the company at ease at the outset, but put them in good humor by facetious opening remarks, glimpsing the good things to come from the toastmaster's department throughout the banquet.

Singing by a quartette followed the opening remarks of Toastmaster Cross and at later intervals as the banquet progressed. The quartette was composed of Earl Busby, Carl Austermuehle, Gaylord N. Bebout and J. B. Richardson. As one number the boys sang "Tipperary," the builders joining in the chorus, by request of O. N. Liggett of Dallas.

DALLAS MAN TALKS ON CO-OPERATION.

After the banquet Toastmaster Cross made a nappy talk, introducing speakers of the evening. W. A. Browning of Dallas, a man of affairs, was the first speaker, and he spoke on "Co-operation." Mr. Browning showed the need of co-operation all along the line, and said that this organization was the thing to educate the builders and show them the value of co-operation. He urged attendance on meetings, exchange of ideas among builders, material men, plumbers, tinners, etc. The speaker complimented Waco as an example of co-operation, and said J. W. Riggins had been one of Waco's best boosters. He closed by ruging greater co-operation and greater good fellowship. The speaker created a laugh by calling on W. J. Geisler, Louis Bergstrom and J. J. Twaddell and reading "fake" telegrams to them. An invitation to call on the Dallas Builders' exchange for aid in encouraging the Waco organization was extended.

R. J. Potts of Waco was called out and spoke briefly, expressing appreciation of the Waco Builders' exchange and its work. Mr. Potts said there was plenty of business to be had, and organization would be good for the builders and the public.

WACO SHOULD HAVE A STRONG EXCHANGE.

D. C. McCord, member of the board of control of the National Builders' exchange and a director of the Dallas Builders' exchange, was introduced by Toastmaster Cross. Mr. McCord congratulated the builders of Waco in having one of the livest cities in Texas, and referred, among other things, to the benefits of Brazos navigation. Small organizations had to come first, said the speaker, but they would grow if pushed, and he thought the push was in Waco all right and would make of the Waco Builders' exchange the success it should be. He reviewed the history of the organization of the exchange in Dallas, and claimed that wonderful good had come from the organization: it was necessary to organize in this day, and properly conducted organizations were good for all. GOOD ENOUGH FOR A STATE PLATFORM.

The platform adopted yesterday by the democratic county convention of this county rises above the platitudes which ordinarily crowd a document of this sort, and deals forcefully and intelligently with big issues of the hour. It calls for ballot reform which will destroy the system, whose handiwork is plainly visible in Texas, of buying and selling votes by the hundreds and thousands. It proposes the destruction of the political machine built upon the penal and eleemosynary institutions of the state. It drives directly at the scandalous use of the pardoning power to reward favorites and pay political debts. It calls for needed administrative reforms, the abolishment of the fee system and a reduction of taxation.

These are all live issues, which are growing in importance from day to day by reason of the increasing burdens and evils which afflict the people because of the failure to boldly face and properly deal with them.

Cunning and self-seeking politicians may deceive the people and obscure important questions for a time, but their triumphs are only temporary.

The issues pointed out in the Waco platform are real, not imaginary; they will not down at the bidding of any self-appointed boss; they relate to the welfare of the state, and they must be settled in accordance with good conscience and the public interest before the clean citizenship of this state will be satisfied.

Let it be understood, now and forever, that the unpurchased and unpurchaseable citizenship of this country, the foes of graft, the friends of humanity, and the advocates of clean and wholesome government, are going to direct the affairs of this state and country, from beginning to end, when the conflict for control is finally determined.

The Waco platform ought to be made the platform of the state democracy for the coming campaign.

TOO MUCH MOOCHEE, MOOCHEE.

"Mooching" is the name it is now given, but "milking" would be more descriptive. It means pulling a candidate's leg, or, in other words, petty grafting as practiced by the horde of parasites which infest all the cities and towns, and some of the rural districts of this state.

Representative Holland, from Houston, has a drastic remedy, which he will propose in the next legislature, and its adoption would go far to encourage good men to run for office. His measure will provide that when a candidate announces for office he must file in the office of the county clerk his name, together with the title of the office for which he aspires. This will be a legal and official notice to all that he is a candidate.

It will provide that a candidate may not make any donations or contribute to anything during his campaign, that he may not lend money, that he may not employ assistants to give out announcement cards on election day. It will also provide that he is not permitted to sign accommodation paper or bonds and will limit his expenses. A penalty will be provided for each violation of the law.

These provisions will be incorporated in the Terrell election law. The proposed measure, if it becomes a law, will place a candidate in a position where he can call attention to it when approached by the moocher and seek refuge behind its provisions.

A staff writer says in the Austin American: "There was little cohesiveness in the pro element at San Antonio, and that was a big contributory factor in its defeat in the organization of the convention and the election of a national committeeman. * * * One thing is sure, and that is, the pros learned a valuable lesson at San Antonio, with the assistance of the steam roller. The delegates they send to Houston may be expected to measure up to the standard of the dyed-in-the-wool type, uncompromising, unafraid. They are expected to be of a class difficult of wheedling, cajoling or outwitting."

The order that all vacant land within the federal district of Mexico must be cultivated by its owners is the first step that has been taken in that forlorn country which looks to real pacification. If the authorities will compel, under rigorous penalties, every able-bodied man in Mexico to go to work, the mischief-makers will be forced, despite their inclinations, to raise frijoles instead of hades.

FOOTPRINTS ON THE SANDS OF TIME

The advance of the Russians upon Hungary has now reached a point where it must be instantly checked or that part of the Austrian empire will yield to invasion by overwhelming forces. It is freely predicted that when this occurs, Franz Josef's government will sue for peace. Two weeks will probably turn the tide one way or the other in this phase of the great conflict.

A meeting of bull moose chieftains will be held at Indianapolis next week to determine whether they will complete and run a ticket. It is pretty generally agreed among them to decline the invitation of Teddy to become goats.

Gen. Webster Flanagan, who is about 85 years of age, is proposed as a republican candidate for governor of Texas. A very appropriate selection. His running qualities fitly correspond with the sprinting abilities of the G. O. P. in Texas.

More than two-thirds of the legislative districts, both senate and house, have voted for submission. Every pretext upon which the will of the people might have been denied has been swept away. It only remains for the legislature to give effect to their mandate.

Every election that has been held in the last ten years furnished one more reason why woman should be given the ballot, and the late democratic primary in Texas was no exception to the rule.

Dr. Brooks heads the delegation from McLennan to the state convention. And McLennan will have something to say at Houston to which the democracy of Texas should give heed.

The track is a little muddy for a beginning of the run-off primary. The mud-horse will get the start, but there are to be three weeks of steady running, and the home stretch will count.

The logical location for the farm loan bank of Texas is the metropolis of the farm belt—that is to say, Waco.

The democracy of McLennan county adopted a platform yesterday which ought to be made the state platform. Read it.

Governor Commutes Death Sentence.

Austin, July 29.—Governor Ferguson today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence which had been imposed on Charles Thompson, a negro at Wichita Falls, who was to have been hanged at that place on August 1. Thompson was convicted of the murder of Pearl Bransford, a negress. The action of the governor was based on the fact that here existed a doubt as to whether or not the negro killed the women.

Muckleroy Baby Dies at Eddy.

Eddy, July 29.—Edward, Jr., the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Muckleroy, died last evening after a month's illness from bowel trouble, contracted in New Mexico. The father of the little one is seriously ill from the same trouble. Burial took place today, interment in Eddy cemetery.

West Girl Tourists Ride Troop Train

Smithville, Tex., July 29.—We arrived in Smithville early this morning and have had success all the way over. The soldier train stopped in the middle of nowhere and picked us up. But we only rode a short distance. We made eighteen miles last night. They tried to stop us at the yards between Taylor and Elgin but when we showed our passport everything was O. K. My, but we were so tired, but we are going through just the same.

It was so dark when we arrived in Temple that we decided to go on through without the chief's name but we have the one at Smithville.

It rained early this morning and caught us between two stations, but we came through O. K.

We met a woman from Palestine who gave us a big write up there. We will perhaps be in Austin in about six or seven days.

Yours truly,
Blanch Bailey and Bessie Hannah.

Campers Should Boil Water.

Austin, July 29.—The state board of health has issued a warning to all campers over the state taking water for drinking purposes from streams to be sure to boil the water before using. A number of cases of typhoid fever have been traced to instances where water was taken from streams and used for drinking.

Renomination Cost Ferguson $3,343.08.

Belton, July 29.—Governor Ferguson spent $3,433.08 in his campaign for renomination in the recent primary, according to his statement filed here today, in the office of the clerk of Bell county. Temple is Governor Ferguson's home.

OFFICIAL CANVASS FALLS COUNTY VOTES

GRAND JURY MAKES REPORT

Mrs. B. C. Nettles Entertains Her Band of Sunday School Sunbeams With Watermelon Feast.

Marlin, Tex., July 29.—The executive committee of the democratic party in Falls county met this morning and made an official canvass of the votes cast in the primary election on the 22nd, showing the following official returns for Falls county:

Chief Justice—Jenkins 1749, Phillips 1381.

Judge of Criminal Appeals—Harper 1978, Morrow 1257.

The grand jury adjourned today for the term after having investigated in the sixteen days' session eighty violations and returning forty-five indictments. Thirty-eight were for felonies and seven for misdemeanors. Some cases of boot-legging, wherein they failed to get enough information to bill the offenders, were recommended to the next grand jury for investigation, also some cases of negligence of road work by the commissioners. All county institutions were found to be in excellent condition.

At a special meeting of the directors of the Commercial Club this afternoon a contract was awarded to "The Texas Life" magazine of Dallas, providing that this periodical shall issue a special Marlin edition featuring it (Marlin) as a health resort. The contract provides that the publishers shall mail seven thousand copies to their regular subscribers and that the Commercial Club will take ten thousand copies, to be mailed out from their office. In addition to this a number of the business men will take copies for distribution.

A delightful entertainment was given the Sunbeam Band this a. m. at the North Side play park, by their Mrs. Nettles, assisted by several other ladies. About seventy-five responded to the invitations and the park was filled with delighted, happy children, who joined into the pleasures, with a spirit that precluded all thoughts of fatigue or weariness.

A very fitting climax to the happy hours of frolic was a watermelon party in which entertainers and the entertained joined with the same eager spirit.

A special meeting of the directors of the United Charities was held this afternoon at Torbett's Sanitarium to discuss ways and means of avoiding a depleted treasury in the winter months. It was decided that they employ a lady to solicit and collece subscriptions to begin at once and to continue until spring season opens.

Heavy Corn Crop at Mount Calm.

Mount Calm, July 29.—This section has made the heaviest corn crop for nine years past, but cotton is not doing well at present. The early cotton is opening prematurely and a soaking rain is needed as such a rain has not fallen since June 15.

The Language of Birds.

From the motion of birds, the transition is natural enough to their notes and language, of which I shall now say something. Not that I would pretend to understand their language like the vizier, who, by the recital of a conversation which passed between two owls, reclaimed a sultan, before delighting in conquest and devastation; but I would be thought only to mean that many of the winged tribes have various sounds and voices adapted to express their various passions, wants and feelings, such as anger, fear, love, hatred, hunger and the like. All species are not equally eloquent; some are copious and fluent, as it were, in their utterance, while others are confined to a few important sounds. No bird is quite mute, though some are rather silent. The language of birds is ancient, and, like other ancient modes of speech, very elliptical; little is said, but much is meant and understood.

The notes of the eagle kind are shrill and piercing, and about the reason of nidification much diversified, as I have been often assured by a curious observer of nature, who long resided at Gibraltar, where eagles abound. The notes of our hawks much resemble those of the king of birds. Owls have very expressive notes; they hoot in a fine vocal sound, much resembling the vox humana, and reducible by a pitch pipe to a musical key. This note seems to express complacency and rivalry among the males; they also use a quicq call and a horrible scream, and can snore and hiss when they mean to menace. Ravens, besides their loud croak, can exert a deep and solemn note that makes the woods echo; the amorous sound of a crow is strange and ridiculous; rooks in the breeding season attempt sometimes in the gaiety of their hearts to sing, but with no great success; the parrot kind have many modulations of voice, as appears by their aptitude to learn human sounds; doves coo in an amorous and mournful manner, and are emblems of despairing lovers; the woodpecker sets up a sort of loud and hearty laugh; the fern owl, or goatsucker, from the duck till daybreak serenades his mate with the clattering of castanets. All the tuneful passeres express their complacency by sweet modulations and a variety of melody. The swallow, by a shrill alarm, bespeaks the attention of the other hirundines and bids them be aware that a hawk is at hand. Aquatic and gregarious birds, especially the nocturnal, that shift their quarters in the dark, are very noisy and loquacious, as cranes, wild geese, wild ducks and the like; their perpetual clamor prevents them from dispersing and losing their companions.

The voice of the goose is trumpet-like and clanking, and once saved the capital at Rome, as grave historians assert; the hiss also of the gander is formidable and full of menace and protective of his young." The cock turkey struts and gobbles to his mistress in a most uncouth manner; he hath also a pert and petulant note when he attacks his adversary. When a hen turkey leads forth her young brood she keeps a watchful eye, and if a bird of prey appears, though ever so high in the air, the careful mother announces the enemy with a little inward moan and watches him with a steady and attentive look; but, if he approaches, her note becomes earnest and alarming and her outcries are redoubled.

No inhabitants of a yard seem possessed of such a variety of expression and so copious a language as common poultry. When a pullet is ready to lay she intimates the event by a joyous and easy note. Of all the occurrences of their life, that of laying seems to be the most important; for no sooner has a hen disburdened herself than she rushes forth with a clamorous kind of joy, which the cock and the rest of his mistresses immediately adopt. As soon as a hen becomes a mother her new relation demands a new language; she then runs clucking and screaming about and seems agitated as if possessed. The father of the flock has also a considerable vocabulary; if he finds food, he calls a favorite concubine to partake; if a bird of prey passes over, with a warning voice he bids his family beware. The gallant chanticleer has, at command, his amorous phrases and his terms of defiance. But the sound by which he is best known is his crowing; by this he has been distinguished in all ages as the countryman's clock or 'larum, as the watchman that proclaims the divisions of the night. Thus the poet elegantly styles him:

" . . . The crester cock, whose clarion sounds the silent hours.'

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Many who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

ASSETS $3,000,000.00.

There will be special services at the Fifth Street Methodist church. Some unusually good music has been prepared by the choir, of which Mrs. T. M. Bishop is director. At the morning service Mr. Uplegger will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Mattie D. Willis. The choir will sing "Redemption." At the evening service Mrs. Bishop will sing an arrangement of "Nearer My God to Thee," by Henry Parker. Preaching by the pastor at both hours.

Morrow Street Methodist.

Sunday school and preaching service of the morning combined, beginning at 10 and closing promptly at 11:20. The pastor will talk on "The Angel That Led an Army." There will be a solo by Miss Wilson of Dallas. The first service of this kind was last Sunday and was a great success. Don't fail to attend. Both services in the time of one. The evening service will be on the lawn at 8:30 o'clock; subject, "Making a League With the Devil." Rev. H. L. Munger, pastor, will preach.

Young People's Society in the church at 7:30 p. m. Church corner of Morrow and Eleventh streets. It is homelike, friendly church, and you will feel at home from the first day you attend.

Fifth Street M. E. Church.

The pastor, Dr. John R. Morris, will preach at both services tomorrow, 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m.

Have a special message for you at the 11 o'clock hour; subject, "Threescore Years." Come and hear him. A pleasant and instructive hour assured; auditorium cool, electric fans running all the time. Cordial welcome awaits you.

Second Presbyterian Endeavor.

"How Missions are Blessing Our Nation" is the subject for the Sunday night service, in charge of the Christian Endeavorers at the Second Presbyterian church. The Endeavorers have not been attending these joint services as well as should be, it is reported, and it is suggested that perhaps the warm weather is a hindrance. A full attendance is desired tonight. Miss Rebal Epperson is to lead.

North Waco Christian.

Herring avenue and Eighteenth street.

Rev. J. F. Ghormley will speak at 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. Morning theme "The Church of the New Covenant." Evening theme, "The Mark of the Beast." Bible school 9:45 a. m. Christian Endeavor meeting 8:45.

German Evangelical Zion's Church.

Only Sunday school will be held today. Regular services postponed. Rev. J. Jaworski, pastor.

Presbyterian Mission.

Bosque Boulevard and Twenty-fifth street.

Services at 11 a. m., Sunday school at 9:15 a. m., Norman H. Smith, superintendent. Rev. Dr. C. T. Caldwell will preach at 8:15 p. m.

St. Paul's Episcopal.

Holy communion 7:30 a. m.; Sunday school 9:30 a. m.; morning prayer and sermon at 11 a. m. by the rector, Rev. W. P. Witsell. Offertory anthem, "The Lord Is My Rock," by Rogers. Evening services will be discontinued until September. Fred E. Eggert, organist and choirmaster.

Scandinavian Lutheran Church.

M. B. Quill, pastor.

Services this morning at the Scandinavian Lutheran church, corner of Tenth and Jefferson streets. The service commences at 10:45 o'clock and will be conducted in the Norwegian language. Theme of sermon, "God's Call to Us." Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. every Sunday morning. Classes for young and old, conducted exclusively in the English language. Otto Bronstad, superintendent of Sunday school.

Christian Science.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, auditorium public library, Twelfth and Austin streets. Service today at 11 a. m.; subject, "Love." Wednesday evening testimonial meeting at 8 o'clock. A free reading room, 1811 Amicable building, open daily, except Sunday and holidays, from 2 to 6 p. m. The public is cordially invited to all these services and to visit the reading room.

Central Christian Church.

Eleventh and Washington streets. The pastor, Dr. F. N. Calvin, has returned from his vacation and will preach at 10:45 a. m. There will be no 8 p. m. service. Bible school 9:30 a. m.; Christian Endeavor 7 p. m.

West Girl Tourists Ride Troop Train

Smithville, Tex., July 29.—We arrived in Smithville early this morning and have had success all the way over. The soldier train stopped in the middle of nowhere and picked us up. But we only rode a short distance. We made eighteen miles last night. They tried to stop us at the yards between Taylor and Elgin but when we showed our passport everything was O. K. My, but we were so tired, but we are going through just the same.

It was so dark when we arrived in Temple that we decided to go on through without the chief's name but we have the one at Smithville.

It rained early this morning and caught us between two stations, but we came through O. K.

We met a woman from Palestine who gave us a big write up there. We will perhaps be in Austin in about six or seven days.

Yours truly,
Blanch Bailey and Bessie Hannah.

Campers Should Boil Water.

Austin, July 29.—The state board of health has issued a warning to all campers over the state taking water for drinking purposes from streams to be sure to boil the water before using. A number of cases of typhoid fever have been traced to instances where water was taken from streams and used for drinking.

Renomination Cost Ferguson $3,343.08.

Belton, July 29.—Governor Ferguson spent $3,433.08 in his campaign for renomination in the recent primary, according to his statement filed here today, in the office of the clerk of Bell county. Temple is Governor Ferguson's home.

OFFICIAL CANVASS FALLS COUNTY VOTES

GRAND JURY MAKES REPORT

Mrs. B. C. Nettles Entertains Her Band of Sunday School Sunbeams With Watermelon Feast.

Marlin, Tex., July 29.—The executive committee of the democratic party in Falls county met this morning and made an official canvass of the votes cast in the primary election on the 22nd, showing the following official returns for Falls county:

Chief Justice—Jenkins 1749, Phillips 1381.

Associate Justice—Hall 1019, Yantis 2034.

Judge of Criminal Appeals—Harper 1978, Morrow 1257.

Robertson Law—For 1717, against 953.

The grand jury adjourned today for the term after having investigated in the sixteen days' session eighty violations and returning forty-five indictments. Thirty-eight were for felonies and seven for misdemeanors. Some cases of boot-legging, wherein they failed to get enough information to bill the offenders, were recommended to the next grand jury for investigation, also some cases of negligence of road work by the commissioners. All county institutions were found to be in excellent condition.

At a special meeting of the directors of the Commercial Club this afternoon a contract was awarded to "The Texas Life" magazine of Dallas, providing that this periodical shall issue a special Marlin edition featuring it (Marlin) as a health resort. The contract provides that the publishers shall mail seven thousand copies to their regular subscribers and that the Commercial Club will take ten thousand copies, to be mailed out from their office. In addition to this a number of the business men will take copies for distribution.

A delightful entertainment was given the Sunbeam Band this a. m. at the North Side play park, by their Mrs. Nettles, assisted by several other ladies. About seventy-five responded to the invitations and the park was filled with delighted, happy children, who joined into the pleasures, with a spirit that precluded all thoughts of fatigue or weariness.

A very fitting climax to the happy hours of frolic was a watermelon party in which entertainers and the entertained joined with the same eager spirit.

A special meeting of the directors of the United Charities was held this afternoon at Torbett's Sanitarium to discuss ways and means of avoiding a depleted treasury in the winter months. It was decided that they employ a lady to solicit and collece subscriptions to begin at once and to continue until spring season opens.

Heavy Corn Crop at Mount Calm.

Mount Calm, July 29.—This section has made the heaviest corn crop for nine years past, but cotton is not doing well at present. The early cotton is opening prematurely and a soaking rain is needed as such a rain has not fallen since June 15.

The Language of Birds.

From the motion of birds, the transition is natural enough to their notes and language, of which I shall now say something. Not that I would pretend to understand their language like the vizier, who, by the recital of a conversation which passed between two owls, reclaimed a sultan, before delighting in conquest and devastation; but I would be thought only to mean that many of the winged tribes have various sounds and voices adapted to express their various passions, wants and feelings, such as anger, fear, love, hatred, hunger and the like. All species are not equally eloquent; some are copious and fluent, as it were, in their utterance, while others are confined to a few important sounds. No bird is quite mute, though some are rather silent. The language of birds is ancient, and, like other ancient modes of speech, very elliptical; little is said, but much is meant and understood.

The notes of the eagle kind are shrill and piercing, and about the reason of nidification much diversified, as I have been often assured by a curious observer of nature, who long resided at Gibraltar, where eagles abound. The notes of our hawks much resemble those of the king of birds. Owls have very expressive notes; they hoot in a fine vocal sound, much resembling the vox humana, and reducible by a pitch pipe to a musical key. This note seems to express complacency and rivalry among the males; they also use a quicq call and a horrible scream, and can snore and hiss when they mean to menace. Ravens, besides their loud croak, can exert a deep and solemn note that makes the woods echo; the amorous sound of a crow is strange and ridiculous; rooks in the breeding season attempt sometimes in the gaiety of their hearts to sing, but with no great success; the parrot kind have many modulations of voice, as appears by their aptitude to learn human sounds; doves coo in an amorous and mournful manner ,and are emblems of despairing lovers; the woodpecker sets up a sort of loud and hearty laugh; the fern owl, or goatsucker, from the duck till daybreak serenades his mate with the clattering of castanets. All the tuneful passeres express their complacency by sweet modulations and a variety of melody. The swallow, by a shrill alarm, bespeaks the attention of the other hirundines and bids them be aware that a hawk is at hand. Aquatic and gregarious birds, especially the nocturnal, that shift their quarters in the dark, are very noisy and loquacious, as cranes, wild geese, wild ducks and the like; their perpetual clamor prevents them from dispersing and losing their companions.

The voice of the goose is trumpet-like and clanking, and once saved the capital at Rome, as grave historians assert; the hiss also of the gander is formidable and full of menace and protective of his young." The cock turkey struts and gobbles to his mistress in a most uncouth manner; he hath also a pert and petulant note when he attacks his adversary. When a hen turkey leads forth her young brood she keeps a watchful eye, and if a bird of prey appears, though ever so high in the air, the careful mother announces the enemy with a little inward moan and watches him with a steady and attentive look; but, if he approaches, her note becomes earnest and alarming and her outcries are redoubled.

No inhabitants of a yard seem possessed of such a variety of expression and so copious a language as common poultry. When a pullet is ready to lay she intimates the event by a joyous and easy note. Of all the occurrences of their life, that of laying seems to be the most important; for no sooner has a hen disburdened herself than she rushes forth with a clamorous kind of joy, which the cock and the rest of his mistresses immediately adopt. As soon as a hen becomes a mother her new relation demands a new language; she then runs clucking and screaming about and seems agitated as if possessed. The father of the flock has also a considerable vocabulary; if he finds food, he calls a favorite concubine to partake; if a bird of prey passes over, with a warning voice he bids his family beware. The gallant chanticleer has, at command, his amorous phrases and his terms of defiance. But the sound by which he is best known is his crowing; by this he has been distinguished in all ages as the countryman's clock or 'larum, as the watchman that proclaims the divisions of the night. Thus the poet elegantly styles him:

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Many who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

ASSETS $3,000,000.00.

AUGUST CLEAN-UP SALE

A Determined Effort With a Logical Reason Back of It

Half the satisfaction of a "Clean-Up" lies in the certainty of knowing that the values a store gives will make many new friends and create permanent trade; at least that's the feeling that prevails here strongly on the eve of our annual disposal of all odd lots and "loose ends" of Summer merchandise. The spirit with which the entire organization has entered upon the task is one of enthusiastic endeavor. And why shouldn't each member be enthusiastic, since more friends foretell more business for the store and more business brightens the future of every one here? Many good goods have lingered too long. For us they serve no definite purpose, but for you they present an opportunity to save up to half. Our surplus stocks must be disposed of rapidly in order to make room for our fast arriving fall stocks.

Sale Opens Monday, July 31st, and Continues Throughout August

Harmonious to a very large extent, and including both pros and antis on the delegations to the various conventions to be held later, the pros predominating in number, however, and with the unit rule adopted for all delegations chosen, the McLennan county democrats in convention assembled yesterday afternoon adopted resolutions commending in warm and earnest manner the national administration of the democrats and their constructive work, and condemned those who have assailed them during the perilous times through which the country has been passing; commended the course of Senators Culberson and Sheppard and those members of the lower house of congress from Texas who joined them in support of the president in his difficult and perplexing problems; condemned the "marshalling of votes by the use of improper agencies, and the control of elections by invisible power," and declaring that the effort should be to "free the ballot from all sinister and selfish influence," and make it impossible for any man to either buy or command another's vote; declared against the raising of large campaign funds for the promotion of the candidacy of men to office or to attain special legislation, and asking the passage of laws to prevent this; favored the removal of the penal, eleemosynary and educational institutions from the control of successive state administrations and placing these institutions in the hands of a specially created business agency selected directly by the people, and the adoption of a civil service for all employes; went on record against "the sale of license at any price for the violation of penal laws;" indorsed the state democratic administration and urged hearty support of the nominees of the recent primaries; asked for a plank in the state democratic convention to be held in Houston looking to rigid economy in the conduct of the government, the submission of a prohibition amendment, the retention of the Robertson insurance law, reform of court procedure, abolition of the fee system, and enforcement of all laws; condemned the action of certain individuals at El Paso two years ago in unseating the regular delegates to the said El Paso convention, and repudiating the action of those who are alleged to have been engaged in the ousting process; indorsed the nominees of the county and section in the primaries; expressed appreciation of the services of Congressman R. L. Henry, who is retiring from this service.

Full delegations were chosen to the various conventions to come later.

W. W. Woodson presided over the convention yesterday afternoon, while Earle B. Smyth of Mart was chosen as secretary. The meeting was held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the Fifty-fourth district court room at the court house.

The McLennan county democratic convention was called to order shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon by Chairman H. E. Brown of the county democratic executive committee.

James Dudley nominated W. W. Woodson for temporary chairman, and Crate Dalton seconded the nomination. Mr. Woodson was elected by acclamation.

ADVOCATES REPRESENTATIVE DELEGATION.

Chairman Woodson said that he was no politician, but a business man; he was a prohibitionist, had always been, and had been a democrat, and believed in democratic majorities. The principal question was submission, and this carried in McLennan county; this question was the one of supreme interest just now. The pros should have a majority in the delegation to the Houston state convention; he thought some antis should be placed on the delegation, however, as a recognition to the minority. He paid a compliment to Dr. S. P. Brooks, and thought the pros should have united on him, and he should have then been chosen United States senator. He thought Governor Ferguson should be indorsed, and that something should be said in the resolutions about economy. He thought the Robertson insurance bill and submission should be indorsed.

H. ELMER BROWN,
Chairman County Democratic Executive Committee.

Earl B. Smyth of Mart was elected temporary secretary of the convention, and expressed his thanks.

Jim Dudley moved that a committee of five be named on credentials, permanent organization and permanent order of business; a committee of five on delegations, and a committee of five on platform and rsolutions.

Chairman Woodson named the following, the motion having prevailed:

SENATOR M'COLLUM IS SPEAKER.

Senator A. R. McCollum was asked to address the convention, and did so, expressing appreciation of the honor he had received at the hands of the people. He was going to Austin unpledged to any man, any interest, or person, and simply with his conscience to guide him; he was glad he was going back without opposition, and would do his best to serve the whole people; he would do his best and try and represent all the people.

The committee on credentials and permanent order of business, chairman J. W. Blake, reported, recommending that the temporary organization be made permanent. The order of business was recommended in the report. It was stated that several places had no list of delegates, among these being Auditorium, Frost, Leroy, Hawthorne, Lavega, Prairie Chapel, Patrick, Robinson, White Hall, Patton and South Bosque; Sixth ward, Waco. A few of these came in later.

On motion, representatives from various boxes were allowed to vote, where no objections were raised.

The report of the committee above, as a whole, was then adopted.

SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES EXPRESS APPRECIATION

Frank Fitzpatrick, recently elected flotorial representative from this, the Sixty-seventh district, thanked the gathering for the honor conferred on him, pledging his best efforts in behalf of his constituency in McLennan, Falls and Limestone counties. He was going unpledged and he was glad the question of pro and anti had not been raised; he was going to represent the people whether he was pro or anti. He favored the Robertson law and was glad it had been voted on by the people.

W. A. Poage, who was chosen representative, thanked the audience. He was among home folks and was appreciative of the compliment of being elected without opposition. He was going to express the wishes of McLennan county at Austin—the greatest county in Texas. Prohibition and anti-prohibition would not get in the way, and he was going to work on matters of interest to the people, matters of business to the whole people.

Hon. Pat Neff of Waco was called to the front and spoke pleasantly, saying everybody ought to be a "politician" to the extent of taking an interest in matters of moment to the people. He spoke of his efforts in behalf of Dr. S. P. Brooks, in making speeches, creating great applause; he paid a great compliment to Dr. Brooks. He did not believe in the steam roller, and all factions of democracy should be represented here and at Houston; democrats should be fair and tolerant, working together for the good of the people. He condemned steam-roller methods from start to finish.

CALLS EL PASO INCIDENT JOKE.

Hon. Allan D. Sanford spoke of steam-roller methods and facetiously said he had never been caught by one. He complimented the procedure of the day, and the speakers preceding him, and the people of McLennan county. He referred to the El Paso convention two years ago, saying that the whole matter was a joke and was understood by all this McLennan county delegation; the convention was run by a prearranged plan and McLennan county really had no voice. He wanted to explain to those who did not know him, though he was sure those who knew him knew he would not intentionally do a wrong.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED.

Chairman S. P. Brooks appeared with the report of the committee on platform and resolutions, amid cheers. The resolutions were read by Chairman Brooks, and adopted as a whole, with only one dissenting vote.

Supplemental resolutions were read and adopted, these being in addition to the first lot submitted.

A resolution bearing upon the unseating of delegates at the El Paso convention two years ago, and the alleged seating of delegates who were not entitled to seats in the democratic state convention from McLennan county, the resolution appearing in full below, was offered, and Hon. Allan D. Sanford arose and said that personally he had said all that was necessary to be said concerning this matter, previously.

J. W. Blake and one or two others said that the action at El Paso was absolutely unjust and improper, and should be rebuked and repudiated.

J. William Smith offered a motion to table the resolution bearing on the El Paso incident.

Mr. Blake asked Mr. Sanford whether he (Sanford) had accepted a seat with the new delegation after the other one had been seated, and Mr. Sanford said that he did, but that the old delegation was also sitting there.

CONDEMN THE EL PASO PROCEDURE.

Edgar Witt, who was present at El Paso, was asked for a statement regarding the matter. Mr. Witt said that he had been offered a seat as one of the delegates after the unseating of the others had been affected, but that he declined to accept same; the regular delegates of McLennan county were turned down, he said, and the others seated, though he really thought this did not actually affect the situation, inasmuch as the whole convention procedure had been agreed upon, and if the first delegation had been retained it would not have changed the actual work of the convention, because the convention would have run it over the McLennan county action. He stated that he tried to get the regular delegates in the convention seated, but that the convention would not do this.

The motion of J. William Smith to table the resolution regarding the El Paso incident was voted on at this juncture and lost heavily. The resolution condemning the El Paso procedure was then adopted.

DISTRICT DELEGATES ARE SELECTED.

Chairman George W. Barcus of the committee on delegations reported to the convention the delegates who were chosen to go to the various conventions, and these were ratified by the convention, as follows:

"To Hon. W. W. Woodson, chairman: We, your committee on nominations of delegates to the state and district conventions, beg leave to make the following report:

"We recommend that the following be elected delegates to the Eleventh senatorial convention: :E. E. Witt, H. O. Dabney, Joel Kincannon, Will Gorham, William Baldridge, W. H. Criswell, Rufe Laughlin, Ben Hatch, Alva Bryan.

Respectfully submitted,
G. W. BARCUS, Chairman.
GEO. CAUFIELD,
E. S. GAUSE,
JOEL KINCANNON,
Committee.

The convention adopted the list of delegates as submitted by the committee headed by G. W. Barcus.

The resolution bearing on delegations was adopted, which imposed the unit rule and the voting of the delegations as a unit on all matters coming before the gatherings.

Chairman W. W. Woodson thanked the convention for its harmony and disposition to do the right thing, after which adjournment came.

CONVENTION ADOPTS RESOLUTION.

To the Hon. W. W. Woodson,
Chairman.

Your committee on platform and resolution beg leave to make the following report:

First. We endorse the administration and the democratic and foreign policies of President Woodrow Wilson, which have given the country peace and prosperity, and preserved its standing among the nations of the world during a period of unusual disturbance, and repudiated the criticisms and attacks upon him which are being circulated throughout the country as coming from Texas as untimely and unjust, and opposed to the sentiment of the masses of Texas democrats.

Second. We heartily commend the course of Senators Culberson and Sheppard, and those members from Texas of the lower house of congress who joined them in effective support of the president in the difficult and perplexing tasks and duties which have been imposed upon him as a result of revolution and war in both hemispheres and we declare it to be the duty of every citizen, as well as every public officer, in a time of such unrest and peril to loyally support his government against attacks from within as well as from foes without.

Three. The right of suffrage is the most valuable asset of citizenship, and any invasion of that right strikes at the foundations of our institutions. The marshalling of votes by the use of improper agencies, and the control of elections by invisible power, are evils which a people jealous of their liberty ought not to tolerate. We declare that it is of first importance to free the ballot from all sinister and selfish influence, and to restore the equality of citizenship by making it impossible for any man to either buy or command another's vote.

Fourth. Public office is a public trust, and no individual, by reason of haste, self-assertion or extravagant expenditure, may rightfully pre-empt a claim upon it The admitted deterioration in the public service and the growing unwillingness of those who are best fitted for its duties to offer for office, call for readjustment which will re-establish the dignity of office, awaken a higher sense of responsibility in the servants of the people, and call to their service men of spotless character and unquestioned ability. In this connection, we denounce as an offense against the public welfare the raising and disbursement of large campaign funds, either to elect particular men to office, or to achieve special ends in legislation, and demand the passage of laws to prohibit the same.

5. The penal, eleemosynary and educational institutions of the state ought not to be the subject to continuous and ofttimes reckless experimentation at the hands of successive state administrations, and it ought to be impossible to conscript their employes into a political machine. The extravagance and waste which have changed the penitentiary from a self-supporting basis to a source of almost incalculable loss, running as high as $1,000,000 a year, weigh heavily upon the taxpayer and call for vigorous attention. No remedy can be effective which leaves these institutions at the mercy of bad politics. We favor the removal of them all from the control of the governor, and the creation of a responsible business agency selected directly by the people upon the plan of the selection of the railroad commission, and the adoption of a civil service system for all employes.

6. All guilt is personal, and the sale of license at any price for the violation of penal laws is destructive of public respect for law. We declare that all offenders should suffer the same consequences for offenses of equal degree, and that every device through which the penalty may be discharged for a money consideration should be abandoned.

7. The tendency to nullify law through wholesale distribution of pardons as rewards to favorites, and in satisfaction of political debts, is an evil which strikes at the vitals of good government, and the pardoning power should be vested in a non-political board and exercised as a judicial function beyond the reach of improper influence of any kind. We demand the passage of suitable legislation to accomplish this end.

8. We indorse the state democratic administration and urge upon the democrats of this county the hearty support of the nominees of the democratic party chosen in the late primary, and instruct our delegates to the state nominating convention at Houston to vote for a platform which will energetically declare for a rigid economy in government, a reduction of taxation, for submission of a prohibition amendment, for the retention of the Robertson insurance law as it now exists, the reform of court procedure, the abolition of the fee system, and the enforcement of all laws, civil and criminal, without fear or favor.

9. Our representatives in the legislature, senate and house are instructed at all times, and upon all occasions,

Says She Was Saved From Operating Table

BROTHER AND SISTER BOTH RELIEVED BY SIMPLE REMEDY AVAILABLE TO ANY ONE.

In her gratitude for a remedy that saved her from the possible necessity for an operation, Mrs. Carrie Heflin, of Coats, Kans., writes: "Had it not been for Fruitola and Traxo I might have been on the operating table by now. It relieved me of at least one hundred and fifty gall stones. It surely does work wonders. My brother also had suffered for years and has been greatly benefited by Fruitola and Traxo."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs softening the congested masses, disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expels the accumulation in an easy, natural way. Traxo is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach with most beneficial results and is recommended for use in connection with Fruitola to build up and restore the weakened, run-down system.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Waco they can be obtained at W. B. Morrison's Drug Co.

Jess Willard Says: "Take Nuxated Iron

If you want plenty of 'stay there' strength and health muscles like mine."

Ordinarily Nuxated Iron will often increase strength and endurance of the delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent in two weeks' time.

I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength, power and endurance.

Jess Willard

SPECIAL NOTE—Dr. E. Sauer, a well known physician, who has studied widely in both this country and Europe, has been specially employed to make a thorough investigation into the real secret of the great strength, power and endurance of Jess Willard and the marvelous value of nuxated iron as a strength builder.

NEW YOR—Upon being interviewed at his apartment into the Colonial Hotel, Mr. Willard said: "Yes, I have a chemist with me to study the value of different foods and products as to their power to produce great strength and endurance, both of which are so necessary in the prize ring. On his recommendation I have often taken nuxated iron and I have particularly advocated the free use of iron by all those who wish to obtain great physical and mental power. Without it I am sure that I would never have been able to whip Jack Johnson so completely and easily as I did, and while training for my bout with Frank Moran, I regularly took nuxated iron and I am certain that it was a most important factor in my winning so easily." Continuing, Dr. Sauer said, "Mr. Willard's case is only one of hundreds which I could cite from my own personal experience which proves conclusively the astonishing power of nuxated iron to restore strength and vitality even in most complicated chronic conditions."

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked be to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact a young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more or less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient of iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grand tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous run-down people who were ailing all the wile, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time, simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron, simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you wish it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE — Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine, nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron consistuents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by Powers-Kelly Drug. Co., W. B. Morrison Drug Co. and all good druggists.

Harmonious to a very large extent, and including both pros and antis on the delegations to the various conventions to be held later, the pros predominating in number, however, and with the unit rule adopted for all delegations chosen, the McLennan county democrats in convention assembled yesterday afternoon adopted resolutions commending in warm and earnest manner the national administration of the democrats and their constructive work, and condemned those who have assailed them during the perilous times through which the country has been passing; commended the course of Senators Culberson and Sheppard and those members of the lower house of congress from Texas who joined them in support of the president in his difficult and perplexing problems; condemned the "marshalling of votes by the use of improper agencies, and the control of elections by invisible power," and declaring that the effort should be to "free the ballot from all sinister and selfish influence," and make it impossible for any man to either buy or command another's vote; declared against the raising of large campaign funds for the promotion of the candidacy of men to office or to attain special legislation, and asking the passage of laws to prevent this; favored the removal of the penal, eleemosynary and educational institutions from the control of successive state administrations and placing these institutions in the hands of a specially created business agency selected directly by the people, and the adoption of a civil service for all employes; went on record against "the sale of license at any price for the violation of penal laws;" indorsed the state democratic administration and urged hearty support of the nominees of the recent primaries; asked for a plank in the state democratic convention to be held in Houston looking to rigid economy in the conduct of the government, the submission of a prohibition amendment, the retention of the Robertson insurance law, reform of court procedure, abolition of the fee system, and enforcement of all laws; condemned the action of certain individuals at El Paso two years ago in unseating the regular delegates to the said El Paso convention, and repudiating the action of those who are alleged to have been engaged in the ousting process; indorsed the nominees of the county and section in the primaries! expressed appreciation of the services of Congressman R. L. Henry, who is retiring from this service.

Full delegations were chosen to the various conventions to come later.

W. W. Woodson presided over the convention yesterday afternoon, while Earle B. Smyth of Mart was chosen as secretary. The meeting was held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the Fifty-fourth district court room at the court house.

The McLennan county democratic convention was called to order shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon by Chairman H. E. Brown of the county democratic executive committee.

James Dudley nominated W. W. Woodson for temporary chairman, and Crate Dalton seconded the nomination. Mr. Woodson was elected by acclamation.

ADVOCATES REPRESENTATIVE DELEGATION.

Chairman Woodson said that he was no politician, but a business man; he was a prohibitionist, had always been, and had been a democrat, and believed in democratic majorities. The principal question was submission, and this carried in McLennan county; this question was the one of supreme interest just now. The pros should have a majority in the delegation to the Houston state convention; he thought some antis should be placed on the delegation, however, as a recognition to the minority. He paid a compliment to Dr. S. P. Brooks, and thought the pros should have united on him, and he should have then been chosen United States senator. He thought Governor Ferguson should be indorsed, and that something should be said in the resolutions about economy. He thought the Robertson insurance bill and submission should be indorsed.

H. ELMER BROWN,
Chairman County Democratic Executive Committee.

Earl B. Smyth of Mart was elected temporary secretary of the convention, and expressed his thanks.

Jim Dudley moved that a committee of five be named on credentials, permanent organization and permanent order of business; a committee of five on delegations, and a committee of five on platform and rsolutions.

Chairman Woodson named the following, the motion having prevailed:

SENATOR M'COLLUM IS SPEAKER.

Senator A. R. McCollum was asked to address the convention, and did so, expressing appreciation of the honor he had received at the hands of the people. He was going to Austin unpledged to any man, any interest, or person, and simply with his conscience to guide him; he was glad he was going back without opposition, and would do his best to serve the whole people; he would do his best and try and represent all the people.

The committee on credentials and permanent order of business, chairman J. W. Blake, reported, recommending that the temporary organization be made permanent. The order of business was recommended in the report. It was stated that several places had no list of delegates, among these being Auditorium, Frost, Leroy, Hawthorne, Lavega, Prairie Chapel, Patrick, Robinson, White Hall, Patton and South Bosque; Sixth ward, Waco. A few of these came in later.

On motion, representatives from various boxes were allowed to vote, where no objections were raised.

SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES EXPRESS APPRECIATION

Frank Fitzpatrick, recently elected flotorial representative from this, the Sixty-seventh district, thanked the gathering for the honor conferred on him, pledging his best efforts in behalf of his constituency in McLennan, Falls and Limestone counties. He was going unpledged and he was glad the question of pro and anti had not been raised; he was going to represent the people whether he was pro or anti. He favored the Robertson law and was glad it had been voted on by the people.

W. A. Poage, who was chosen representative, thanked the audience. He was among home folks and was appreciative of the compliment of being elected without opposition. He was going to express the wishes of McLennan county at Austin—the greatest county in Texas. Prohibition and anti-prohibition would not get in the way, and he was going to work on matters of interest to the people, matters of business to the whole people.

Hon. Pat Neff of Waco was called to the front and spoke pleasantly, saying everybody ought to be a "politician" to the extent of taking an interest in matters of moment to the people. He spoke of his efforts in behalf of Dr. S. P. Brooks, in making speeches, creating great applause; he paid a great compliment to Dr. Brooks. He did not believe in the steam roller, and all factions of democracy should be represented here and at Houston; democrats should be fair and tolerant, working together for the good of the people. He condemned steam-roller methods from start to finish.

CALLS EL PASO INCIDENT JOKE.

Hon. Allan D. Sanford spoke of steam-roller methods and facetiously said he had never been caught by one. He complimented the procedure of the day, and the speakers preceding him, and the people of McLennan county. He referred to the El Paso convention two years ago, saying that the whole matter was a joke and was understood by all this McLennan county delegation; the convention was run by a prearranged plan and McLennan county really had no voice. He wanted to explain to those who did not know him, though he was sure those who knew him knew he would not intentionally do a wrong.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED.

Chairman S. P. Brooks appeared with the report of the committee on platform and resolutions, amid cheers. The resolutions were read by Chairman Brooks, and adopted as a whole, with only one dissenting vote.

Supplemental resolutions were read and adopted, these being in addition to the first lot submitted.

A resolution bearing upon the unseating of delegates at the El Paso convention two years ago, and the alleged seating of delegates who were not entitled to seats in the democratic state convention from McLennan county, the resolution appearing in full below, was offered, and Hon. Allan D. Sanford arose and said that personally he had said all that was necessary to be said concerning this matter, previously.

J. W. Blake and one or two others said that the action at El Paso was absolutely unjust and improper, and should be rebuked and repudiated.

J. William Smith offered a motion to table the resolution bearing on the El Paso incident.

Mr. Blake asked Mr. Sanford whether he (Sanford) had accepted a seat with the new delegation after the other one had been seated, and Mr. Sanford said that he did, but that the old delegation was also sitting there.

CONDEMN THE EL PASO PROCEDURE.

Edgar Witt, who was present at El Paso, was asked for a statement regarding the matter. Mr. Witt said that he had been offered a seat as one of the delegates after the unseating of the others had been affected, but that he declined to accept same; the regular delegates of McLennan county were turned down, he said, and the others seated, though he really thought this did not actually affect the situation, inasmuch as the whole convention procedure had been agreed upon, and if the first delegation had been retained it would not have changed the actual work of the convention, because the convention would have run it over the McLennan county action. He stated that he tried to get the regular delegates in the convention seated, but that the convention would not do this.

The motion of J. William Smith to table the resolution regarding the El Paso incident was voted on at this juncture and lost heavily. The resolution condemning the El Paso procedure was then adopted.

DISTRICT DELEGATES ARE SELECTED.

Chairman George W. Barcus of the committee on delegations reported to the convention the delegates who were chosen to go to the various conventions, and these were ratified by the convention, as follows:

"To Hon. W. W. Woodson, chairman: We, your committee on nominations of delegates to the state and district conventions, beg leave to make the following report:

"We recommend that the following be elected delegates to the Eleventh senatorial convention: :E. E. Witt, H. O. Dabney, Joel Kincannon, Will Gorham, William Baldridge, W. H. Criswell, Rufe Laughlin, Ben Hatch, Alva Bryan.

Respectfully submitted,
G. W. BARCUS, Chairman.
GEO. CAUFIELD,
E. S. GAUSE,
Committee.

The convention adopted the list of delegates as submitted by the committee headed by G. W. Barcus.

The resolution bearing on delegations was adopted, which imposed the unit rule and the voting of the delegations as a unit on all matters coming before the gatherings.

Chairman W. W. Woodson thanked the convention for its harmony and disposition to do the right thing, after which adjournment came.

CONVENTION ADOPTS RESOLUTION.

To the Hon. W. W. Woodson,
Chairman.

Your committee on platform and resolution beg leave to make the following report:

First. We endorse the administration and the democratic and foreign policies of President Woodrow Wilson, which have given the country peace and prosperity, and preserved its standing among the nations of the world during a period of unusual disturbance, and repudiated the criticisms and attacks upon him which are being circulated throughout the country as coming from Texas as untimely and unjust, and opposed to the sentiment of the masses of Texas democrats.

Second. We heartily commend the course of Senators Culberson and Sheppard, and those members from Texas of the lower house of congress who joined them in effective support of the president in the difficult and perplexing tasks and duties which have been imposed upon him as a result of revolution and war in both hemispheres and we declare it to be the duty of every citizen, as well as every public officer, in a time of such unrest and peril to loyally support his government against attacks from within as well as from foes without.

Three. The right of suffrage is the most valuable asset of citizenship, and any invasion of that right strikes at the foundations of our institutions. The marshalling of votes by the use of improper agencies, and the control of elections by invisible power, are evils which a people jealous of their liberty ought not to tolerate. We declare that it is of first importance to free the ballot from all sinister and selfish influence, and to restore the equality of citizenship by making it impossible for any man to either buy or command another's vote.

Fourth. Public office is a public trust, and no individual, by reason of haste, self-assertion or extravagant expenditure, may rightfully pre-empt a claim upon it The admitted deterioration in the public service and the growing unwillingness of those who are best fitted for its duties to offer for office, call for readjustment which will re-establish the dignity of office, awaken a higher sense of responsibility in the servants of the people, and call to their service men of spotless character and unquestioned ability. In this connection, we denounce as an offense against the public welfare the raising and disbursement of large campaign funds, either to elect particular men to office, or to achieve special ends in legislation, and demand the passage of laws to prohibit the same.

5. The penal, eleemosynary and educational institutions of the state ought not to be the subject to continuous and ofttimes reckless experimentation at the hands of successive state administrations, and it ought to be impossible to conscript their employes into a political machine. The extravagance and waste which have changed the penitentiary from a self-supporting basis to a source of almost incalculable loss, running as high as $1,000,000 a year, weigh heavily upon the taxpayer and call for vigorous attention. No remedy can be effective which leaves these institutions at the mercy of bad politics. We favor the removal of them all from the control of the governor, and the creation of a responsible business agency selected directly by the people upon the plan of the selection of the railroad commission, and the adoption of a civil service system for all employes.

6. All guilt is personal, and the sale of license at any price for the violation of penal laws is destructive of public respect for law. We declare that all offenders should suffer the same consequences for offenses of equal degree, and that every device through which the penalty may be discharged for a money consideration should be abandoned.

7. The tendency to nullify law through wholesale distribution of pardons as rewards to favorites, and in satisfaction of political debts, is an evil which strikes at the vitals of good government, and the pardoning power should be vested in a non-political board and exercised as a judicial function beyond the reach of improper influence of any kind. We demand the passage of suitable legislation to accomplish this end.

8. We indorse the state democratic administration and urge upon the democrats of this county the hearty support of the nominees of the democratic party chosen in the late primary, and instruct our delegates to the state nominating convention at Houston to vote for a platform which will energetically declare for a rigid economy in government, a reduction of taxation, for submission of a prohibition amendment, for the retention of the Robertson insurance law as it now exists, the reform of court procedure, the abolition of the fee system, and the enforcement of all laws, civil and criminal, without fear or favor.

9. Our representatives in the legislature, senate and house are instructed at all times, and upon all occasions,

Says She Was Saved From Operating Table

BROTHER AND SISTER BOTH RELIEVED BY SIMPLE REMEDY AVAILABLE TO ANY ONE.

In her gratitude for a remedy that saved her from the possible necessity for an operation, Mrs. Carrie Heflin, of Coats, Kans., writes: "Had it not been for Fruitola and Traxo I might have been on the operating table by now. It relieved me of at least one hundred and fifty gall stones. It surely does work wonders. My brother also had suffered for years and has been greatly benefited by Fruitola and Traxo."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs softening the congested masses, disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expels the accumulation in an easy, natural way. Traxo is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach with most beneficial results and is recommended for use in connection with Fruitola to build up and restore the weakened, run-down system.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Waco they can be obtained at W. B. Morrison's Drug Co.

Jess Willard Says: "Take Nuxated Iron

If you want plenty of 'stay there' strength and health muscles like mine."

Ordinarily Nuxated Iron will often increase strength and endurance of the delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent in two weeks' time.

I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength, power and endurance.

SPECIAL NOTE—Dr. E. Sauer, a well known physician, who has studied widely in both this country and Europe, has been specially employed to make a thorough investigation into the real secret of the great strength, power and endurance of Jess Willard and the marvelous value of nuxated iron as a strength builder.

NEW YOR—Upon being interviewed at his apartment into the Colonial Hotel, Mr. Willard said: "Yes, I have a chemist with me to study the value of different foods and products as to their power to produce great strength and endurance, both of which are so necessary in the prize ring. On his recommendation I have often taken nuxated iron and I have particularly advocated the free use of iron by all those who wish to obtain great physical and mental power. Without it I am sure that I would never have been able to whip Jack Johnson so completely and easily as I did, and while traning for my bout with Frank Moran, I regularly took nuxated iron and I am certain that it was a most important factor in my winning so easily." Continuing, Dr. Sauer said, "Mr. Willard's case is only one of hundreds which I could cite from my own personal experience which proves conclusively the astonishing power of nuxated iron to restore strength and vitality even in most complicated chronic conditions."

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked be to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact a young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more or less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient of iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grand tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous run-down people who were ailing all the wile, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron, simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you wish it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE — Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine, nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron consistuents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by Powers-Kelly Drug. Co., W. B. to vote for the retention of the Robertson insurance law as it now exists.

10. Our representatives in the legislature, senate and house are instructed to vote for the passage of a resolution submitting to a vote of the people an amendment to the constitution to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicants.

SEVERAL SUPPLEMENTARY RESOLUTIONS.

Eleventh. Resolved, that we recommend that Hon. Joe Cavitt of McGregor be recommended to the state convention from this, the eleventh senatorial district as a member of our state executive committee for the ensuing two years.

Twelfth. Resolved, that we extend to our county chairman, H. Elmer Brown, and our county secretary, Chas. B. Braun, of the democratic executive committee, and C. L. Wilie and to E. L. Kellner, Abe Gross, James Hays Quarles, Howard McElroy and the Texas Telephone company our appreciation and thanks for the valuable services rendered in obtaining and tabulating the returns of the recent election. We further extend thanks to the press of the city for the prompt publication of all news relating to the election and especially to the Times Herald for the free use of an office and its helpful accessories.

Thirteenth. Resolved that we condemn the action of certain people in McLennan county, Texas, who calling themselves democrats, did two years ago hold a caucus consisting of a few individual people and make a list of supposed delegates to the El Paso convention and carried same there and had the list seated as delegates in said convention and ousted the regularly elected delegates from this county to said convention. And we here repudiate such action as being undemocratic and contrary to the spirit and letter of the law and against pure politics.

And resolved further that we commend those democrats and the papers who at said time condemned said procedure and hope that the day will soon come when all men who claim to be democrats will refuse to stand for such high-handed actions.

Fourteenth. Whereas, the democracy of the eleventh congressional district has given a handsome vote to the Hon. Tom Connally of Falls county and he is the nominee of the democracy of the district, be it

Resolved, that the democracy of McLennan county endorse the Hon. Tom Connally and present him to the people of this district asking all the people of the district to give him their vote in November, assuring them that he is capable, qualified and worthy in every way of the honor.

—Offered by Bart Moore.

Fifteenth. The committee submitted the following, presented by A. R. McCollum, with the endorsement of the committee:

On the eve of another great nation-wide contest that promises to be historical and exert influence, not alone in our country but world-wide, the democracy of McLennan county goes on record expressing its admiration and its endorsement of the administration of President Woodrow Wilson and the democratic house and senate. In the years to come the record thus achieved will stand forth pre-eminent in value and prestige for constructive legislation well calculated to promote every legitimate interest of our people and country and to promote prosperity and good understanding between the people of all sections and we pledge our hearty support to President Wilson in the cost that will end in November.

Sixteenth. Contemplating the coming retirement of Congressman Robert Lee Henry from the house of representatives the congress after a career of virtually twenty years, we here bear testimony to our appreciation of the valuable service he has rendered to his state, his people and his party. We share in the pride of all Texas people in the influence and leadership he has won in national affairs and tender to him our esteem and good will as his friends and neighbors and our hearty good wishes for his welfare in the future.

Seventeenth. Your committee on platform and resolutions begs further to recommend that the unit rule shall be adopted for the delegates to all conventions and that no proxies shall be allowed.

Officers of Central Labor Council Will Be Elected Wed.

At the next meeting of the Central Labor council, which will be on next Wednesday, they will elect their officers for the next six months, there will be other matters of importance also and a full attendance of delegates is expected.

J. O. Cary, chairman of the industrial relations committee of the council, has received a copy of the report of the federal industrial relations commission, very generally known as the Walsh committee. The report contains not only the report of Basil M. Manly, director of research and investigation, which was signed by Hon. Frank P. Walsh, John B. Lennon, James O'Connell and Austin B. Garretson, but also has the individual reports and statements of the several commissioners.

The report gives the conclusions and recommendations of the commission after hearing evidence in all sections of the country, on several matters brought out in the investigation, the report is very "illuminating" and is well worth reading, and any one may get a copy, for which there is no charge, by writing their congressman or senator.

It will be remembered by many that the Central Labor council called a mass meeting at the Labor hall July 23 and sent a strong set of resolutions to Washington, urging the publication of the report.

WORKER FOR ORPHANS' SOCIETY IN WACO

Working in behalf of abandoned and orphaned babies up to 3 years old, Mrs. Anna L. Warren of Dallas is spending a few days in Waco, soliciting funds for the Orphan Home society of Dallas, which she represents as field secretary. In her work among the cities of Texas and other states, Mrs. Warren visits the homes where the babies turned over to the institution have been placed, inquiring into their welfare and ascertaining whether they are receiving the proper treatment.

In speaking of this feature of the work, Mrs. Warren stated a baby is placed only in the homes of those willing to adopt one, and with the legal understanding that should the foster parents fail to love the child and treat it in every respect as their own, they may return it to the society, or he society may recover the child and place it in a better home.

The Orphan society, under the superintendency of Rev. J. D. Odom, a Methodist minister, is located at 5520 Reiger avenue, is non-sectarian, chartered under the laws of the state of Texas, but nationwide in its scope, with the sole object of providing homes in well selected families for orphan and dependent children.

Save the children of today and you will save the nation of tomorrow, has been adopted as a motto by the society.

Since the organization of the society homes have been provided for more than 140 children, scattered through seven states, while children have been received from five states. Mrs. Warren states that if any one knows an orphan, dependent and homeless child, or any family wants to adopt a child, the society will be glad to receive word and make suitable arrangements.

Leopold and Hooks Will Open Style Shop August 15

What will be the latest offerings of the fall in men's clothing and furnishings are arriving daily at Leopold & Hooks on Austin street and all arrangements are going ahead rapidly in anticipation of the opening of this new store for men on August 15. This will be known as the Style Shop and everything in men's apparel, except shoes, will be carried in stock.

Backed by men who have had many years in catering to high-grade clothing requirements for men, the Style Shop proposes to make a specialty of supplying the latest dictates of style and the very best qualities in gentlemen's furnishings that are made. The fall lines now being received will show a variety and completeness that will make the store distinctive in Waco.

For several months the process of remodeling the building and manufacturing the artistically designed display cases and appointments have been in process. Birch wood has been used in the inside display and shelf equipment and the whole appearance catches the eye at once as being attractive and distinctive.

MANY ARE WORKING FOR FREE VACATION TRIPS

Waco Morning News Finds Many Enthusiastic Over Success of Plan Open to All.

Interest in the Morning News vacation campaign continues to increase daily. A large number of the nominees are fast securing their trip to Galveston, and during the coming week there will probably be four or five who will finish. So far there has been one who has earned a trip. Three new entrants have come in since Friday. They are Arlie L. Edward of Dawson, Mrs. Leslie Price, 415 Clay street, city; Mrs. J. T. Harman, 520 Speight street, city, and Mrs. Millie Voznica of Waco, route No. 2.

All of those who are trying for a trip say it is one of the most attractive propositions they ever heard of and the matter of securing a free vacation is not at all difficult.

It is a proposition in which each one knows what the requirements are before starting in. It is not a voting contest, in fact, it is the reverse of a voting contest, because there is no competition. Each one who secures twelve yearly subscriptions for the Morning News by mail or by carrier will be awarded the trip. A hundred or more can secure a trip, and the successful one can go to Galveston within three days after the trip is earned.

The trip which each one will secure for obtaining these twelve subscriptions will pay your round trip railroad fare from Waco, accommodations at the Galvez hotel for seven full days and $10 in cash for incidental expenses. Each one has until August 20 to obtain the twelve subscriptions. Securing twelve subscriptions is not a hard matter by any means, the ordinary person having a few friends could obtain twelve subscriptions in three or four days and thereby have a splendid summer vacation all tucked away. What's the use of spending your own money to go to the gulf this summer when you can earn it and go at no expense? Those who desire to secure their vacation this summr under this plan should send in their name to the Vacation Manager of the Waco Morning News at once, and complete information will be given.

Honorably Discharged

After nearly three months spent on the Mexican border with the Texas national guard, doing patrol duty, I am now back home and at my place of business—the Southland Barber Shop, 602 Austin avenue.

I received an honorable discharge through the recent ruling of Secretary of War Baker, relative to the dismissal of men of family and business interests.

I beg to express my sincere appreciation of the patronage accorded my shop during my absence by the citizens of Waco and vicinity. The fact that this patronage has been so good indicates that my customers were accorded the same courteous and efficient service by my barbers as when I was present.

Now that I am back once more, I wish to say that I expect to be here in business the remainder of my life, and will be glad to greet all my old customers and many new ones.

The Southland Barber Shop has a well earned reputation for sanitation, cleanliness, service and satisfaction. We have the best barbers in the city, the most convenient location, the best baths and the best and most courteous service.

To my friends, will say that I have quite a collection of snap-shot pictures taken of various camp and border scenes. These will be on exhibition in the windows of my shop.

Flagg-Coffin.

I "EYE TO EYE" TALKS I

HIS EYES

Their Troubles Their Care

—By Dr. W. B. Georgia—

Wind and dust are the two most injurious agents that the eye has to contend with. Take, for instance, street car motormen, railroad engineers, motorists and all persons whose eyes are exposed to high winds, and you will find that in every case they complain sooner or later of eye troubles. The eyes become inflamed and feel a smarting, burning sensation. This is due to the eyes being exposed to the excessive wind which dries the eyeballs from the proper amount of lubricating fluid. This moisture being absorbed too quickly, allows the dust to collect on the conjunctiva, which sets up an irritation.

When you take in consideration that one opens and closes their eyes from eight to ten thousand times a day, do you wonder that the constant scratching of this dust imbedded in the eye ball would cause the eyes to become red and inflamed?

Any person engaged in work such as described above should by all means protect their eyes from the wind and dust. Not with cheap sun glasses, which do more harm than good in the long run, but with lenses which are made to take care of each individual's own peculiar case. If the eye is not sensitive to the heat and chemical light waves, a colored glass should never be worn, but a clear crystal glass instead.

The very best method to pursue is to have your eyes examined by a competent, trustworthy man, one who knows how and what to prescribe for all manner of eye troubles. I might add that you can make no mistake in having your eyes examined at the Exclusive Optical Store, 625 Austin, just in front of Seventh.

JUDGE PRENDERGAST MAKES A STRONG TALK ON "ENFORCEMENT OF LAW."

OPPOSES COURT-MADE LAW

Declaring that on the certain and speedy enforcement of law depends the perpetuity of the government, Chief Justice A. C. Prendergast of the court of criminal appeals made one of the important addresses of the year before the Lawyers' Luncheon club at the Raleigh yesterday. Judge Prendergast was among his fellow members of the bar in Waco, for he still claims that this city is his home, although his residence for several months has been in Austin.

The speaker was introduced by J. D. Williamson, for five years a partner of the guest of honor. Mr. Williamson paid a high compliment to the personal integrity of Judge Prendergast declaring that he had proven himself a lawyer who sought for the right rather than for satisfaction of securing a favorable verdict.

"He is a man who has not followed the law for sordid gain," declared Mr. Williamson.

President D. C. Woods added his tribute to the high standing of Judge Prendergast, characterizing him as a man who stood for the supremacy of justice. R. K. Barton acted as secretary for the day in the absence of C. H. Machen.

THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Waco Lawyers' Luncheon Club:

It affords me much pleasure to be with you today. I still consider myself a member of the Waco bar. I have never severed my relations as a member of the bar. Your chairman, Mr. Woods, called me an ex-Waco man, he was in error. I still belong to Waco, and Waco is my home, and it makes no difference how long I may be away in the work I am now engaged in I expect to return here when it ceases and still make it my home.

When I first came to Waco it was a long time ago, now almost a third of a century. There was a different set of lawyers here then than what there are now. Now, as strange as it may seem most every one of those young lawyers are now—a good many of them have come in here in the last five or six years since I went away, and I find myself frequently, when I come here occasionally, meeting some of you I hardly know who they are or how long they have been here.

The topic I am to discuss can be treated by me on this occasion very meagerly only. No one can encompass it in a mere brief talk. Different authors have written at length upon it.

What I shall have to say will not be new, nor announce anything radical or startling. Nor shall what I say be meant or intended in criticism of any member of our bar, or of any judge or court. If I should mention any given case, it will be done simply in an effort to illustrate the point I am discussing. The principles I announce can be gleaned from almost any of the standard writers on any kindred subject.

What I shall have to say will be directly applicable to criminal laws, though the principles are also somewhat applicable to civil laws as well.

LAW MUST BE KNOWN.

Logically, in discussing my topic, it is necessary to first ascertain—what is the law? No law can be enforced unless and until it is known what it is.

Every person is presumed to know the law, or, ignorance of the law excuses no person; as our own statute expresses it, no person shall be excused for a violation of the law upon the ground he was ignorant of its provisions. The great law writer, Mr. Bishop, says, this rule is "compelled by necessity, the great master of all things. Without it justice could not be administered." It is absolutely essential to government.

All offenses, under our law, must be prescribed by legislative enactment. A great many rights in civil matters are also prescribed by like enactment. To the ordinary layman, it would therefore apparently seem to be an easy task, if a task at all, to at least know what is a crime. When an attorney is employed in any case, or the judge is called on to pass upon the question he knows by actual experience it is some times quite a difficult task. I will attempt to call attention to some of the difficulties to be encountered, and the questions to be investigated and considered, in arriving at what is the law. Of course, in most instances the enactments are clear and there is difficulty in ascertaining what the law is. In such instances, however, much difficulty may be encountered in applying the law to the facts, in a given case. I will not discuss that feature.

However, I must digress to give you a forcible illustration of what is the law and its enforcement from the negro's standpoint. At one of our own justice courts on a first Monday morning, when usually a large number of negroes of both sexes attend, either as accused or witnesses, or both, some negro men were leaning spending their opinions as to what was the law, and their sources of knowledge, some giving one, and another buck, wiser, in his own conceit, than the others, asserted they were all wrong and that he, and he alone, knew what the law was. When pressed to tell he said: "The law is just what the white folks does to you"—and perhaps he was right.

The powers of our state government are wisely divided into three separate and distinct departments, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. Each is independent of the other, and neither can legally undertake the proper function of another. The designation of these departments is indicative of the powers to be exercised by them respectively.

ASCERTAINING LAW COMPLICATED MATTER.

As stated, to some the ascertainment of what is the law may appear to be an easy task. But, in some instances, I have found it a very difficult one. Not only the constitution of the United States must be consulted, but also our state constitution, the legislative enactment itself and frequently the common law also, must be explored. While we must look to our legislative enactments alone for penal offenses or crimes, yet much aid can be had by considering the same character of common law crimes. However, great difficulty is sometimes encountered in the language used by the legislature to define crime, and to prescribe procedure and punishment. This is frequently such as to require the application of many of the established rules to ascertain what is an offense, and the procedure to be followed to correctly and legally punish an offender.

In other instances, no difficulty at all arises. Let me give you one instance. You know, our law now makes it an offense to shoot, or play, craps anywhere, and an offense to play cards anywhere except at a private residence occupied by a family. In one of our counties a negro was convicted of crap shooting—a typical case. He contended the law was unconstitutional on the ground of race discrimination—that craps was a negro game, and cards the white man's, and as the law excepted card playing at a residence, and did not craps, it was therefore void.

ALL THREE DEPARTMENTS ARE RESPONSIBLE.

While the powers of the three departments are thus apportioned as their several designations indicate, it must not be supposed that the judicial department alone must interpret and declare what is the law and enforce it in all matters; for the judiciary, by no means, is the only department to interpret, declare and enforce the law. As a matter of fact, many of the legislative enactments never reach the judiciary for interpretation. Some of them pertain alone to the executive branch of the government, for its guidance, direction, obedience and enforcement in both criminal and civil matters; hence, it is necessary that the executive, in many instances, is under the necessity, and actually discharges the duty, of interpreting and ascertaining for itself, and enforcing some laws, without the aid and without reference to the judiciary.

Some rules for the interpretation of legislative enactments are sometimes enacted by the legislative department itself. In which event, the other departments, the executive and the judicial, are, and should be, bound thereby. It is also one of the cardinal rules of the judiciary that the interpretation and construction given by the legislative or executive department to any law has great force with, and in most instances should be respected, and is respected, by the judiciary, unless and only, where such interpretation or construction is so clearly wrong as the judiciary can with certainty determine, establish and declare it so.

The judiciary has, by long experience and thorough investigation and analysis, established and declared, and applied, many rules for the interpretation of the written statutory enactments and of the constitutional provisions as well.

IS A LIBERAL CONSTRUCTIONIST.

It is generally understood that there are two ways of interpreting written constitutions and statutory enactments. One is termed a strict construction; the other, a liberal construction. The sole purpose of both is to ascertain and determine with certainty, on the one hand, what was the people's, and on the other, the legislative, intent. And each in his own way seeks to apply all other rules of interpretation to attain this end.

I have had the good fortune, I think, to have been trained, and believe, in a liberal interpretation and construction, in contradistinction to a technical or strict one. I believe that all rules applicable to the interpretation of constitutions and statutory enactments should be applied liberally for the purpose and with the view of ascertaining and determining what was the intention and scope of the convention and people in adopting constitutional provisions, and of the legislative intent in the enactment of a law. And I believe that statutory enactments should have their full meaning, and the more extended of two meanings, where capable of two constructions, if such was the intention and purpose of the legislative mind. Of course, the statutory words should receive that interpretation which is reasonable, plain and clear according to the intent of the makers, disregarding captious and technical objections, and even the demands of exact grammatical propriety. And the words, even of a penal statute, should be given that interpretation and extent that they will fairly and reasonably bear for the purpose of embracing and containing what was intended and meant by the legislature.

The legislative department which has the power and authority to so declare, and the judicial has no authority to say it nay, has emphatically enacted that the provisions of the codes "shall be liberally constructed, so as to attain the objects intended by the legislature: the prevention, suppression and punishment of crime," and "every law upon the subject of crime shall be construed according to the plain import of the language in which it is written, without regard to the distinction usually made between the construction of penal laws and laws upon other subjects." So that I am not in sympathy with the declaration sometimes unthoughtedly made by judges, that because a legislative enactment is penal it must be strictly construed.

I am not unmindful of the fact that every provision of the law safeguarding the rights of the accused shall also be liberally construed; and while I would not take from the accused, by either liberal or strict construction, "one jot or one tittle" of his rights and liberties guaranteed by the constitutions and laws, I believe the idea which seems sometimes to be asserted, that laws are enacted, and must be construed by the courts, for the protection of criminals, is an erroneous one. Instead, if any difference is to be made, I believe the laws are enacted and should be enforced for the protection of the rights and liberties of all the other people who are not wilful and malicious criminals. I cannot help but believe that insubstantial technical matters which do not go to the real merits and spirit of the ascertainment and enforcement of the laws should be brushed away. We do this in all the other affairs of life, and of government.

I apprehend that even those who believe in a strict or technical construction have, or ought to have, the same purpose in view, but that in attempting to arrive at what that intent and purpose is, seek to express and give effect to words in their narrow, contracted and technical meaning. We have heard of what is apparently attempted to be declared as a new rule—"the rule of reason." If by this it is intended to mean that in judicial interpretation of any penal, or other statute, words shall be interpolated which have not been placed therein by the legislative department, or words which have been placed therein by the legislative department, or words which have been placed therein, shall be stricken therefrom, or given a meaning which is not the fair, clear, comprehensive and broad meaning that is intended by the legislative enactment, then the application of such rule is radically wrong, and is but judicial usurpation of legislative power.

If the language of a statute is plain, and the intent of the enacting power—which is the legislative only—can clearly be ascertained therefrom, no court has the right, nor has it the power by judicial interpretation, to insert additional words therein, or take therefor what the legislature has placed therein, so as to change its meaning. And when any court does so, even though it be the highest in the land, it is but the rankest usurpation of power without right. And in my humble judgment, it is a long step toward impairing, if not destroying, one of the great fundamental doctrines of our form of government, which, as our constitution says, is, "No person or collection of persons being of the udicial department, shall exercise any power properly attached to the legislative."

"WITHOUT FEAR AND WITHOUT FAVOR."

Whenever or by whatever proper authority or power a law has been enacted and interpreted, and whatever meaning is given to it, it should then be enforced, without fear and without favor, by whatever magistry its enforcement devolves upon. There should be no distinction in the enforcement of it, whether it is popular or unpopular. There should be no exception, and there is none properly, whatever be the law. Take the executive of our state as illustrative of what I am trying to impress. The constitution which he swears to support, as every other officer does, specially requires, and is mandatory, that "he shall cause the laws to be faithfully executed." This does not mean such laws as appear to him to be just and right, for he, after the law has been constitutionally enacted, has no discretion to say that this or that shall be enforced and the other shall not be. For again, our constitution emphatically declares: "No power of suspending laws shall be exercised except by the legislature." So that he has not the right to say that this law, or that, shall be enforced and the other shall not be; but broad as it is, and effective as it is intended to be, "he shall cause the laws"—all the laws—"to be faithfully executed;" and clearly, implied., if not expressly, he is clothed with the power and authority to require those under his jurisdiction to cause the laws—all the laws—to be faithfully executed.

What I have said has no special reference to any particular past, or the present, executive nor to any particular law; for I am fully persuaded that all laws, whatever they may be, and wherever they have operation, ought, and "shall be enforced."

And what I have said of the executive is equally, if not more, applicable to the judiciary. It is created and empowered with all necessary power and authority, and it is also its special function, to enforce the laws—all the laws.

Permit me here to again quote briefly from Bishop—one of the greatest if not the greatest law writers this or any other country has ever produced—in his work on new criminal law. He says:

"The manner and degree in which man's technical rules and God's primary right blend, differ with the age, the country, the circumstances of the people, and their enlightenment. But the truth remains through all changes and in all countries, that there must be law pervading all human affairs; and that if the tribunals and the legislature have failed to fill the entire space, still nature fills it; and if the judges will not listen to the voice of nature, other powers will expound her laws and inflict her punishments."

PERPETUITY DEPENDS ON ENFORCEMENT.

Our state is a government of law, and by law. And I believe that its perpetuity can be had only by the faithful enforcement of whatever is the law. Our codes declare; the object of punishment is to suppress crime and reform the offender; and that they seek to adopt measures to prevent the commission of crime, but if committed, to exclude the offender from all hope of escape; and the certain execution of the sentence of the law when declared. Whenever any government shall admit, ither expressly or impliedly, that it cannot enforce the laws, that government is a failure and cannot stand but must fall. I believe that the law, whatever it is, whether popular or unpopular, whether it may be deemed good by some and bad by others or not, as long as it is the law, ought to be enforced by all properly constituted authorities. If it is not, it will return upon the people, so that our government, instead of being a government of law and order, will not be government; anarchy will prevail; might instead of right will rule. Disorder, instead of order, lawlessness instead of law abiding, the vicious and lawless instead of the peaceable and law-abiding will rule, and when this time comes, if it ever does, it will necessitate a change in the form of our government to the detriment and injury of all the people of the land.

INDIVIDUAL DUTY TO OBEY.

I further believe that it is the duty of every citizen to obey, and not only himself obey, but seek to have others obey the law, whatever it be. That this is one of the true tests of a liberty loving and patriotic citizen—that he himself shall not only strive to obey and carry out the law, so far as he is individually concerned, but that he shall aid and assist all properly constituted authorities to enforce in spirit and i nletter whatever is properly ascertained, declared and determined to be the law. It is the duty of every department of the government, whether it be legislative, executive or judicial, for they are the representatives of the people, to enforce obedience to and compliance with laws—not a part, not what may be popular only, but all others as well. There can be no safety and there can be no protection unless this is done. It should be the pride of every citizen and especially of every lawyer, the lawyer should set the example, and of every other officer, that when any person, high or low, rich or poor, powerful or weak, shall violate the law, to see that the punishment prescribed shall be surely and certainly inflicted, and thereby manifest his love for his country. For in this way and this only, can a government of law and order be perpetuated.

UGH! CALOMEL IS HORRIBLE! IT SHOCKS YOUR LIVER, IF BILIOUS

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

Sheltering Arms Home Has Done Much to Aid the Fallen

Horace L. Thomas, superintendent of the Sheltering Arms Rescue association, has given out the following summary of the work of the association for the past nine months and the accompanying explanation of the plan of the home's purposes:

Thirty-one girls have been assisted to better lives.

Twenty-two have passed through the home.

More than two hundred and fifty street services have been conducted. Average attendance of street services fifteen; total attendance of street services 3750. One hundred and twenty-five services conducted in hall. Workers' average attendance three. There have been a large number asked an interest in our prayers. There have been eight conversions. Five have joined the churches. Six have been sent home to parents. Over 300 have been dealt with about the lives they are living. More than fifty special visits have been made to give assistance.

IS DOING A DISTINCT WORK.

We are frequently asked if our work is not like the Shepherd's home. We answer no, and following are a few reasons why:

First, we confine our work strictly to those who are in need and not to those who are able to pay their way.

Second, we will not under any circumstance accept pay from a girl or any of her friends for the purpose of getting a home for her baby, no matter what the amount might be. We have convictions along these lines and expect to stand by them.

Third, we believe in keeping mother and child together.

Fourth, Rule 8 of our work is, "Everyone getting admittance to our home will be expected to stay a period of one year.

Fifth, we have a board of directors consisting of a president, vice president, second vice president, secretary-treasurer and medical director. All of these are business people of our city who give of their money and time without pay for the rescue of the fallen and for the best morals of our city.

MUST OBEY LAWS TO PERPETUATE NATION

OPPOSES COURT-MADE LAW

Declaring that on the certain and speedy enforcement of law depends the perpetuity of the government, Chief Justice A. C. Prendergast of the court of criminal appeals made one of the important addresses of the year before the Lawyers' Luncheon club at the Raleigh yesterday. Judge Prendergast was among his fellow members of the bar in Waco, for he still claims that this city is his home, although his residence for several months has been in Austin.

The speaker was introduced by J. D. Williamson, for five years a partner of the guest of honor. Mr. Williamson paid a high compliment to the personal integrity of Judge Prendergast declaring that he had proven himself a lawyer who sought for the right rather than for satisfaction of securing a favorable verdict.

"He is a man who has not followed the law for sordid gain," declared Mr. Williamson.

President D. C. Woods added his tribute to the high standing of Judge Prendergast, characterizing him as a man who stood for the supremacy of justice. R. K. Barton acted as secretary for the day in the absence of C. H. Machen.

THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Waco Lawyers' Luncheon Club:

It affords me much pleasure to be with you today. I still consider myself a member of the Waco bar. I have never severed my relations as a member of the bar. Your chairman, Mr. Woods, called me an ex-Waco man, he was in error. I still belong to Waco, and Waco is my home, and it makes no difference how long I may be away in the work I am now engaged in I expect to return here when it ceases and still make it my home.

When I first came to Waco it was a long time ago, now almost a third of a century. There was a different set of lawyers here then than what there are now. Now, as strange as it may seem most every one of those young lawyers are now—a good many of them have come in here in the last five or six years since I went away, and I find myself frequently, when I come here occasionally, meeting some of you I hardly know who they are or how long they have been here.

The topic I am to discuss can be treated by me on this occasion very meagerly only. No one can encompass it in a mere brief talk. Different authors have written at length upon it.

What I shall have to say will not be new, nor announce anything radical or startling. Nor shall what I say be meant or intended in criticism of any member of our bar, or of any judge or court. If I should mention any given case, it will be done simply in an effort to illustrate the point I am discussing. The principles I announce can be gleaned from almost any of the standard writers on any kindred subject.

What I shall have to say will be directly applicable to criminal laws, though the principles are also somewhat applicable to civil laws as well.

LAW MUST BE KNOWN.

Logically, in discussing my topic, it is necessary to first ascertain—what is the law? No law can be enforced unless and until it is known what it is.

Every person is presumed to know the law, or, ignorance of the law excuses no person; as our own statute expresses it, no person shall be excused for a violation of the law upon the ground he was ignorant of its provisions. The great law writer, Mr. Bishop, says, this rule is "compelled by necessity, the great master of all things. Without it justice could not be administered." It is absolutely essential to government.

All offenses, under our law, must be prescribed by legislative enactment. A great many rights in civil matters are also prescribed by like enactment. To the ordinary layman, it would therefore apparently seem to be an easy task, if a task at all, to at least know what is a crime. When an attorney is employed in any case, or the judge is called on to pass upon the question he knows by actual experience it is some times quite a difficult task. I will attempt to call attention to some of the difficulties to be encountered, and the questions to be investigated and considered, in arriving at what is the law. Of course, in most instances the enactments are clear and there is difficulty in ascertaining what the law is. In such instances, however, much difficulty may be encountered in applying the law to the facts, in a given case. I will not discuss that feature.

However, I must digress to give you a forcible illustration of what is the law and its enforcement from the negro's standpoint. At one of our own justice courts on a first Monday morning, when usually a large number of negroes of both sexes attend, either as accused or witnesses, or both, some negro men were learnedly spending their opinions as to what was the law, and their sources of knowledge, some giving one, and another buck, wiser, in his own conceit, than the others, asserted they were all wrong and that he, and he alone, knew what the law was. When pressed to tell he said: "The law is just what the white folks does to you"—and perhaps he was right.

The powers of our state government are wisely divided into three separate and distinct departments, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. Each is independent of the other, and neither can legally undertake the proper function of another. The designation of these departments is indicative of the powers to be exercised by them respectively.

ASCERTAINING LAW COMPLICATED MATTER.

As stated, to some the ascertainment of what is the law may appear to be an easy task. But, in some instances, I have found it a very difficult one. Not only the constitution of the United States must be consulted, but also our state constitution, the legislative enactment itself and frequently the common law also, must be explored. While we must look to our legislative enactments alone for penal offenses or crimes, yet much aid can be had by considering the same character of common law crimes. However, great difficulty is sometimes encountered in the language used by the legislature to define crime, and to prescribe procedure and punishment. This is frequently such as to require the application of many of the established rules to ascertain what is an offense, and the procedure to be followed to correctly and legally punish an offender.

In other instances, no difficulty at all arises. Let me give you one instance. You know, our law now makes it an offense to shoot, or play, craps anywhere, and an offense to play cards anywhere except at a private residence occupied by a family. In one of our counties a negro was convicted of crap shooting—a typical case. He contended the law was unconstitutional on the ground of race discrimination—that craps was a negro game, and cards the white man's, and as the law excepted card playing at a residence, and did not craps, it was therefore void.

ALL THREE DEPARTMENTS ARE RESPONSIBLE.

While the powers of the three departments are thus apportioned as their several designations indicate, it must not be supposed that the judicial department alone must interpret and declare what is the law and enforce it in all matters; for the judiciary, by no means, is the only department to interpret, declare and enforce the law. As a matter of fact, many of the legislative enactments never reach the judiciary for interpretation. Some of them pertain alone to the executive branch of the government, for its guidance, direction, obedience and enforcement in both criminal and civil matters; hence, it is necessary that the executive, in many instances, is under the necessity, and actually discharges the duty, of interpreting and ascertaining for itself, and enforcing some laws, without the aid and without reference to the judiciary.

Some rules for the interpretation of legislative enactments are sometimes enacted by the legislative department itself. In which event, the other departments, the executive and the judicial, are, and should be, bound thereby. It is also one of the cardinal rules of the judiciary that the interpretation and construction given by the legislative or executive department to any law has great force with, and in most instances should be respected, and is respected, by the judiciary, unless and only, where such interpretation or construction is so clearly wrong as the judiciary can with certainty determine, establish and declare it so.

The judiciary has, by long experience and thorough investigation and analysis, established and declared, and applied, many rules for the interpretation of the written statutory enactments and of the constitutional provisions as well.

IS A LIBERAL CONSTRUCTIONIST.

It is generally understood that there are two ways of interpreting written constitutions and statutory enactments. One is termed a strict construction; the other, a liberal construction. The sole purpose of both is to ascertain and determine with certainty, on the one hand, what was the people's, and on the other, the legislative, intent. And each in his own way seeks to apply all other rules of interpretation to attain this end.

I have had the good fortune, I think, to have been trained, and believe, in a liberal interpretation and construction, in contradistinction to a technical or strict one. I believe that all rules applicable to the interpretation of constitutions and statutory enactments should be applied liberally for the purpose and with the view of ascertaining and determining what was the intention and scope of the convention and people in adopting constitutional provisions, and of the legislative intent in the enactment of a law. And I believe that statutory enactments should have their full meaning, and the more extended of two meanings, where capable of two constructions, if such was the intention and purpose of the legislative mind. Of course, the statutory words should receive that interpretation which is reasonable, plain and clear according to the intent of the makers, disregarding captious and technical objections, and even the demands of exact grammatical propriety. And the words, even of a penal statute, should be given that interpretation and extent that they will fairly and reasonably bear for the purpose of embracing and containing what was intended and meant by the legislature.

The legislative department which has the power and authority to so declare, and the judicial has no authority to say it nay, has emphatically enacted that the provisions of the codes "shall be liberally constructed, so as to attain the objects intended by the legislature: the prevention, suppression and punishment of crime," and "every law upon the subject of crime shall be construed according to the plain import of the language in which it is written, without regard to the distinction usually made between the construction of penal laws and laws upon other subjects." So that I am not in sympathy with the declaration sometimes unthoughtedly made by judges, that because a legislative enactment is penal it must be strictly construed.

I am not unmindful of the fact that every provision of the law safeguarding the rights of the accused shall also be liberally construed; and while I would not take from the accused, by either liberal or strict construction, "one jot or one tittle" of his rights and liberties guaranteed by the constitutions and laws, I believe the idea which seems sometimes to be asserted, that laws are enacted, and must be construed by the courts, for the protection of criminals, is an erroneous one. Instead, if any difference is to be made, I believe the laws are enacted and should be enforced for the protection of the rights and liberties of all the other people who are not wilful and malicious criminals. I cannot help but believe that insubstantial technical matters which do not go to the real merits and spirit of the ascertainment and enforcement of the laws should be brushed away. We do this in all the other affairs of life, and of government.

I apprehend that even those who believe in a strict or technical construction have, or ought to have, the same purpose in view, but that in attempting to arrive at what that intent and purpose is, seek to express and give effect to words in their narrow, contracted and technical meaning. We have heard of what is apparently attempted to be declared as a new rule—"the rule of reason." If by this it is intended to mean that in judicial interpretation of any penal, or other statute, words shall be interpolated which have not been placed therein by the legislative department, or words which have been placed therein by the legislative department, or words which have been placed therein, shall be stricken therefrom, or given a meaning which is not the fair, clear, comprehensive and broad meaning that is intended by the legislative enactment, then the application of such rule is radically wrong, and is but judicial usurpation of legislative power.

If the language of a statute is plain, and the intent of the enacting power—which is the legislative only—can clearly be ascertained therefrom, no court has the right, nor has it the power by judicial interpretation, to insert additional words therein, or take therefor what the legislature has placed therein, so as to change its meaning. And when any court does so, even though it be the highest in the land, it is but the rankest usurpation of power without right. And in my humble judgment, it is a long step toward impairing, if not destroying, one of the great fundamental doctrines of our form of government, which, as our constitution says, is, "No person or collection of persons being of the udicial department, shall exercise any power properly attached to the legislative."

"WITHOUT FEAR AND WITHOUT FAVOR."

Whenever or by whatever proper authority or power a law has been enacted and interpreted, and whatever meaning is given to it, it should then be enforced, without fear and without favor, by whatever magistry its enforcement devolves upon. There should be no distinction in the enforcement of it, whether it is popular or unpopular. There should be no exception, and there is none properly, whatever be the law. Take the executive of our state as illustrative of what I am trying to impress. The constitution which he swears to support, as every other officer does, specially requires, and is mandatory, that "he shall cause the laws to be faithfully executed." This does not mean such laws as appear to him to be just and right, for he, after the law has been constitutionally enacted, has no discretion to say that this or that shall be enforced and the other shall not be. For again, our constitution emphatically declares: "No power of suspending laws shall be exercised except by the legislature." So that he has not the right to say that this law, or that, shall be enforced and the other shall not be; but broad as it is, and effective as it is intended to be, "he shall cause the laws"—all the laws—"to be faithfully executed;" and clearly, implied, if not expressly, he is clothed with the power and authority to require those under his jurisdiction to cause the laws—all the laws—to be faithfully executed.

What I have said has no special reference to any particular past, or the present, executive nor to any particular law; for I am fully persuaded that all laws, whatever they may be, and wherever they have operation, ought, and "shall be enforced."

And what I have said of the executive is equally, if not more, applicable to the judiciary. It is created and empowered with all necessary power and authority, and it is also its special function, to enforce the laws—all the laws.

Permit me here to again quote briefly from Bishop—one of the greatest if not the greatest law writers this or any other country has ever produced—in his work on new criminal law. He says:

"The manner and degree in which man's technical rules and God's primary right blend, differ with the age, the country, the circumstances of the people, and their enlightenment. But the truth remains through all changes and in all countries, that there must be law pervading all human affairs; and that if the tribunals and the legislature have failed to fill the entire space, still nature fills it; and if the judges will not listen to the voice of nature, other powers will expound her laws and inflict her punishments."

PERPETUITY DEPENDS ON ENFORCEMENT.

Our state is a government of law, and by law. And I believe that its perpetuity can be had only by the faithful enforcement of whatever is the law. Our codes declare; the object of punishment is to suppress crime and reform the offender; and that they seek to adopt measures to prevent the commission of crime, but if committed, to exclude the offender from all hope of escape; and the certain execution of the sentence of the law when declared. Whenever any government shall admit, ither expressly or impliedly, that it cannot enforce the laws, that government is a failure and cannot stand but must fall. I believe that the law, whatever it is, whether popular or unpopular, whether it may be deemed good by some and bad by others or not, as long as it is the law, ought to be enforced by all properly constituted authorities. If it is not, it will return upon the people, so that our government, instead of being a government of law and order, will not be government; anarchy will prevail; might instead of right will rule. Disorder, instead of order, lawlessness instead of law abiding, the vicious and lawless instead of the peaceable and law-abiding will rule, and when this time comes, if it ever does, it will necessitate a change in the form of our government to the detriment and injury of all the people of the land.

INDIVIDUAL DUTY TO OBEY.

I further believe that it is the duty of every citizen to obey, and not only himself obey, but seek to have others obey the law, whatever it be. That this is one of the true tests of a liberty loving and patriotic citizen—that he himself shall not only strive to obey and carry out the law, so far as he is individually concerned, but that he shall aid and assist all properly constituted authorities to enforce in spirit and l nletter whatever is properly ascertained, declared and determined to be the law. It is the duty of every department of the government, whether it be legislative, executive or judicial, for they are the representatives of the people, to enforce obedience to and compliance with laws—not a part, not what may be popular only, but all others as well. There can be no safety and there can be no protection unless this is done. It should be the pride of every citizen and especially of every lawyer, the lawyer should set the example, and of every other officer, that when any person, high or low, rich or poor, powerful or weak, shall violate the law, to see that the punishment prescribed shall be surely and certainly inflicted, and thereby manifest his love for his country. For in this way and this only, can a government of law and order be perpetuated.

UGH! CALOMEL IS HORRIBLE! IT SHOCKS YOUR LIVER, IF BILIOUS

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

HUGHES-FAIRBRNKS CLUB TO BE FORMED

A movement among white republicans here to organize a strong Hughes and Fairbanks club has resulted in a long start in that direction already, and the call for the organization states that the meeting will be held in the municipal court room at the city hall at 8 o'clock Thursday night, August 3. The call for the meeting and the organization of the club, with names of signers up to yesterday afternoon, follows:

"Waco, Texas, July 29, 1916.

"We ,the undersigned, duly qualified voters of McLennan county, Texas, hereby declare ourselves in favor of the election of Charles E. Hughes and Charles W. Fairbanks as president and vice president of the United States; and as an aid to the accomplishment of such result that a Hughes and Fairbanks club for McLennan county be organized, and to which we now subscribe our names as members.

"And for the purpose of organization of such club we call a meeting of the voters of McLennan county interested in the election of Hughes and Fairbanks to assemble at the municipal court room at the city hall in Waco at 8 o'clock Thursday night, August 3, 1916.

Tomorrow will see the opening in this city of one of the most complete and attractive paint supply houses in the state in the instance of the Sherwin-Williams branch store at 720 Austin street. The two-story structure at this place has just been remodeled and furnished for the storage and display of paints, wall paper and glass. The concern is both wholesale and retail.

J. J. Twaddell, who has been traveling out of Waco for the last fourteen years for the Sherwin-Williams people, will be the local manager. Cecil C. Shear, who has for a number of years been connected with the wall paper department of the Nash-Robinson company of Waco, will have charge of the wall paper end of the new concern. Luther Craig, recently of Hillsboro, will have charge of the paint department. This will be the fifth branch store of the Sherwin-Williams company in Texas.

This branch store of the big Cleveland, Ohio, company will be marked by the completeness of stock which will be carried in the several lines. Motor delivery service has been provided and the new store is equipped to handle a big volume of both wholesale and retail business with dispatch. The display facilities of the concern are first-class in every respect.

J. Ginsberg, who has been conducting a dry goods business on Austin street, will leave within a few days for a vacation of several days at Mineral Wells.

Tom Bartlett, county attorney of Falls county, was in the city yesterday and attended the Lawyers' club luncheon to hear the address of Judge A. C. Prendergast.

Miss Maud La Frentz has returned to her home in Austin after having been a visitor for several days in the home of Mrs. Frank Jackson, Twenty-sixth and Graham streets.

After being confined to his bed for about twelve weeks, W. J. Paisley was on the streets for a few minutes Monday, but since that time we understand he has been in a critical condition.

Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Edmondson, 2105 Morrow, will leave the latter part of the week for Tennessee to spend a few weeks with Mr. Edmondson's sister and brothers.

APPAM IS AWARDED TO ENGLISH OWNERS BY FEDERAL COURT

Norfolk, Va., July 29.—Possession of the British liner Appam, brought into Hampton Roads last February by a German prize crew, was awarded to her English owners, the African Steam Navigation company, by Judge Waddill of the federal district court. An appeal will be taken when the opportunity is given next Wednesday and the final decision in the libel proceedings probably will be given by the supreme court. In the meantime the Appam will stay at Newport News in the custody of the United States marshal or will be turned over to her owners under bond. Her cargo has been sold for $634,000 and the money is being held by the court.

What is to become of Lieutenant Berg, the prize commander, and his twenty-one men must be determned by the state department. The general opinion here is that they will be interned.

Judge Waddill's decision held that the Appam lost her status as a prize when she entered American territorial waters to remain indefinitely. He rejected the German contention that the Prussian-American treaty of 1799 permitted German prizes to be tied up in American waters and held that prizes could be brought only by a war vessel acting as a convoy and then only for the temporary causes recognized by international law.

Generally speaking, Lieutenant Berg and his men are regarded as a part of Germany's naval forces and if that view were carried out to its conclusion, they would have to be interned for the war with the crews of the two other German raiders, the Prinz Eitel Friedrich and the Kron Prinz Wilhelm, at the Norfolk navy yard.

In Our Country's History.

(Porter Emerson Browne in McClure's Magazine.)

Preparedness, and I mean military and naval preparedness, has always been as much a part of the lives of Americans as the air they breathed, or the food they ate.

When the colonists landed in Virginia, they carried gun and powder, bullet and sword. When the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock, they were armed; yet they, too, were godly men, and good. The fact that they carried arms did not make them kill Indians. It was the fact that they carried guns that prevented the Indians from killing them.

Preparedness to our ancestors was the very germ of life. Without it they would never have lived long enough to give birth to descendants who in turn gave birth to us.

At Concord and Lexington it was the same, and throughout the war that wrung up full born fro mthe womb of England to become a people great and free to enjoy the liberty that is now ours to use, and to abuse.

And in the Civil war. Suppose, when this country had that to face, that the people of the north, instead of preparing (belatedly, to be sure, as they did, and suffering from that belatedness as they needs must) had sat back fatly and complacently and written notes about it? Why, had the north acted as these pacifists want us to act now, all that the south would have had to do would have been to put an advertisement in the New York papers warning all northerners that the south was i na state of war, and that if they didn't want to get killed they'd better stay at home. That would have settled the whole thing right there. Of course the country would have been busted wide open in the middle. But what's a little thing like that to a pacifist?

Why, preparedness has been the one thing that conceived this country, that carried it, and that gave it birth. To preparedness we owe everything we have and everytning we are. To the armed protection that our ancestors gave us do we owe the peace that has given us the opportunity to grow and expand and develop. To it we owe our freedom of speech and religion. To it we owe our national wealth and prosperity.

All that we have come to be, all that we have come to own, we owe to military preparedness and naval; to the fact that we are too strong physically to be attacked with impunity. Preparedness and this country's history have always been as inseparable as a ma nand his heart's blood. And yet at this time, when more than ever in our country's history is it needed, ehere are people who talk about cutting it off as though it were a verminform appendix or a couple of adenoids.

Something Wrong.

"There is something wrong with the social system," remarked the thoughtful man.

"What makes you think so?"

"The bandit who made all kinds of trouble is still roaming the world a free man, and my husband, who is as conscientious and law abiding a citizen as you would want to meet, is locked up on jury duty."—Washington Star.

¶ CITY NEWS BRIEFS ¶

Most of the picnics for this season already have been held in this section. Prior to the election there were many such gatherings in the county, but it is rare now that such a gathering is heard of in this section.

With the county conventions all held there will be nothing to talk about now in the way of conventions except the state conventions and the national elections in November. With these all out of the way, it is hoped by the business men that business will have a chance to get the ear of the people for awhile.

Some work is ye to be done on the lock and dam below Waco, in fixing the leak in the dame, but this is not a serious matter at all and announcement doubtless will be made soon of the definite date on which the lack and dam will be backing the water up towards Waco. Suitable ceremonies will be held when that time comes.

Members of the Young Men's Hebrew association have planned for a dance at the Cameron Park Casino on Wednesday evening of this week. The committee in charge expect to do everything possible to make the evening a most enjoyable one and they anticipate entertaining a large number of dancers.

The reunion of the old settlers of Williamson county, held in Georgetown each year, is booked to begin on July 31 and it will last for about ten days. The gatherings are always attended by large crowds and the people, many of them, go and camp on the grounds and talk over old times. One of the most beautiful camping grounds in Texas has been chosen for the annual affair, and every needed comfort is easily accessible.

CITY REFUSES STRIKERS' DEMANDS

Pittsburg, Pa., July 29.—The city council at a special meeting, today voted down an ordinance granting the demands of 1,100 striking street sweepers and teamsters for an increase of 5c an hour.

Streets have not been cleaned since the strike was called, early in the week.

(Springfield, Mass., Republican.)

W. H. Carter of Norfolk, Conn., among the clippings of a friend discovered the following unique legacy, the will of one Charles Lounsbury:

I Charles Lounsbury, being of sound mind and disposing memory, do hereby make and publish this, my last will and testament, in order as justly as may be to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

That part of my interest which is known in law and recognized in the sheep bound volumes as my property, being inconsiderable and of no account, I make no disposal of in this, my will.

Item: I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children, all good little words of praise and encouragement, and all quaint pet names and endearments, and I charge said parents to use them justly and generously, as the needs of their children may require.

Item: I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every, the flowers of the fields, and the blossoms of the woods, with the right to play among them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks, and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof and the odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees. And I leave the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the moon and the train of the milky way to wonder at, but subject nevertheless to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

Item: I devise to boys jointly all the useful, idle fields and commons where ball may be played; all pleasant waters where one may swim; all snowclad hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where when grim winter comes, one may skate; to have and to hold the same for the period of their boyhood. And all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereof, the woods and their appurtenances, the squirrels and birds, and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place at the fireside at night, with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy without let or hindrance and without any incumbrance of care.

Item: To lovers I devise their imaginary world with whatever they may need; as the stars of the sky; the red roses by the wall; the bloom of the hawthorn; the sweet strains of music and aught else by which they may desire to figure to each other the lastingness and beauty of their love.

Item: To young men jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous, inspiring sports and rivalry, and I give them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength, though they are rude; I give them power of making lasting friendships, and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and brave choruses, to sing with lusty voices.

Item: And to those who are no longer children or youths or lovers, I leave the memory, and I bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare and of other poets, if there be others, to the end that they may live over the old days again, freely and fully, without tithe or diminution.

HUGHES-FAIRBRNKS CLUB TO BE FORMED

A movement among white republicans here to organize a strong Hughes and Fairbanks club has resulted in a long start in that direction already, and the call for the organization states that the meeting will be held in the municipal court room at the city hall at 8 o'clock Thursday night, August 3. The call for the meeting and the organization of the club, with names of signers up to yesterday afternoon, follows:

"Waco, Texas, July 29, 1916.

"We ,the undersigned, duly qualified voters of McLennan county, Texas, hereby declare ourselves in favor of the election of Charles E. Hughes and Charles W. Fairbanks as president and vice president of the United States; and as an aid to the accomplishment of such result that a Hughes and Fairbanks club for McLennan county be organized, and to which we now subscribe our names as members.

"And for the purpose of organization of such club we call a meeting of the voters of McLennan county interested in the election of Hughes and Fairbanks to assemble at the municipal court room at the city hall in Waco at 8 o'clock Thursday night, August 3, 1916.

Tomorrow will see the opening in this city of one of the most complete and attractive paint supply houses in the state in the instance of the Sherwin-Williams branch store at 720 Austin street. The two-story structure at this place has just been remodeled and furnished for the storage and display of paints, wall paper and glass. The concern is both wholesale and retail.

J. J. Twaddell, who has been traveling out of Waco for the last fourteen years for the Sherwin-Williams people, will be the local manager. Cecil C. Shear, who has for a number of years been connected with the wall paper department of the Nash-Robinson company of Waco, will have charge of the wall paper end of the new concern. Luther Craig, recently of Hillsboro, will have charge of the paint department. This will be the fifth branch store of the Sherwin-Williams company in Texas.

This branch store of the big Cleveland, Ohio, company will be marked by the completeness of stock which will be carried in the several lines. Motor delivery service has been provided and the new store is equipped to handle a big volume of both wholesale and retail business with dispatch. The display facilities of the concern are first-class in every respect.

The Woman's party, which came into being a few weeks ago, is planning a hot campaign to oust from congress foes of equal suffrage in states where women have the ballot. Miss Anne Martin is chairman of the Woman's party national committee. Miss Alice Paul is the second most important figure in the party. Mrs. Nina Allender is cartoonist of the Suffragist, the party's official organ.

That Old Pennant's Still Near

WACO---3 PIRATES--11

NOYES WALLOPS TWO HOMERS

DOUBLE BILL TODAY.

Waco and Galveston tangle up in a double-header at Katy Park today, the first game starting at 3 o'clock. Manager Sentell will pick his twirlers from Couchman, Karr and Gudger, with the first two being his probable selections. The Big Skipper intends to use Poll Perritt in one game, but had not decided last night who his other nominee would be. Noyes and Andreen will divide the receiving while Red Kuhn must bear the brunt of both battles since Reilly's thumb is not in shape.

The Pirates had their fun yesterday; now it's the Tars' time to make merry on their own account. One of the biggest Sunday crowds of the season is expected to cheer the locals, as the railroads have put on extra low rates from all nearby points.

A double win will put the Navs close to the leaders and Paul has n't got another pitcher who can tame the homelings. Be there and watch 'em cop.

Nosir, when our ball club don't get breaks, it don't get breaks, and that's flat. Even the weather man hates to hand the Sailors a lucky strike. A gentle, misty sprinkle started about the third inning yesterday and continued in a hopeful way as a sort of pleasant accompaniment to the ring of Pirate bats; it swished and sheeted with some vigor until the visitors got tired of circling the bases and then—did it open up in sincere fashion and flood the park a couple of inches? Such an event would be chronicled with pleasure, but truth is truth. Long before the fifth every sky pipe had been bottled up and a thin ray of sunshine was trying to tint the fences. And after the bold beams had brightened the field the Pirates stopped scoring.

The slaughter was in a class to itself; it was different, original. It smacked of no pattern-stealing. The reason of its double shock lay in its unexpectedness. If Cliff Hill had mounted in the first inning, a pall of resignation would doubtless have settled over the Saturday afternooners. They'd have settled back and watched with dead hopes. But the portsider mowed them down with no apparent effort in the first, and thereby hangs the ghastly tale. Eddie Noyes and Lute Stuart were responsible for a large slice of Lefty's discomfiture in that they picked yesterday to relieve themselves of three home runs. This trio of long knocks had been lingering in their bats while the rain poured in Shreveport, Eddie told the grandstand, and this was the first opportunity to get rid of them. The story was given general credence among the crowd.

Sergeant Barfoot didn't display any such world-beating form before he had that luscious lead to back him. After that he sailed along without a quiver. In fact, he got so confident in his ability to slide by that he just let Noyes hold up the big mitt as a target to chunk by, and didn't even take any signals—yea, had a big pipe. A small-sized commotion in the local body took a speck of starch out of his bearing in the ninth inning, that sly grin left his face and he pitched.

The southpaw had the first three batters at his mercy in the opener. Breaux and Stuart were strike-outs on deep, sweeping curves that wissed their sticks by a couple of feet. Atz flied out to James. He apparently had more stuff than in his last few starts and his deliveries broke with a whizz and a hop. Then—

SIX RUNS FOR PIRATES.

Hill's blow-up in the second was a master-piece; not a half-hearted off-form-for-a-minute stunt, but a sure-enough ascension. Sentell walked and advanced on Balenti's perfectly placed bunt that caught Hill out of position and Conwell spiked to the bag. Both runners moved up on a wild pitch. Sharman singled to right, scoring Sentell. After Miller flied out Sharman stole second. With the count two and two on Noyes Lefty slipped him a fast one which he turned over the rightfield fence, bringing in Balenti and Sharman ahead of him. Barfoot struck out, but Breaux drew a pass. Stuart knocked a homer over the other fence for two more scores. Atz flied out to Coyle.

Sage took up the relief job in the third. Sentell walked again and counted on Balenti's two-bagger to the left-center boards. The Indian reached third on the throw-in. Sharman skied to Tanner. Miller pulled a neat squeeze to Conwell for the score. Noyes obliged the second time with a four-bagger, the third poled in two Pirate innings. Barfoot whiffed. The steady mist promised to change to a heavy shower and the visitors hurried it up.

Breaux boosted to Bittle for a starter in the fourth. Stuart knicked the top of the fence in James' back yard for a double. Atz fouled to Kuhn for the second out. Sentell's safety to right scored Stuart and the Boss raced to third on Balenti's third hit to center. As Sage tried to catch Balenti off first, Sentell dashed for home and was caught, Conwell to Kuhn.

Galveston's eleventh and final run was manufactured in the fifth. Sharman smote a mighty double to right and went to third on Miller's sacrifice, Grubb to Conwell. He scored on Noyes' infield out to third. Barfoot grounded to Malmquist.

After the fifth round Sage held them safe and pitched a good four innings. Breaux walked in the sixth, but was forced at second by Stuart, Grubb to Mal. Atz filed to Bittle and Sentell grounded out to third. They went down in order in the seventh. Tanner's wide throw to catch Noyes in the eighth gave that slugger a short life. Barfoot laid one against the wall which James speared with one hand and Noyes stayed at first. Breaux hit into a double, Malmquist to Conwell.

In Waco's first Malmquist singled through third after two were down. On James' grounder Balenti tried to force the runner at second, but the throw was high and both were safe. Tanner skied to Sharman. In the third Sage, first up, singled to right. Bittle hit to Balenti who swung the pivot end of the double himself. Tanner got a solid smash high on the fence in the fourth for two bags after two had gone out. Conwell drove a sizzler through short which Balenti clung to. In the seventh Connie hit to center for one base, but was forced by Grubb, Atz to Stuart. Bittle walked in the eighth and was cut off at second on another force, Stuart to Balenti.

NAVS RALLY IN THE NINTH.

A game rally in the ninth caused Sentell to rapidly motion for a dug-outer to warm up. Not a chance in the world to lose it, y'understand, but the Son of Sunny It' believed in Preparedness. Mal singled down the left-field foul line as a lead-off. James forced him at second, Balenti to Stuart. Tanner flied out to Sharman. Conwell's single to center scored James and Irish went to third on Grubb's single to the Senger sign. Balenti threw low to Miller on Kuhn's grounder, allowing Conwell to count. Wohlleben, hitting for Sage, delivered with a single to center on which Grubby stepped across. Bittle sent a line drive to center for the last out.

Finals Scheduled for Tomorrow

Dallas, July 29.—Stack of Austin vs. Russ of San Antonio in the singles and Wright and Hogue, both Dallas, vs. Seeligson of San Antonio and Peak of Dallas in the doubles is the card for the finals in the southwestern district tennis tournament to be played here Monday.

Stack won his right today by defeating J. Burton Rix of Dallas in the last match of he semi-finals 9-7, 6-1, 9-7. The match was spectacular, although hampered by wet courts.

In the last match of the doubles semi-finals Seeligson and Peak defeated Russ, San Antonio, and Adoue, Dallas, in three straight sets 6-1, 10-8, 6-3.

RED SOX PITCHERS SHOULD BE CHEERED

With the home stretch of the pennant race no longer a million miles away, the teams at the head of the leagues are taking count of their resources and beginning to compute their chances of going through the rest of the season at the top of their stride. In the American league at present New York, Boston and Cleveland seem to have the best chances and with even breaks of luck through the rest of the summer they will be battling for the pennant at a time when a few points either way will make a big difference.

The Boston Red Sox have an excellent chance at the ring. Every one in Boston admits that Tris Speaker has been greatly missed, but at the same time the team remains strong defensively and has done without Speaker better than, say, the Indians, would now. The strongest part of the Boston line-up, however, is their excellent pitching talent, and if they are having part in a world's series late this fall they will be considerably obliged to some of their gifted young slabsters.

Mays, Shore, Ruth and Leonard are up among the leaders in the list of American league pitchers and all of them but Leonard have won more than twice the number of games they have lost. George Foster has not won the percentage of games he is capable of, but bum luck and unseasonable slumps have marred his record. At the same time if Foster goes through the rest of the summer at his normal stride will have helped the Red Sox to a firmer grip near the top of the race.

All the Boston pitchers seem to be turning in victories of the sort that please the fans—few snut-outs, but the game won on infrequent and scattered hits by the opposition. With three runs behind him, most any member of the Boston pitching staff can promise to bring home the bacon.

DOUBLE BILL TODAY.

Waco and Galveston tangle up in a double-header at Katy Park today, the first game starting at 3 o'clock. Manager Sentell will pick his twirlers from Couchman, Karr and Gudger, with the first two being his probable selections. The Big Skipper intends to use Poll Perritt in one game, but had not decided last night who his other nominee would be. Noyes and Andreen will divide the receiving while Red Kuhn must bear the brunt of both battles since Reilly's thumb is not in shape.

The Pirates had their fun yesterday; now it's the Tars' time to make merry on their own account. One of the biggest Sunday crowds of the season is expected to cheer the locals, as the railroads have put on extra low rates from all nearby points.

A double win will put the Navs close to the leaders and Paul has n't got another pitcher who can tame the homelings. Be there and watch 'em cop.

Nosir, when our ball club don't get breaks, it don't get breaks, and that's flat. Even the weather man hates to hand the Sailors a lucky strike. A gentle, misty sprinkle started about the third inning yesterday and continued in a hopeful way as a sort of pleasant accompaniment to the ring of Pirate bats; it swished and sheeted with some vigor until the visitors got tired of circling the bases and then—did it open up in sincere fashion and flood the park a couple of inches? Such an event would be chronicled with pleasure, but truth is truth. Long before the fifth every sky pipe had been bottled up and a thin ray of sunshine was trying to tint the fences. And after the bold beams had brightened the field the Pirates stopped scoring.

The slaughter was in a class to itself; it was different, original. It smacked of no pattern-stealing. The reason of its double shock lay in its unexpectedness. If Cliff Hill had mounted in the first inning, a pall of resignation would doubtless have settled over the Saturday afternooners. They'd have settled back and watched with dead hopes. But the portsider mowed them down with no apparent effort in the first, and thereby hangs the ghastly tale. Eddie Noyes and Lute Stuart were responsible for a large slice of Lefty's discomfiture in that they picked yesterday to relieve themselves of three home runs. This trio of long knocks had been lingering in their bats while the rain poured in Shreveport, Eddie told the grandstand, and this was the first opportunity to get rid of them. The story was given general credence among the crowd.

Sergeant Barfoot didn't display any such world-beating form before he had that luscious lead to back him. After that he sailed along without a quiver. In fact he got so confident in his ability to slide by that he just let Noyes hold up the big mitt as a target to chunk by, and didn't even take any signals—yea, had a big pipe. A small-sized commotion by the local body took a speck of starch out of his bearing in the ninth inning, that sly grin left his face and he pitched.

The southpaw had the first three batters at his mercy in the opener. Breaux and Stuart were a strike-outs on deep, sweeping curves that wissed their sticks by a couple of feet. Atz flied out to James. He apparently had more stuff than in his last few starts and his deliveries broke with a whizz and a hop. Then—

SIX RUNS FOR PIRATES.

Hill's blow-up in the second was a master-piece; not a half-hearted off-form-for-a-minute stunt, but a sure-enough ascension. Sentell walked and advanced on Balenti's perfectly placed bunt that caught Hill out of position and Conwell spiked to the bag. Both runners moved up on a wild pitch. Sharman singled to right, scoring Sentell. After Miller flied out Sharman stole second. With the count two and two on Noyes Lefty slipped him a fast one which he turned over the rightfield fence, bringing in Balenti and Sharman ahead of him. Barfoot struck out, but Breaux drew a pass. Stuart knocked a homer over the other fence for two more scores. Atz flied out to Coyle.

Sage took up the relief job in the third. Sentell walked again and counted on Balenti's two-bagger to the left-center boards. The Indian reached third on the throw-in. Sharman skied to Tanner. Miller pulled a neat squeeze to Conwell for the score. Noyes obliged the second time with a four-bagger, the third poled in two Pirate innings. Barfoot whiffed. The steady mist promised to change to a heavy shower and the visitors hurried it up.

Breaux boosted to Bittle for a starter in the fourth. Stuart knicked the top of the fence in James' back yard for a double. Atz fouled to Kuhn for the second out. Sentell's safety to right scored Stuart and the Boss raced to third on Balenti's third hit to center. As Sage tried to catch Balenti off first, Sentell dashed for home and was caught, Conwell to Kuhn.

Galveston's eleventh and final run was manufactured in the fifth. Sharman smote a mighty double to right and went to third on Miller's sacrifice, Grubb to Conwell. He scored on Noyes' infield out to third. Barfoot grounded to Malmquist.

After the fifth round Sage held them safe and pitched a good four innings. Breaux walked in the sixth, but was forced at second by Stuart, Grubb to Mal. Atz flied to Bittle and Sentell grounded out to third. They went down in order in the seventh. Tanner's wide throw to catch Noyes in the eighth gave that slugger a short life. Barfoot laid one against the wall which James speared with one hand and Noyes stayed at first. Breaux hit into a double, Malmquist to Conwell.

In Waco's first Malmquist singled through third after two were down. On James' grounder Balenti tried to force the runner at second, but the throw was high and both were safe. Tanner skied to Sharman. In the third Sage, first up, singled to right. Bittle hit to Balenti who swung the pivot end of the double himself. Tanner got a solid smash high on the fence in the fourth for two bags after two had gone out. Conwell drove a sizzler through short which Balenti clung to. In the seventh Connie hit to center for one base, but was forced by Grubb, Atz to Stuart. Bittle walked in the eighth and was cut off at second on another force, Stuart to Balenti.

NAVS RALLY IN THE NINTH.

A game rally in the ninth caused Sentell to rapidly motion for a dug-out to warm up. Not a chance in the world to lose it, y'understand, but the Son of Sunny It believed in Preparedness. Mal singled down the left-field foul line as a lead-off. James forced him at second, Balenti to Stuart. Tanner flied out to Sharman. Conwell's single to center scored James and Irish went to third on Grubb's single to the Senger sign. Balenti threw low to Miller on Kuhn's grounder, allowing Conwell to count. Wohlleben, hitting for Sage, delivered with a single to center on which Grubby stepped across. Bittle sent a line drive to center for the last out.

Finals Scheduled for Tomorrow

Dallas, July 29.—Stack of Austin vs. Russ of San Antonio in the singles and Wright and Hogue, both Dallas, vs. Seeligson of San Antonio and Peak of Dallas in the doubles is the card for the finals in the southwestern district tenis tournament to be played here Monday.

Stack won his right today by defeating J. Burton Rix of Dallas in the last match of he semi-finals 9-7, 6-1, 9-7. The match was spectacular, although hampered by wet courts.

In the last match of the doubles semi-finals Seeligson and Peak defeated Russ, San Antonio, and Adoue, Dallas, in three straight sets 6-1, 10-8, 6-3.

With the home stretch of the pennant race no longer a million miles away, the teams at the head of the leagues are taking count of their resources and beginning to compute their chances of going through the rest of the season at the top of their stride. In the American league at present New York, Boston and Cleveland seem to have the best chances and with even breaks of luck through the rest of the summer they will be battling for the pennant at a time when a few points either way will make a big difference.

The Boston Red Sox have an excellent chance at the ring. Every one in Boston admits that Tris Speaker has been greatly missed, but at the same time the team remains strong defensively and has done without Speaker better than, say, the Indians, would now. The strongest part of the Boston line-up, however, is their excellent pitching talent, and if they are having part in a world's series late this fall they will be considerably obliged to some of their gifted young slabsters.

Mays, Shore, Ruth and Leonard are up among the leaders in the list of American league pitchers and all of them but Leonard have won more than twice the number of games they have lost. George Foster has not won the percentage of games he is capable of, but bum luck and unseasonable slumps have marred his record. At the same time if Foster goes through the rest of the summer at his normal stride will have helped the Red Sox to a firmer grip near the top of the race.

All the Boston pitchers seem to be turning in victories of the sort that please the fans—few shut-outs, but the game won on infrequent and scattered hits by the opposition. With three runs behind him, most any member of the Boston pitching staff can promise to bring home the bacon.

After more than sixteen years of starring in the box Christy Mathewson is now a manager and his greatest ambition has become a winning team for Cincinnati. He brought with him from the Giants Rousch and McKechnie, players on whom he counts to strengthen the Cincinnati team.

Fred Toney, the Cincinnati Reds' star hurler, and Blue Jacket, the Indian pitching recruit recently turned back, are the two largest pitchers in the game at present. Blue Jacket—who says that his last name is Jacket and his first name Blue—is six feet nine inches, and Toney is six feet six.

Nix on the Horns Commands Ban

Chicago, July 29.—The ruling of Ban Johnson on music at ball games has created considerable discussion on the junior circuit. The American league president issued a ukase yesterday in which he said: "People come to ball games to see baseball and not to hear band concerts." So no more music will be played in American league parks while the game is in progress.

Johnson's ruling came as the result of a protest made by the Cleveland club over the Friday game. During a rally, a rooters' band insisted on adding its music to the din. Silk O'Loughlin, who acted as umpire in chief, asked the band to desist, but was met only by derisive boos. The umps calmly called play and announced to the Cleveland management that play would not be resumed until the band ceased its playing. The rooters and club evidently thought Silk was bluffing, but it decided differently at the end of a fifteen-minute lay-off and the music stopped. Incidentally, the Cleveland rally blew up and Boston went on and won the game.

DAUBERT SLIPS BACK INTO SECOND

Chicago, July 29.—While Dave Robertson still holds the lead among the National league batters and Jake Daubert retins second place, this week's averages show changes in the remaining places among the leading hitters. Carey, Pittsburg, is ahead in stolen bases with 31; Flack, Chicago, in sacrifice hits with 28; Williams, Chicago, in home runs, with ten, and in total bases with 148, and Burns, New York, in runs scored with 59. Cincinnati leads in club batting with .254.

In the American league Cobb took second place and is close up to Speaker, adding four points to his average over that of last week, while Jackson fell off. Weaver, Chicago, took the lead in sacrice hits with 27; Cobb remained in front with stolen bases with 36, no gain over last week; Baker's eight home runs is still topmost in that department, while Speaker leads in total bases with 173 and in runs scored with 69. Detroit is ahead in team hitting with .256.

Two Navigators Are Sent Home

Jimmie Zinn and Outfielder Flynn were sent home yesterday by Manager Ellis Hardy on full pay for the rest of the season. The severe sprain received by Flynn in the game Thursday made it almost impossible for him to play again this year and as Hardy is much pleased with the form shown by the youngster in his three days here he will report for spring training in 1917.

Zinn departed for his home in Ohio, to be back again for next year's start. The bad-acting ligament in his right arm has never rounded into shape since the original injury in Beaumont, Bonesetter Reese having failed to effec a complete cure. A long rest will do Jimmie much more good than an occasional workout on the mound until Labor Day, and it is almost certain that he'll be the same smoky merchant of old when he reports for duty eight months hence.

When Uncle Anthony Drives the Reaper.

I hear Uncle Anthony coming across the road with the reaper. I can tell without looking, because I can hear the wheels on the hard ground. They make a sort of rolling, clanking sound that I like.

I run out to watch him come. The rakes of the reaper have long wooden teeth. It is a self-raker. One of the rakes stands straight up, and makes me think of a person. It looks as if it had a nose and mouth. The others all slant in different ways. They make me think of people too. They lean over, and look as if they were held by the feet and were stiff all the way up.

Uncle Anthony has a long whip. He keeps saying, "Gee dap! Gee dap!" Once in a while he touches one of the old mares a little bit. When he turns in from the road the wheels make a clicking sound on the grass.

Uncle Anthony drives along the asparagus row and up to the corner of the wheat. He gets off, and goes around with the oil can. He had his old clap pipe between his teeth, and I can hear him breathe through his nose. The pipe is almost black in some places. I can smell the smoke. The air is hot and still. It seems as if the pipe and the smoke were what made it so hot.

Uncle Anthony's hat is old and black and stained, a great deal like the pipe. He hasn't shaved for quite a few days.

He gets into the seat and takes the whip and says: "Gee dap! G' long!" The old mares take another bite at the wheat heads, and switch their tails and start. The sickle begins to clip. The rake that has been standing up straight makes a sudden turn with its face, and bows to me. The next rake comes up and stands straight, and turns its face in the same way, and then bows just like the other one. They keep going around and around, only the fourth one always sweeps all the wheat off the platform and leaves it in a nice pile for them to bind. The other rakes just come down and push the heads of the wheat over so that it falls on the platform. They don't sweep it off. They act as if they meant to sweep it off, but they always turn their faces to qne side just when you think they are going to.

I follow along behind, watching the rakes come up and go down. They act so much like people that I almost feel like saying something to them.

The old mares are slow. Uncle Anthony flicks them and says: "Gee dap! G' 'long there!" They shake their heads and switch their tails, but they don't hurry. He shakes the lines and says a little louder: "Gee dap! G' 'long, consarn ye. Come, what're ye doin' there?" He keeps saying it all the time.

The old mares get so slow that sometimes the sickle almost stops. Uncle Anthony hits one of them harder, and says lauder than ever: "Gee dap! Come! Y' gad all fish hooks! I never see nothing like it. Git along there!"

Bonehead plays will always divert the fan, even though he hoots, and it is probable that they will occur from time to time forever. Though it seldom happens, stealing second with the bases full is the most celebrated, but there are others, a few of which are touched upon in the accompanying pictures.

Sporting Comment

Stuart tried hard to make his second four-base clout in the fourth. The ball hit on top of the right-field fence and caromed off into Coyle's hands, Lute being held at second.

Just for variation, Noyes turned one homer over the right-field fence and the other into the lumber yard on Webster street. Anything for a change to liven up ball games, says Eddie.

This kid Breaux is one of the most graceful little fielders in the circuit. He has speed to burn and can capture anything inside the palings; he also has a well-developed habit of getting on.

Won't some team please let the Athletics win one game to make it an even twenty? Fans all over the country find it mighty monotonous reading to glimpse that "19" in their win column every day.

Jakey Atz seems to have the same back-turning tendencies as his kinsman, Bobby Stow. Jakey never was unmannearly to the ball when he played second base, but maybe that old hot-corner makes a difference.

Outfielder Johnson is on the side lines with a bad ankle. Meanwhile Senteil is playing the outfield acceptably and hitting well. But Comment's got a hunch that the Pirates would make considerable headway if Pa Atz was set to chasing flys.

With Lefty whiffing the first two men to face him, who's ever thought the afternoon would be turned into such a carnage. In that awful second, nine men faced the southpaw, Atz popping to Coyle for the last out. The ex-Panther failed to fatten his average as the rest of his mates seemed bent on doing.

Four clubs in the league find it fairly profitable to use their left-fielders as lead-off men. Waco depnds on Bittle, San Antonio uses Baggan, Houston starts off with Lee and Galveston sends up Breaux. With the exception of Lee ,all rank as real speed venders. Hemingway never played here, but they say he is extremely fast.

Detroit gave Boston an awful thump when the latter team had a chance to go by the Yankees by winning two. Over Over in the National, the Braves continued their steady climb, gaining a half game on the Flatbushers. And, switching back again, Cleveland fell into fourth place because the White Sox saw a cripple and took advantage of the opportunity.

Those Brownies can't discriminate when it comes to winning ball games. Fresh an easy trouncing of the Athletics, they turn on the chesty Yanks and beat them twice with one pitcher, ex-Fed Davenport. Jones has more nerve than some of the other American bosses in trotting out the same boxman twice and getting away with it. We, recollect that Babe Ruth tried it for the Red Sox last year and pulled through, but if the other leaders have tried it since they've failed to turn in a report. Eight straight for the Brownies may start something soon in that already jammed-up race.

Manager Hardy is awaiting the decision of President Morris in regard to the game protested by Waco Friday when Gene Moore pitched for Houston. There seems to be no way for the Buffs to crawfish out. Come to think of it, Pat Newnam is still pretty crafty. He probably figured that if he started either Tillman or Edmondson against the Navs they would beat him to death. In fact, Ed got his in Shreveville yesterday. And as Houston plays here no more this season there would be no chance to play the thrown-out game off. So he started Moore and saved Doak Roberts a ball game.

Rumors from up New York way have it that Bill Donovan intends to let Pitchers Markle and Keating and Outfielder Hartzel go to the Richmond International league club. Maybe that would be the best thing for Cliff. Yet it's a cinch that he hasn't had the best of opportunities with Rupert & Huston's club. Starting off like a whirlwind in the spring, he was put on the bench and allowed to absorb a little big-league stuff presumably. He worked about once a month and naturally could not show his best stuff from all that idleness. Too much rest and too little labor tells the tale of his late ineffectiveness. Now they want to ship him. All righty—but we folks down here all think he's of major calibre already.

After more than sixteen years of starring in the box Christy Mathewson is now a manager and his greatest ambition has become a winning team for Cincinnati. He brought with him from the Giants Rousch and McKechnie, players on whom he counts to strengthen the Cincinnati team.

Fred Toney, the Cincinnati Reds' star hurler, and Blue Jacket, the Indian pitching recruit recently turned back, are the two largest pitchers in the game at present. Blue Jacket—who says that his last name is Jacket and his first name Blue—is six feet nine inches, and Toney is six feet six.

Chicago, July 29.—The ruling of Ban Johnson on music at ball games has created considerable discussion on the junior circuit. The American league president issued a ukase yesterday in which he said: "People come to ball games to see baseball and not to hear band concerts." So no more music will be played in American league parks while the game is in progress.

Johnson's ruling came as the result of a protest made by the Cleveland club over the Friday game. During a rally, a rooters' band insisted on adding its music to the din. Silk O'Loughlin, who acted as umpire in chief, asked the band to desist, but was met only by derisive boos. The umps calmly called play and announced to the Cleveland management that play would not be resumed until the band ceased its playing. The rooters and club evidently thought Silk was bluffing, but it decided differently at the end of a fifteen-minute lay-off and the music stopped. Incidentally, the Cleveland rally blew up and Boston went on and won the game.

Chicago, July 29.—While Dave Robertson still holds the lead among the National league batters and Jake Daubert retins second place, this week's averages show changes in the remaining places among the leading hitters. Carey, Pittsburg, is ahead in stolen bases with 31; Flack, Chicago, in sacrifice hits with 28; Williams, Chicago, in home runs, with ten, and in total bases with 148, and Burns, New York, in runs scored with 59. Cincinnati leads in club batting with .254.

In the American league Cobb took second place and is close up to Speaker, adding four points to his average over that of last week, while Jackson fell off. Weaver, Chicago, took the lead in sacrice hits with 27; Cobb remained in front with stolen bases with 36, no gain over last week; Baker's eight home runs is still topmost in that department, while Speaker leads in total bases with 173 and in runs scored with 69. Detroit is ahead in team hitting with .256.

Two Navigators Are Sent Home

Jimmie Zinn and Outfielder Flynn were sent home yesterday by Manager Ellis Hardy on full pay for the rest of the season. The severe sprain received by Flynn in the game Thursday made it almost impossible for him to play again this year and as Hardy is much pleased with the form shown by the youngster in his three days here he will report for spring training in 1917.

Zinn departed for his home in Ohio, to be back again for next year's start. The bad-acting ligament in his right arm has never rounded into shape since the original injury in Beaumont, Bonesetter Reese having failed to effec a complete cure. A long rest will do Jimmie much more good than an occasional workout on the mound until Labor Day, and it is almost certain that he'll be the same smoky merchant of old when he reports for duty eight months hence.

When Uncle Anthony Drives the Reaper.

I hear Uncle Anthony coming across the road with the reaper. I can tell without looking, because I can hear the wheels on the hard ground. They make a sort of rolling, clanking sound that I like.

I run out to watch him come. The rakes of the reaper have long wooden teeth. It is a self-raker. One of the rakes stands straight up, and makes me think of a person. It looks as if it had a nose and mouth. The others all slant in different ways. They make me think of people too. They lean over, and look as if they were held by the feet and were stiff all the way up.

Uncle Anthony has a long whip. He keeps saying, "Gee dap! Gee dap!" Once in a while he touches one of the old mares a little bit. When he turns in from the road the wheels make a clicking sound on the grass.

Uncle Anthony drives along the asparagus row and up to the corner of the wheat. He gets off, and goes around with the oil can. He had his old clap pipe between his teeth, and I can hear him breathe through his nose. The pipe is almost black in some places. I can smell the smoke. The air is hot and still. It seems as if the pipe and the smoke were what made it so hot.

Uncle Anthony's hat is old and black and stained, a great deal like the pipe. He hasn't shaved for quite a few days.

He gets into the seat and takes the whip and says: "Gee dap! G' long!" The old mares take another bite at the wheat heads, and switch their tails and start. The sickle begins to clip. The rake that has been standing up straight makes a sudden turn with its face, and bows to me. The next rake comes up and stands straight, and turns its face in the same way, and then bows just like the other one. They keep going around and around, only the fourth one always sweeps all the wheat off the platform and leaves it in a nice pile for them to bind. The other rakes just come down and push the heads of the wheat over so that it falls on the platform. They don't sweep it off. They act as if they meant to sweep it off, but they always turn their faces to one side just when you think they are going to.

I follow along behind, watching the rakes come up and go down. They act so much like people that I almost feel like saying something to them.

The old mares are slow. Uncle Anthony flicks them and says: "Gee dap! G' 'long there!" They shake their heads and switch their tails, but they don't hurry. He shakes the lines and says a little louder: "Gee dap! G' 'long, consarn ye. Come, what're ye doin' there?" He keeps saying it all the time.

The old mares get so slow that sometimes the sickle almost stops. Uncle Anthony hits one of them harder, and says lauder than ever: "Gee dap! Come! 'Y gad all fish hooks! I never see nothing like it. Git along there!"

Bonehead plays will always divert the fan, even though he hoots, and it is probable that they will occur from time to time forever. Though it seldom happens, stealing second with the bases full is the most celebrated, but there are others, a few of which are touched upon in the accompanying pictures.

Sporting Comment

Stuart tried hard to make his second four-base clout in the fourth. The ball hit on top of the right-field fence and caromed off into Coyle's hands, Lute being held at second.

Just for variation, Noyes turned one homer over the right-field fence and the other into the lumber yard on Webster street. Anything for a change to liven up ball games, says Eddie.

This kid Breaux is one of the most graceful little fielders in the circuit. He has speed to burn and can capture anything inside the palings; he also has a well-developed habit of getting on.

Won't some team please let the Athletics win one game to make it an even twenty? Fans all over the country find it mighty monotonous reading to glimpse that "19" in their win column every day.

Jakey Atz seems to have the same back-turning tendencies as his kinsman, Bobby Stow. Jakey never was unmannearly to the ball when he played second base, but maybe that old hot-corner makes a difference.

Outfielder Johnson is on the side lines with a bad ankle. Meanwhile Sentell is playing the outfield acceptably and hitting well. But Comment's got a hunch that the Pirates would make considerable headway if Pa Atz was set to chasing flys.

With Lefty whiffing the first two men to face him, who's ever thought the afternoon would be turned into such a carnage. In that awful second, nine men faced the southpaw, Atz popping to Coyle for the last out. The ex-Panther failed to fatten his average as the rest of his mates seemed bent on doing.

Four clubs in the league find it fairly profitable to use their left-fielders as lead-off men. Waco depnds on Bittle, San Antonio uses Baggan, Houston starts off with Lee and Galveston sends up Breaux. With the exception of Lee, all rank as real speed venders. Hemingway never played here, but they say he is extremely fast.

Detroit gave Boston an awful thump when the latter team had a chance to go by the Yankees by winning two. Over in the National, the Braves continued their steady climb, gaining a half game on the Flatbushers. And, switching back again, Cleveland fell into fourth place because the White Sox saw a cripple and took advantage of the opportunity.

Those Brownies can't discriminate when it comes to winning ball games. Fresh an easy trouncing of the Athletics, they turn on the chesty Yanks and beat them twice with one pitcher, ex-Fed Davenport. Jones has more nerve than some of the other American bosses in trotting out the same boxman twice and getting away with it. We recollect that Babe Ruth tried it for the Red Sox last year and pulled through, but if the other leaders have tried it since they've failed to turn in a report. Eight straight for the Brownies may start something soon in that already jammed-up race.

Manager Hardy is awaiting the decision of President Morris in regard to the game protested by Waco Friday when Gene Moore pitched for Houston. There seems to be no way for the Buffs to crawfish out. Come to think of it, Pat Newnam is still pretty crafty. He probably figured that if he started either Tillman or Edmondson against the Navs they would beat him to death. In fact, Ed got his in Shreveville yesterday. And as Houston plays here no more this season there would be no chance to play the thrown-out game off. So he started Moore and saved Doak Roberts a ball game.

Rumors from up New York way have it that Bill Donovan intends to let Pitchers Markle and Keating and Outfielder Hartzel go to the Richmond International league club. Maybe that would be the best thing for Cliff. Yet it's a cinch that he hasn't had the best of opportunities with Rupert & Huston's club. Starting off like a whirlwind in the spring, he was put on the bench and allowed to absorb a little big-league stuff presumably. He worked about once a month and naturally could not show his best stuff from all that idleness. Too much rest and too little labor tells the tale of his late ineffectiveness. Now they want to ship him. All righty—but we folks down here all think he's of major calibre already.

Cards of Appreciation

S. S. Fleming.

I am a firm believer in printers' ink, therefore, adopt this method of expressing my heartfelt gratitude to the loyal friends who made my victory possible. To every man, woman and child who contributed to my success I want you to know how thankful I am for your help in my race for re-election to the office of sheriff. Your indorsement of my administration of the sheriff's office during the last three and a half years is a compliment that any man might feel proud of. To those who saw fit to lend their support to Mr. Buchanan, my opponent, I have nought of complaint and it will be my desire to be the sheriff of all the people during the coming two years. Your expression of confidence in my conduct of the sheriff's office is an inspiration to strive even more diligently to render even better service. The same businesslike methods that have characterized my past two years will be continued and it will always be a pleasure to receive all the people, day or night. I hope you will call at the sheriff's office and discuss with me any matters, that pertain to this office. If you will thus lend your assistance I will give you the best service possible. Again thanking you, I am, Yours to serve,
(Adv.) S. S. FLEMING.

Sem Nix.

I take this method of extending my sincere gratitude to all those who gave me their vote and influence in my candidacy for the office of public weigher in the precincts Nos. 1 and 4, in the election last Saturday. Two gentlemen saw fit to oppose me and were aspirants for the same office, both having loyal friends. I have nothing but the kindest feeling toward these gentlemen and their supporters.

But to the farmers and those in the rural sections, the people who I have been closely associated with for the past several years in the capacity of public weigher, I want to thank specially. These people have relied on me to furnish them correct weights, they know how well I have performed the duties existing between the seller and buyer and it was this vote that gave my administration indorsement. I will endeavor to serve them as faithfully in the future as I have in the past.
(Adv.) SEM NIX.

Wm. Amthor.

To the many friends and supporters who stayed with me during my recent race for county commissioner of precinct No. 4, I desire to make grateful acknowledgment. I am fully aware of the efforts that were made in my behalf, by as loyal and devoted friends as a man ever had. My campaign was waged on what merits I possess, and I have no apologies to offer.
(Adv.) WM. AMTHOR.

Leslie Stegall.

To the thousands of loyal supporters in my race for re-election to the office of constable, precinct No. 1, I wish to acknowledge my grateful appreciation of their unselfish support and indorsement. These friends will always have my high esteem and good wishes. To those who saw fit to vote for my opponent I have no words of censure, but venture to hope that I may so conduct myself during the coming two years that I may earn their good will and support. I will continue to conduct the office to which I have been re-elected on the same high plane as has characterized my past and present administration. With good wishes to all, I am your obedient servant.

Michelangelo—His Life and Time

By Dean J. L. Kesler of Baylor University

Known as one of the most poetic prose writers and lecturers among the college men of Texas, Dr. J. L. Kesler of Baylor university delivered one of the feature addresses of the summer schedule at the university last week on "Michelangelo." The lecture on this premier of artists follows:

The only justification that I can find for myself in consenting to give a lecture on any phase of art or art tradition, is that I love art as the child loves flowers without the knowledge of botany, or music with untaught response to its beauties.

Without art culture, except such as comes from the love of the looking at pictures and statues and buildings of various sorts, I am willing to acknowledge that I am an alien and on alien soil, and I shall attempt nothing but to convey what I have, namely, impressions—the things I have felt and feel still facing the great masters of the prolific Renaissance.

I have read what has been said about Michelangelo and his works in all the books I could lay my hands on, and also that I might get the right perspective of men's thoughts and judgments, I have read with equal care what has been said of Leonardo da Vinci and Ralph Tintoretto, Correggio, Giorgone and some others, and more particularly of Giotto, Massoccio and Ghirlandajo, to find, if there be any particular one, whose genius he fell heir to.

Since Vasoni wrote his splendid exordium—or, as Kenyon Cox calls it, rhapsody—there is no other way and there are no other words with which properly to begin the life of Michelangelo.

"While industrious and choice spirits, aided by the light afforded by Giotto and his followers, strove to show the world the talent with which their happy stars and well-balanced humors had endowed them, and endeavored to attain to the height of knowledge by imitating the greatness of nature in all things the great Ruler of heaven looked down and seeing these vain and fruitless efforts and the presumptious opinion of man more removed from truth than night from darkness, resolved, in order to rid him of these errors, to send to earth a genius universal in each art, to show singlehanded the perfection of line and shadow, and who should give relief to his paintings, show a sound judgment in sculpture and in architecture should render habitations convenient, safe, healthy, pleasant, in proportion and enriched wish various ornaments. He further endowed him with true moral philosophy and a sweet poetic spirit, so that the world should marvel at the singular eminence of his life and works and all his actions, seeming rather divine than earthly.

MICHELANGELO BORN UNDER LUCKY STAR.

In the arts of painting, sculpture and architecture the Tuscans have always been among the best, and Florence was the city in Italy most worthy to be the birthplace of such a citizen to crown her perfections. Thus in 1474 (Florence reckoning, otherwise 1475) the true and noble wife of Ludovico di Leonardo Buonarotti, said to be of the ancient and noble family of the counts of Canossa, gave birth to a son at Casentino, under a lucky star. The son was born on Sunday, March 6, at eight in the evening, and was called Michelangelo, as being of a divine nature, for Hercury and Venus were in the house of Jove at his nativity, showing that his works of art would be stupendous.

Michelangelo was not only born under a lucky star, as Vasari puts it, but in the most fortunate tides of the world, in a century when genius was epidemic and in the particular country and city where it had been endemic for more than half a hundred years. The Renaissance was in flower and all things turned a new face to the sun.

If ever there was one, Michelangelo might be reckoned a universal genius. Sculptor, painter, architect, military engineer, bridgebuilder, poet—he stands unapproachable ,a solitary greatness. And yet his labors prove as Vasari quality remarks, that when he wished to form Minerva from the head of Jupiter he needed Vulcari's hammer.

There was but one man in Michelangelo's time, or any other time, who could be compared with him, that man was Leonardo da Vinci, more than twenty years the senior of the mighty painter of the Sistine Chapel. Leonardo da Vinci, a Florentine, a painter, a musician, an athlete, a scientist, a mathematician, a military engineer, a courtier, a many-minded man, an all-encompassing genius, a colossal influence; and yet nothing stands over against his mighty name but his Mona Lisa, the last supper, an unfinished Madonna or two, and one or two other things known only to artists—mostly in ruins, except the Mona Lisa. We know of his books on science and painting, the infinite pains he took with his never finished pictures, and the Last Supper, which the old prior never quit nagging him to get done with till Leonardo threatened to put him into it as Judas, if he didn't keep out of his way. The Last Supper, from all it appears to have been in the wreck that is left us, and in the better copies, was enough for one man to do, and no less a many-minded man or all-encompassing genius could have done it and with no less of infinite pains. He was always learning and never doing; but it was worth it. The whole round of knowledge and all one man's life concentrated to do one thing great and move the world up one story higher, making all things tributary. This was Leonardo. He was a mighty influence.

There is another name lovelier and more beloved than either of these, the name of Raphael Souzio, but Raphael's is a contrast to the mighty labor of Michelangelo. Raphael learned everything. He incorporated everything. He was plastic to all the forces that fed the fires of his genius, and for every turn in the road the colors took a different hue, and all the flowers of the fields through which he passed gathered about the soft glow on the canvass as he painted. Michelangelo, on the contrary, with strange impatience pushed aside everything that was another's, made his own models, designs, chisels; could not use another man's tools, or tools another man made, and, least of all, another man's ideas; cut his own stone, went himself to the quaries of Carrara, spent years there; could receive no assistance nor suggestion, could brook no criticism, could neither be directed nor taught, was an individual genius. To Raphael everything was a suggestion, like Shakespeare, he could use other men's ideas better than they could themselves; he was moulded more from without.

Born in Urbino, 1483, he was Umbrian in the school of Perugina and Perugineque, with an extra dash of genius, till his coming of age in 1504. Then for four years Florentine, striking his freedom out and making all styles his own; and twelve years more in Rome with his Vatican paintings, having seen there the works of that most gigantic genius whose flashes of fire in the Sistine ceiling lit up the wastes of the world. Then he gathered his paints together, and was laid in the Pantheon to make it immortal.

Here for awhile Michelangelo was at work on the Sistine ceiling and Raphael on the Vatican stanza in call of each other, serving the same pope, yet each worked on as if the other were not in existence; Raphael severe with his friends and helpers about and Michelangelo alone and working furiously. Pity they could not have shared each other's life, and they could have, save for whispering tongues.

Raphael was a painter only, and in him beauty and loveliness found a singular charm, but without the individual splendors and studied perfection of Leonardo da Vinci, or the colors of Titian and Tentovello, the sweet wild ways of Giorgone, or the power of Michelangelo. But, as Browning says:

"If you get simple beauty and naught else, you get about the best thing God invents: That's somewhat."

When Michelangelo was born, Copermicus was already a year old, Leonardo twenty-three, and there were but three years to wait for the birth of Titian and Giorgone, and eight for Raphael and Martin Luther, and Botticelli, Verrochio and Ghirandajo were in the midst of their labors. The very year his patron, Lorenzo, the magnificent, died, while he, foreboding no good from the rulers of Florence, betook himself to Venice and Bologna, Columbus was landing at San Salvador and planting his flag in the name of his queen in sight of a new continent. Savonorolo was already stirring Florence as no other man ever stirred any other city in the world. Michelangelo heard him. And while the great artist was still in his prime, Vesalins, the anatomist, cut the dikes set up by the followers of Aristole and Galen and the sea of science flowed in and inundated all the fields of knowledge. These were great times—times for epidemics of genius, when Michelangelo was born.

Michelangelo was no man's child—he was child of an age; he was chief of the Renaissance, child of the air he breathed, son of turbulence, of elemental storm and world-tremors—dominant and impatient as morning flinging away the night.

When the sun rose he was already without a teacher. He had been left, as a child, at a villa of the Buonarrotti, at Settignano mountain, near the city of Florence in the hands of a competent nurse after the custom of distinguished families in Italy. 'Tis here within sound of the stone-cutting at the quarry, as he said, that he "drank in the chisel and hammer with his nurse's milk." Here he breathed the air of freedom and bartered for breath from the hills.

Time passed. He had corrected rudely the drawings of Ghilandajo, his erstwhile teacher, had become the favorite of the art patron, Lorenzo de Medici and sat at his table, and had so irritated the envious Torrigiano as to get his nose broken. His father had wanted to make a scholar of him, but young Michel, though he quickly got his lessons, for he was never an idler, spent his spare time with Gravicci, his fellow student, in making pictures. He was, therefore, a disappointment to the family, who looked down on art, as a calling unworthy of their high born son, till his high labors brought art up to be the most aristocratic profession in all Italy.

But while Michel was no man for the parlor or the elegant otium of the erudite scholar, he knew more of the human form, curve, rein and psychic life from close study than any other living man and he knew better how to put that form into marble.

He was in Rome at twenty-three, 1496, for the first time, and the pieta shaped by his chisel in these memorable years, is the most altogether beautiful piece of polished stone that I, at least, ever laid eyes on. Then at work for the warrior pope, Julius II, having designed for him a magnificent monument. It was to be three stories high, to cover 800 square feet in St. Peters, with more than twenty heroic statues—a great ambition and a life-time task. With four figures finished, his victory and captives, and eight more under way, by the advice of Bromante, his patron pope desired him to paint the Sistine ceiling. Vasari says Bromante had a sinister purpose, being no friend of Michelangelo, thinking that he would fail. However, that be, thrwarted in so great a plan, the sculptor taken from his chisel, the man from the life he had laid out for himself, the artist from the particular task and glory of the great design, already yielding to the hammer and the chisel and the fierce jov of the master—this was too much, too much for Michelangelo. He was off for Florence and no pope's entreaty could bring him back.

FAME FROM A FAILURE.

Here in Florence he made his David from a piece of marble on which another artist had failed—a story that everybody knows—and in May, 1504, this heroic statue eighteen feet high and weighing over six tons, in the midst of a great throng and shouts of admiration, was moved to the Piaza della Signoria. This David is the hero of youth as his matchless Moses is of age.

ART DID HIS WORK ALONE.

Reconciliation at last took place between the pope and Michelangelo at Bologna—a brief episode sealed with a bronze statue to the pope—then in Rome the great sculptor in 1508, in spite of his protests, was at work on the frescos of the Sistine ceiling. Here for four years he worked, or more accurately forty months, without helpers, for he could not share his labors. He had to put himself into his work and no other man in the world could do that for him. He worked alone. No man might watch him, not even the pope. With much impatience the old pope waited but he had to wait. He had a master now. When Michelangelo and Julius II were together, there were two popes there as it was said, and the stern artist never knew how to be second.

Michelangelo, while he had the most conspicuous piece of painting to do ever bargained for in Rome, was a sculptor, not a painter; and more than that he knew it and signed himself so. He was learning to paint, I beg you to remember, on the rarest ceiling then to let in the world—a young man of thirty-four. On that same ceiling he did learn to paint, and 'twas like Moses and God on the mountain, Michelangelo and his task there alone. Learning to paint, yes, and he painted—painted as no other hand could paint, and every figure breathed the divinest life ever let down from the skies. Youth was there and age a power. That fierce giant there alone had met God face to face and no man saw it.

Whatever Michelangelo did no other man could do. He was individual. He did not need to put his name on his works as Raphael did. And he never did it but once. Overhearing some Milanese praising his Pieta and attributing it to "Gobbo of Milan," the great doors of St. Peters opened that night and with candle on his cap he cut his name there, and there it stands to this day, the most lonely great name I know.

The world is not big enough to give birth to two Michelangelos. What ample expression and splendid exuberance of power. Art failed sadly after him. He had no successors. His genius had subdued and discouraged by its matchless achievements. That which seemed to be desirable, that yearning for fulfilment of powerful ideals, has already been completed and needed no hand more to take it up. So it seemed, and, except for exaggerated imitators, Michelangelo was the last of his craft. He came and went like Melchigadek.

Whatever he did nobody needed to do again. It was done. Ancient sculptors in Grecian proportion and beauty, had perfected the human form. Michelangelo took up this same form where they laid it down, nude and beautiful, but his were more powerful and significant, more expressive of noble emotions and movements—gigantic muscular Titans, they were, to be sure, but the feeling and though tension could be matched and their burden of meaning and emotion borne by no less athletic and Himalayan figures. Michelangelo's people need no clothes. We forget that they are naked. Every muscle becomes a tongue of fire and every attitude of revelation. Muscles are psychic; they are states of the mind; they speak and life looks out from every joint of the body. The nude reached its highest perfection with the purest of men.

Michelangelo's was a prophet soul that fell into rages as sublime as the heights of life, yet he was as simple and direct as a child. All great prophets and artists and men bring us, with deep sincerity, face to face with reality. Simplicity stands next to God. To know Michelangelo, or any other altogether worthy person, one must divest himself of his enswathing superficiality. And then facing the mighty labors, the terrible strength, the muscular giants of this Titan murdened to their utmost with moods of mind and purpose and passion and great deep sombre glooms, one looks in on his own artesian deeps and sees the glint of the stars in his nights of storm. Beside him the mere artisan becomes an impertinence and the critic an absurdity.

A great unrest was he and no more to be levelled down by rule and measure than Mount Everest yonder on the heights of the world.

SIMPLICITY NECESSARY TO APPRECIATE.

To look at his paintings and sculpture one must open his life to stand with singular sincerity before them. I remember how I looked and said nothing and the time passed in the Sistine Chapel and I didn't know it. I had looked at Raphael's Madownas, whose crown and goal is the wistful Sistine in the Dresden gallery. I had seen Guido Renis Michael and his aurora on the Rospiglio fresco; I had tasted the colors and "sweet world flavors" of Titain Tintoretto, and Giorgone; I had just come from the most beautiful church in Rome, San Maggiore, rich and luscious with divine art; I had bowed down in Milan and breathed the aromas of the Last Supper of Leonardo da Vinci; and Florence and Venice had comforted me with the tonics of cordials of their art upon which I had remained drunken with joy for days together; but all these delights and ecstasies and shop-sodies fell away in the larger light and shadows of the creation and the mighty sweeps of the frescos of the Sistine Chapel. In the presence of this every exposition must seem an impertinence—ten thousand square feet, 343 principal figures, foreshortened and in every position, the despair of the artist, the wonder of the world.

And while he was at work here, prophetic and furious, Raphael, idyllic and serene, within a stone's throw, was painting more beautiful pictures in the stanze of the Vatican.

One may look at the plains and the fields, see the flowers blossom by the roadside, hear the birds sing, and brooks gossip merrily to the sea, and the green hills call to him for rest from weary and monotonous labors, but this smoothness and peace and rhythm and song palls at last, and one wants to hear Vulcan's hammer among the hills and see mountains rise and rupture with Antaean storm and fury and power break forth anew, putting aside for awhile life's sweet sameness and pitiful copying and being like others. One wants to see an individual, a non-conformist, a tragic living thing, with high initabilty—one wants to see somethng break rudely across the polite niceties of mediocrity—one wants to see the conventional dogmas and little critics and stage rules of the craftsman set aside—one wants to feel a freshening of the air aboard life's business and hear the voice of a man. At such a time, Michelangelo refreshes us with a voice so strong that all the tides of art are hushed for awhile, and we ourselves are gripped in the leashes of this silence. It is like the thunders of old Carlyle of Chelsea or Jehovah on the mountains of Sinai with flashes of fire.

This sistine ceiling was but an episode in this stern man's life. It was done against his will and under a vast protest while the marble was calling to him from the Julian monument. Still when it was uncovered in 1512 Michelangelo had proven himself the first of living painters as he had already proven himself first of living sculptors.

A DREAM OF HIS LIFETIME.

He turned now to the dream and purpose of his life—to the Julian monument, a dream so splendid and so fair; but to fail. A year later, the great pope was dead and Michelangelo again in Florence. And now came he wasting years of disillusionment, buffeted by the shocks of a disappointed career. Still a divine radiance of noble purpose lit up the paths of his life when the shadows hung heaviest.

In 1515 Pope Leo X had Raphael, San Gallo, Sansovino and Michelangelo submit designs for the facade of San Lorenzo. Michelangelo's was chosen as the best. With his usual energy he determined to make it the masterpiece of all Italy and was off to the quarries for four years only to have the whole scheme pronounced impracticable.

"LAST JUDGMENT" MARVEL OF DETAIL.

Still one work more deserves particular mention. Of the Last Judgment, Mr. Goodyear, after referring to the great details which seem to overmaster the main idea, says:

"This much having been said as against an unconditional enthusiastic attitude toward this great picture, we are forced to admit that it is the largest and in many senses the most imposing as it is the latest, of monumental works of Italian art(the decorations of the Doge's palace at Venice alone except.) As an astounding exhibition of power and science in drawing it is undoubtedly, when dimensions and number of figures are considered, the superior of any other single work in the whole world and in that sense the worthy climax in painting of the sculptor of the 'Moses,' and the architect of St. Peter's dome." And when he did this he was passed sixty—i. e., he had passed Osler's chloroform period.

The criticism of Berenson is, in my judgment, the highest praise so far as the grandeur of the conception and its terrible realization are concerned. He says: "As the representation of the moment before the universe disappears in chaos, the 'Last Judgment' is as grandly conceived as possible, but when the crash comes, none will survive it, no, not even God."

This, I think, is not, as he says, inevitable failure, but a vivid realization of a tragic moment, large and picturesque and in movement—terrible, terrific, like an avalanche of fire.

That we see only passion and pain in the underworld, no feeble or fawning or subdued or obsequious person, is not an insuperable objection. The fallen angels of Milton were not subdued. The last quality of which Michelangelo could form any conception was feebleness. Pain he understood, and agony and death, grandeur, the deep sincerities, a noble irritability, a waywardness wild with restless impatience; but humility, submission, these were alien. But these qualities are not essential. Terror we have and surprised pain and defiance. These are appropriate and these are abundant.

The man soars immeasurably above the artist in great art, and in Florence more than in any other place in the world and in Michelangelo more than in any other man in the world. In him it was not mere figure-art and color and culture, but tumult and violence and storm, the kings begged for scant favors; things were begun and broken becaus his ideals surpassed the cunning of the chisel; he was never satisfied, never jubilant. There had been failure enough, large as his proud ambitions and his life had been thwarted in its main designs, and yet he has left us the Pieta in St. Peters, the magnificent Sistine ceiling, the matchless tombs of the Medici in the sacristy of San Lorenzo. The Last Judgment, and his David and Moses and the rest. I count myself happy to have been born not too late to see these great works of art which crown the great Renaissance and which no future age of the world, I fear, will be able to repeat or even approach either in the grandeur of their conception or execution; and I know that that time will never come again till the designer and creator are in one person—work and idea, thought and labor—must flower and fruit together.

FOUR DOCTORS DISAGREED

Wilmington, Del.—"I was suffering from a terrible backache and pains in my side, with bearing down pains and was very nervous. I was always tired, always drowsy, never could get enough sleep and could not eat. I had four doctors and each told me something different. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I got good results and I now feel better than I have felt for years and I am gaining in weight. I can gladly recommend it to all women."—Mrs. GEORGE W. SEBOLD, 1611 West 4th Street, Wilmington, Del.

Backache and bearing down pains are danger signals which every woman should heed. Remove the cause of these aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good old root and herb medicine. Thousands of women have testified to its virtues.

For forty years it has been making women strong, curing backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pain.

Cards of Appreciation

S. S. Fleming.

I am a firm believer in printers' ink, therefore, adopt this method of expressing my heartfelt gratitude to the loyal friends who made my victory possible. To every man, woman and child who contributed to my success I want you to know how thankful I am for your help in my race for re-election to the office of sheriff. Your indorsement of my administration of the sheriff's office during the last three and a half years is a compliment that any man might feel proud of. To those who saw fit to lend their support to Mr. Buchanan, my opponent, I have nought of complaint and it will be my desire to be the sheriff of all the people during the coming two years. Your expression of confidence in my conduct of the sheriff's office is an inspiration to strive even more diligently to render even better service. The same businesslike methods that have characterized my past two years will be continued and it will always be a pleasure to receive all the people, day or night. I hope you will call at the sheriff's office and discuss with me any matters, that pertain to this office. If you will thus lend your assistance I will give you the best service possible. Again thanking you, I am, Yours to serve,
(Adv.) S. S. FLEMING.

I take this method of extending my sincere gratitude to all those who gave me their vote and influence in my candidacy for the office of public weigher in the precincts Nos. 1 and 4, in the election last Saturday. Two gentlemen saw fit to oppose me and were aspirants for the same office, both having loyal friends. I have nothing but the kindest feeling toward these gentlemen and their supporters.

But to the farmers and those in the rural sections, the people who I have been closely associated with for the past several years in the capacity of public weigher, I want to thank specially. These people have relied on me to furnish them correct weights, they know how well I have performed the duties existing between the seller and buyer and it was this vote that gave my administration indorsement. I will endeavor to serve them as faithfully in the future as I have in the past.
(Adv.) SEM NIX.

Wm. Amthar.

To the many friends and supporters who stayed with me during my recent race for county commissioner of precinct No. 4, I desire to make grateful acknowledgment. I am fully aware of the efforts that were made in my behalf, by as loyal and devoted friends as a man ever had. My campaign was waged on what merits I possess, and I have no apologies to offer.
(Adv.) WM. AMTHOR.

Leslie Stegall.

To the thousands of loyal supporters in my race for re-election to the office of constable, precinct No. 1, I wish to acknowledge my grateful appreciation of their unselfish support and indorsement. These friends will always have my high esteem and good wishes. To those who saw fit to vote for my opponent I have no words of censure, but venture to hope that I may so conduct myself during the coming two years that I may earn their good will and support. I will continue to conduct the office to which I have been re-elected on the same high plane as has characterized my past and present administration. With good wishes to all, I am your obedient servant.

Michelangelo—His Life and Time

By Dean J. L. Kesler of Baylor University

Known as one of the most poetic prose writers and lecturers among the college men of Texas, Dr. J. L. Kesler of Baylor university delivered one of the feature addresses of the summer schedule at the university last week on "Michelangelo." The lecture on this premier of artists follows:

The only justification that I can find for myself in consenting to give a lecture on any phase of art or art tradition, is that I love art as the child loves flowers without the knowledge of botany, or music with untaught response to its beauties.

Without art culture, except such as comes from the love of the looking at pictures and statues and buildings of various sorts, I am willing to acknowledge that I am an alien and on alien soil, and I shall attempt nothing but to convey what I have, namely, impressions—the things I have felt and feel still facing the great masters of the prolific Renaissance.

I have read what has been said about Michelangelo and his works in all the books I could lay my hands on, and also that I might get the right perspective of men's thoughts and judgments, I have read with equal care what has been said of Leonardo da Vinci and Ralph Tintoretto, Correggio, Giorgone and some others, and more particularly of Giotto, Massoccio and Ghirlandajo, to find, if there be any particular one, whose genius he fell heir to.

Since Vasoni wrote his splendid exordium—or, as Kenyon Cox calls it, rhapsody—there is no other way and there are no other words with which properly to begin the life of Michelangelo.

"While industrious and choice spirits, aided by the light afforded by Giotto and his followers, strove to show the world the talent with which their happy stars and well-balanced humors had endowed them, and endeavored to attain to the height of knowledge by imitating the greatness of nature in all things, the great Ruler of heaven looked down and seeing these vain and fruitless efforts and the presumptious opinion of man more removed from truth than night from darkness, resolved, in order to rid him of these errors, to send to earth a genius universal in each art, to show single-handed the perfection of line and shadow, and who should give relief to his paintings, show a sound judgment in sculpture and in architecture should render habitations convenient, safe, healthy, pleasant, in proportion and enriched wish various ornaments. He further endowed him with true moral philosophy and a sweet poetic spirit, so that the world should marvel at the singular eminence of his life and works and all his actions, seeming rather divine than earthly.

MICHELANGELO BORN UNDER LUCKY STAR.

In the arts of painting, sculpture and architecture the Tuscans have always been among the best, and Florence was the city in Italy most worthy to be the birthplace of such a citizen to crown her perfections. Thus in 1474 (Florence reckoning, otherwise 1475) the true and noble wife of Ludovico di Lionardo Buonarotti, said to be of the ancient and noble family of the counts of Canossa, gave birth to a son at Casentino, under a lucky star. The son was born on Sunday, March 6, at eight in the evening, and was called Michelangelo, as being of a divine nature, for Hercury and Venus were in the house of Jove at his nativity, showing that his works of art would be stupendous.

Michelangelo was not only born under a lucky star, as Vasari puts it, but in the most fortunate tides of the world, in a century when genius was epidemic and in the particular country and city where it had been endemic for more than half a hundred years. The Renaissance was in flower and all things turned a new face to the sun.

If ever there was one, Michelangelo might be reckoned a universal genius. Sculptor, painter, architect, military engineer, bridgebuilder, poet—he stands unapproachable ,a solitary greatness. And yet his labors prove as Vasari quality remarks, that when he wished to form Minerva from the head of Jupiter he needed Vulcan's hammer.

There was but one man in Michelangelo's time, or any other time, who could be compared with him, that man was Leonardo da Vinci, more than twenty years the senior of the mighty painter of the Sistine Chapel. Leonardo da Vinci, a Florentine, a painter, a musician, an athlete, a scientist, a mathematician, a military engineer, a courtier, a many-minded man, an all-encompassing genius, a colossal influence; and yet nothing stands over against his mighty name but his Mona Lisa, the last supper, an unfinished Madonna or two, and one or two other things known only to artists—mostly in ruins, except the Mona Lisa. We know of his books on science and painting, the infinite pains he took with his never finished pictures, and the Last Supper, which the old prior never quit nagging him to get done with till Leonardo threatened to put him into it as Judas, if he didn't keep out of his way. The Last Supper, from all it appears to have been in the wreck that is left us, and in the better copies, was enough for one man to do, and no less a many-minded man or all-encompassing genius could have done it and with no less of infinite pains. He was always learning and never doing, but it was worth it. The whole round of knowledge and all one man's life concentrated to do one thing great and move the world up one story higher, making all things tributary. This was Leonardo. He was a mighty influence.

There is another name lovelier and more beloved than either of these, the name of Raphael Souzio, but Raphael's is a contrast to the mighty labor of Michelangelo. Raphael learned everything. He incorporated everything. He was plastic to all the forces that fed the fires of his genius, and for every turn in the road the colors took a different hue, and all the flowers of the fields through which he passed gathered about the soft glow on the canvass as he painted. Michelangelo, on the contrary, with strange impatience pushed aside everything that was another's, made his own models, designs, chisels; could not use another man's tools, or tools another man made, and, least of all, another man's ideas; cut his own stone, went himself to the quaries of Carrara, spent years there; could receive no assistance nor suggestion, could brook no criticism, could neither be directed nor taught, was an individual genius. To Raphael everything was a suggestion, like Shakespeare, he could use other men's ideas better than they could themselves; he was moulded more from without.

Born in Urbino, 1483, he was Umbrian in the school of Perugina and Peruginesque, with an extra dash of genius, till his coming of age in 1504. Then for four years Florentine, striking his freedom out and making all styles his own; and twelve years more in Rome with his Vatican paintings, having seen there the works of that most gigantic genius whose flashes of fire in the Sistine ceiling lit up the wastes of the world. Then he gathered his paints together, and was laid in the Pantheon to make it immortal.

Here for awhile Michelangelo was at work on the Sistine ceiling and Raphael on the Vatican stanza in call of each other, serving the same pope, yet each worked on as if the other were not in existence; Raphael severe with his friends and helpers about and Michelangelo alone and working furiously. Pity they could not have shared each other's life, and they could have, save for whispering tongues.

Raphael was a painter onlly, and in him beauty and loveliness found a singular charm, but without the individual splendors and studied perfection of Leonardo da Vinci, or the colors of Titian and Tentovello, the sweet wild ways of Giorgone, or the power of Michelangelo. But, as Browning says:

"If you get simple beauty and naught else, you get about the best thing God invents: That's somewhat."

When Michelangelo was born, Copermicus was already a year old, Leonardo twenty-three, and there were but three years to wait for the birth of Titian and Giorgone, and eight for Raphael and Martin Luther, and Botticelli, Verrochio and Ghirandajo were in the midst of their labors. The very year his patron, Lorenzo, the magnificent, died, while he, foreboding no good from the rulers of Florence, betook himself to Venice and Bologna, Columbus was landing at San Salvador and planting his flag in the name of his queen in sight of a new continent. Savonorolo was already stirring Florence as no other man ever stirred any other city in the world. Michelangelo heard him. And while the great artist was still in his prime, Vesalins, the anatomist, cut the dikes set up by the followers of Aristole and Galen and the sea of science flowed in and inundated all the fields of knowledge. These were great times—times for epidemics of genius, when Michelangelo was born.

Michelangelo was no man's child—he was child of an age; he was chief of the Renaissance, child of the air he breathed, son of turbulence, of elemental storm and world-tremors—dominant and impatient as morning flinging away the night.

When the sun rose he was already without a teacher. He had been left, as a child, at a villa of the Buonarrotti, at Settignano mountain, near the city of Florence in the hands of a competent nurse after the custom of distinguished families in Italy. 'Tis here within sound of the stone-cutting at the quarry, as he said, that he "drank in the chisel and hammer with his nurse's milk." Here he breathed the air of freedom and bartered for breath from the hills.

Time passed. He had corrected rudely the drawings of Ghilandajo, his erstwhile teacher, had become the favorite of the art patron, Lorenzo de Medici and sat at his table, and had so irritated the envious Torrigiano as to get his nose broken. His father had wanted to make a scholar of him, but young Michel, though he quickly got his lessons, for he was never an idler, spent his spare time with Gravicci, his fellow student, in making pictures. He was, therefore, a disappointment to the family, who looked down on art, as a calling unworthy of their high born son, till his high labors brought art up to be the most aristocratic profession in all Italy.

But while Michel was no man for the parlor or the elegant otium of the erudite scholar, he knew more of the human form, curve, rein and psychic life from close study than any other living man and he knew better how to put that form into marble.

He was in Rome at twenty-three, 1496, for the first time, and the pieta shaped by his chisel in these memorable years, is the most altogether beautiful piece of polished stone that I, at least, ever laid eyes on. Then at work for the warrior pope, Julius II, having designed for him a magnificent monument. It was to be three stories high, to cover 800 square feet in St. Peters, with more than twenty heroic statues—a great ambition and a life-time task. With four figures finished, his victory and captives, and eight more under way, by the advice of Bromante, his patron pope desired him to paint the Sistine ceiling. Vasari says Bromante had a sinister purpose, being no friend of Michelangelo, thinking that he would fail. However, that be, thrwarted in so great a plan, the sculptor taken from his chisel, the man from the life he had laid out for himself, the artist from the particular task and glory of the great design, already yielding to the hammer and the chisel and the fierce joy of the master—this was too much, too much for Michelangelo. He was off for Florence and no pope's entreaty could bring him back.

FAME FROM A FAILURE.

Here in Florence he made his David from a piece of marble on which another artist had failed—a story that everybody knows—and in May, 1504, this heroic statue eighteen feet high and weighing over six tons, in the midst of a great throng and shouts of admiration, was moved to the Piaza della Signoria. This David is the hero of youth as his matchless Moses is of age.

ART DID HIS WORK ALONE.

Reconciliation at last took place between the pope and Michelangelo at Bologna—a brief episode sealed with a bronze statue to the pope—then in Rome the great sculptor in 1508, in spite of his protests, was at work on the frescos of the Sistine ceiling. Here for four years he worked, or more accurately forty months, without helpers, for he could not share his labors. He had to put himself into his work and no other man in the world could do that for him. He worked alone. No man might watch him, not even the pope. With much impatience the old pope waited but he had to wait. He had a master now. When Michelangelo and Julius II were together, there were two popes there as it was said, and the stern artist never knew how to be second.

Michelangelo, while he had the most conspicuous piece of painting to do ever bargained for in Rome, was a sculptor, not a painter; and more than that he knew it and signed himself so. He was learning to paint, I beg you to remember, on the rarest ceiling then to let in the world—a young man of thirty-four. On that same ceiling he did learn to paint, and 'twas like Moses and God on the mountain, Michelangelo and his task there alone. Learning to paint, yes, and he painted—painted as no other hand could paint, and every figure breathed the divinest life ever let down from the skies. Youth was there and age a power. That fierce giant there alone had met God face to face and no man saw it.

Whatever Michelangelo did no other man could do. He was individual. He did not need to put his name on his works as Raphael did. And he never did it but once. Overhearing some Milanese praising his Pieta and attributing it to "Gobbo of Milan," the great doors of St. Peters opened that night and with candle on his cap he cut his name there, and there it stands to this day, the most lonely great name I know.

The world is not big enough to give birth to two Michelangelos. What ample expression and splendid exuberance of power. Art failed sadly after him. He had no successors. His genius had subdued and discouraged by its matchless achievements. That which seemed to be desirable, that yearning for fulfilment of powerful ideals, has already been completed and needed no hand more to take it up. So it seemed, and, except for exaggerated imitators, Michelangelo was the last of his craft. He came and went like Melchigadek.

Whatever he did nobody needed to do again. It was done. Ancient sculptors in Grecian proportion and beauty, had perfected the human form. Michelangelo took up this same form where they laid it down, nude and beautiful, but his were more powerful and significant, more expressive of noble emotions and movements—gigantic muscular Titans, they were, to be sure, but the feeling and though tension could be matched and their burden of meaning and emotion borne by no less athletic and Himalayan figures. Michelangelo's people need no clothes. We forget that they are naked. Every muscle becomes a tongue of fire and every attitude of revelation. Muscles are psychic; they are states of the mind; they speak and life looks out from every joint of the body. The nude reached its highest perfection with the purest of men.

Michelangelo's was a prophet soul that fell into rages as sublime as the heights of life, yet he was as simple and direct as a child. All great prophets and artists and men bring us, with deep sincerity, face to face with reality. Simplicity stands next to God. To know Michelangelo, or any other altogether worthy person, one must divest himself of his enswathing superficiality. And then facing the mighty labors, the terrible strength, the muscular giants of this Titan murdened to their utmost with moods of mind and purpose and passion and great deep sombre glooms, one looks in his own artesian deeps and sees the glint of the stars in his nights of storm. Beside him the mere artisan becomes an impertinence and the critic an absurdity.

A great unrest was he and no more to be levelled down by rule and measure than Mount Everest yonder on the heights of the world.

SIMPLICITY NECESSARY TO APPRECIATE.

To look at his paintings and sculpture one must open his life to stand with singular sincerity before them. I remember how I looked and said nothing and the time passed in the Sistine Chapel and I didn't know it. I had looked at Raphael's Madownas, whose crown and goal is the wistful Sistine in the Dresden gallery. I had seen Guido Renis Michael and his aurora on the Rospiglio fresco; I had tasted the colors and "sweet world flavors" of Titain Tintoretto, and Giorgone; I had just come from the most beautiful church in Rome, San Maggiore, rich and luscious with divine art; I had bowed down in Milan and breathed the aromas of the Last Supper of Leonardo da Vinci; and Florence and Venice had comforted me with the tonics of cordials of their art upon which I had remained drunken with joy for days together; but all these delights and ecstasies and shop-sodies fell away in the larger light and shadows of the creation and the mighty sweeps of the frescos of the Sistine Chapel. In the presence of this every exposition must seem an impertinence—ten thousand square feet, 343 principal figures, foreshortened and in every position, the despair of the artist, the wonder of the world.

And while he was at work here, prophetic and furious, Raphael, idyllic and serene, within a stone's throw, was painting more beautiful pictures in the stanze of the Vatican.

One may look at the plains and the fields, see the flowers blossom by the roadside, hear the birds sing, and brooks gossip merrily to the sea, and the green hills call to him for rest from weary and monotonous labors, but this smoothness and peace and rhythm and song palls at last, and one wants to hear Vulcan's hammer among the hills and see mountains rise and rupture with Antaean storm and fury and power break forth anew, putting aside for awhile life's sweet sameness and pitiful copying and being like others. One wants to see an individual, a non-conformist, a tragic living thing, with high initability—one wants to see somethng break rudely across the polite niceties of mediocrity—one wants to see the conventional dogmas and little critics and stage rules of the craftsman set aside—one wants to feel a freshening of the air aboard life's business and hear the voice of a man. At such a time, Michelangelo refreshes us with a voice so strong that all the tides of art are hushed for awhile, and we ourselves are gripped in the leashes of this silence. It is like the thunders of old Carlyle of Chelsea or Jehovah on the mountains of Sinai with flashes of fire.

This sistine ceiling was but an episode in this stern man's life. It was done against his will and under a vast protest while the marble was calling to him from the Julian monument. Still when it was uncovered in 1512 Michelangelo had proven himself the first of living painters as he had already proven himself first of living sculptors.

A DREAM OF HIS LIFETIME.

He turned now to the dream and purpose of his life—to the Julian monument, a dream so splendid and so fair; but to fail. A year later, the great pope was dead and Michelangelo again in Florence. And now came he wasting years of disillusionment, buffeted by the shocks of a disappointed career. Still a divine radiance of noble purpose lit up the paths of his life when the shadows hung heaviest.

In 1515 Pope Leo X had Raphael, San Gallo, Sansovino and Michelangelo submit designs for the facade of San Lorenzo. Michelangelo's was chosen as the best. With his usual energy he determined to make it the masterpiece of all Italy and was off to the quarries for four years only to have the whole scheme pronounced impracticable.

"LAST JUDGMENT" MARVEL OF DETAIL.

Still one work more deserves particular mention. Of the Last Judgment, Mr. Goodyear, after referring to the great details which seem to overmaster the main idea, says:

"This much having been said as against an unconditional enthusiastic attitude toward this great picture, we are forced to admit that it is the largest and in many senses the most imposing as it is the latest, of monumental works of Italian art(the decorations of the Doge's palace at Venice alone except.) As an astounding exhibition of power and science in drawing it is undoubtedly, when dimensions and number of figures are considered, the superior of any other single work in the whole world and in that sense the worthy climax in painting of the sculptor of the 'Moses,' and the architect of St. Peter's dome." And when he did this he was passed sixty—i. e., he had passed Osler's chloroform period.

The criticism of Berenson is, in my judgment, the highest praise so far as the grandeur of the conception and its terrible realization are concerned. He says: "As the representation of the moment before the universe disappears in chaos, the 'Last Judgment' is as grandly conceived as possible, but when the crash comes, none will survive it, no, not even God."

This, I think, is not, as he says, inevitable failure, but a vivid realization of a tragic moment, large and picturesque and in movement—terrible, terrific, like an avalanche of fire.

That we see only passion and pain in the underworld, no feeble or fawning or subdued or obsequious person, is not an insuperable objection. The fallen angels of Milton were not subdued. The last quality of which Michelangelo could form any conception was feebleness. Pain he understood, and agony and death, grandeur, the deep sincerities, a noble irritability, a waywardness wild with restless impatience; but humility, submission, these were alien. But these qualities are not essential. Terror we have and surprised pain and defiance. These are appropriate and these are abundant.

The man soars immeasurably above the artist in great art, and in Florence more than in any other place in the world and in Michelangelo more than in any other man in the world. In him it was not mere figure-art and color and culture, but tumult and violence and storm, the broken deeps and the wild sky and fire from heaven—boiling and blazing and volcanic—the individual and universal turbulence of the deeps of feeling torrential and artgic.

Art has a wide range and a splendid horizon. Whenever man's work produces a sense of heightened reality and a pleasurable intensity of the enduring emotions there is art; but to undertake to be painter or musician or orator without the deeper and wider culture is pitiful in the extreme. Oh, the pathos of it.

During the last eighteen years of his life he was architect of St. Peters, and swung its great dome into the air and planned its great Mosaics. This he did for the love of the work and for his soul's repose. He would have no pay. Great, incomparably great is this St. Peter's dome, and he its great architect.

"Being thin and wiry," as Vasari says, "he supported every fatigue," but at last in his 89th year, he laid by his tools, his day's work was done, his eyes were heavy with sleep. Florence claimed him, gave him an imposing funeral, and he sleeps in Santa Croce with Italy's illustrious dead beneath a splendid tomb.

Barbarian and Ishmaelite, as he was, he was a hard student, always at work, obstemious, sincere, turbulent at times, yet, withal, a kindly man, poetic, plain-spoken, impatient and splendid and proud with a certain hauteur that accepted homage as his due—popes needed him and kings begged for scant favors; things were begun and broken becaus his ideals surpassed the cunning of the chisel; he was never satisfied, never jubilant. There had been failure enough, large as his proud ambitions and his life had been thwarted in its main designs, and yet he has left us the Pieta in St. Peters, the magnificent Sistine ceiling, the matchless tombs of the Medici in the sacristy of San Lorenzo. The Last Judgment, and his David and Moses and the rest. I count myself happy to have been born not too late to see these great works of art which crown the great Renaissance and which no future age of the world, I fear, will be able to repeat or even approach either in the grandeur of their conception or execution; and I know that that time will never come again till the designer and creator are in one person—work and idea, thought and labor—must flower and fruit together.

FOUR DOCTORS DISAGREED

Wilmington, Del.—"I was suffering from a terrible backache and pains in my side, with bearing down pains and was very nervous. I was always tired, always drowsy, never could get enough sleep and could not eat. I had four doctors and each told me something different. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I got good results and I now feel better than I have felt for years and I am gaining in weight. I can gladly recommend it to all women."—Mrs. GEORGE W. SEBOLD, 1611 West 4th Street, Wilmington, Del.

Backache and bearing down pains are danger signals which every woman should heed. Remove the cause of these aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good old root and herb medicine. Thousands of women have testified to its virtues.

For forty years it has been making women strong, curing backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pain.

Business About Corner Eighth and Franklin Streets

The enterprise and progressive spirit of Waco merchants is too well known to be classed as "news" any longer to the people of Texas. Yet among the wide-awake merchants of Waco there are some who stand out from the others in point of push and enterprise.

Such are the business men who are located within a block either way from the corner of Eighth and Franklin streets. The truth of this assertion is evident to any observer who will take a stroll through this bustling center of business activity.

One of the largest and most progressive institutions in Waco is located in this section at 820-22 Franklin street. This is the Progress Laundry. In less than five years this plant has gained a reputation that has reached to the borders of Texas.

This plant is owned and managed by one of our youngest business men, who is interested in every forward movement of our city. Recently Mr. D. P. Wallace made a trip through the north and east, studying the very latest methods employed in the largest and best laundries of the country.

He states that he was unable to find a single plant anywhere with better equipment than is used in this modern plant here in Waco. Some of the methods used in these plants, however, will be adopted by the Progress Laundry.

This laundry has recently added a modern dry cleaning and dying plant to its equipment, but the business has already grown to such proportions that the building erected for this purpose will have to be enlarged. More than seventy men and women are employed by this big institution. It caters to white people only and all hands are kept constantly busy caring for the trade of Waco people.

Across the street from the laundry the observer will see one of Waco's best and biggest transfer and storage companies. This, the Weatherred Transfer and Storage Company, has for its motto "The World Moves; So Do We." They have a very modern storage plant and do an excellent business.

On the corner of Ninth and Franklin streets is located one of the most attractive and hustling grocery stores in Waco. It is operated by Turner Brothers. They make more than the usual effort to keep their establishment clean and sanitary and pride themselves on having everything in the grocery line for prompt delivery.

Coming back to Eighth and Franklin, on the northeast corner stands the attractive Pipkins Drug Store. It specializes on fountain drinks served at the curb to motorists as they pass by, and has built up a large trade in this. They are also known as reliable and up-to-date druggists in every essential.

Diagonally across the street is the grocery of J. C. Crippen & Sons. This store keeps a large number of clerks and delivery wagons busy filling the orders of particular people who appreciate the highest quality of foodstuffs.

At 115 North Eighth street is located the busy establishment of Pat Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins makes and has on hand all types of auto springs to fit all types of cars. His work is as pleasing to his patrons as efficient work always is.

Across from Mr. Hopkins is the Brazos Electric Company, which keeps a large part of Waco cool and comfortable with their electric fan rental service. They do all kinds of expert electrical work as well.

Going back to the corner and coming east we encounter first the Sanitary Meat Market. It is everything that its name implies and caters to the very best class of trade. Yet their prices are consistently held down, stated Doc Hays, the manager, to the lowest possible margin of profit. The Sanitary Market boils its own hams and guarantees them to be the superior to the boiled ham usually obtained.

The Clay Francis Garage at 715-17 Franklin is next in line up the street and is a modern and completely equipped garage, fitted to do all kinds of repair work on any make of car. Mr. Francis says that it takes more money to hire only expert mechanics, but that this expenditure is fully justified by the better service he can render his patrons, and that the price he has to charge for many repair jobs is less on account of competent workmen being able to complete a job quicker.

The Little & McGaughey Garage at 713 Franklin is a new concern in this location, but is already doing a thriving business, even though many people have not known of their being established there. They do expert repair work on all makes of cars, but call themselves "Ford Specialists."

G. B. Campbell has one of the neatest and best stocked groceries that a man could wish to find anywhere. It is located at 707 Franklin street. He is doing a splendid business, which is showing a very healthy and constant growth. They also carry a full line of feeds next door to the grocery.

What About Your Personnel?

There is nothing that helps one's personal appearance more than well selected wearing apparel. Most anyone can at a glance tell the difference in a cheap article and a better one, and so it is with cleaning. Often for the trifling difference of 25c one will allow nice suits or gowns to be handled by unskilled labor, employed in cheap shops. The garment is returned void of that new effect, and is often ruined.

You are very careful in the selection of your garments when making the purchase and you should be equally so in having them properly cleaned and preserved.

How They Took the Bastile

Storming the Fortress Gave the World Its Second Glorious Fourth.

July, 1789, saw President Washington and the American constitution in the third month of their great experiment in liberty. The first of the presidents was governing under the provisions of an accomplished constitution when the representatives of the French people were declaring at Versailles that they would never adjourn until they had given France a constitutional government. The American Revolution had proclaimed the sovereignty of the people; the French were about to complete that revolution by undermining the throne of the last king. America fought for the independence of the people of Europe. She is still fighting for that today, when she celebrates her national holiday, commemorating the fall of the Bastile, the first great blow struck in her eternal revolution. Several weeks before that blow was struck the first meeting of the French parliament in two centuries was called at Versailles, twelve miles from Paris. It had been called because the court was bankrupt, and the only way to get money was by appealing to the estates of the realm. There was a gorgeous procession from the palace (that palace where now on Sundays the laborer and his family can squat on the green lawn and munch bread and drink wine from the bottle and call the king's fountains and statues their own) to the hall of the estates. In that hall were ranked on either side of the throne the clergy of all orders and the nobles in their blaze of silk and jewels and gemmed swords, and in the rear the 600 commoners, in black and without swords, a little awed, but determined. Far above them all sat the king on his throne, an enormous diamond in the feather of his hat; above him the vast canopy of purple velvet upon which shone the golden threads of the lilies of France. The black-garbed commoners knew what was expected of them; they were merely to ratify the wishes of the great. They did not dream of the great events that were to follow and sweep away in a deluge of blood all this array of pomp and splendor; that they so soon were to be the sole and undisputed rulers of France.

It was soon plain in this strange parliament that the will of the crown was that the three estates—nobles, clergy and commons—were to sit separately; an arrangement like the lords and commons of England, by which it would be easy for the privileged orders to nullify the legislation of the Third Estate, the people. The king announced that they were to disperse and meet the next day in separate halls. But the commons did not disperse. They sat on in silence until the master of ceremonies, little more than a boy, covered with cloth of gold, his fingers studded with diamonds, entered to tell them in his well-bred drawl that they were not to linger, but to go home. Still they would not go. "We are here by the will of the people!" cried Mirabeau, "and only death can dismiss us."

Thirty regiments moved, for the most part German speaking mercenaries, upon whom the court depended in the last resort, to dismiss the commons and capture and disarm seething Paris, twelve miles down the valley. The court saw the commons were determined to have a real voice in affairs, therefore the commons must go. Troops filled the streets of Versailles, new guns rattled along the roads. Would Paris rise? The citizens were without ammunition, and the plans were complete to crush any uprising that might follow the dismissal of the national assembly and its demands for a constitution.

But Paris did rise to protect the rights of its representatives at Versailles. On July 12, a Sunday, the people hurried to the Palais Royal. A young man mounted a table, held up a pair of pistols, and, shouting "To arms!" plucked a leaf from a tree and stuck it in his hat. The people followed his example. In the great square before Town Hall, a jolly Parisian priest, sitting astride a barrel, saw to the serving out of powder and ball. Arms and ammunition, even cannon, were demanded at the Invalides, and obtained. The mob moved on the Bastile on the 14th.

This fortress had been used for centuries as a state prison and was a symbol of arrogant privilege. Besides, it contained most of the ammunition in Paris. There was a demand for its surrender, which was refused. Two men mounted the roof of the guardhouse and broke with axes the chains of the drawbridge, which fell down. The mob rushed upon it and ran to a second bridge, to take it in like manner. At this moment a discharge of musketry from the garrison brought the besiegers to a stand; they fell back, but firing at the same time. There was an attempt to set fire to the building. The French Guards brought up cannon, and the assault went forward in military form. The garrison replied with volleys of grape.

De Launay, in command of the garrison, seized a torch to blow up the fortress. The garrison prevented him and obliged him to surrender. The entrances were thrown open. The people rushed in. A young woman, beautiful and trembling, came forward; she was seized and about to be burned, when a brave soldier wrested her from the hands of the mob and conducted her to a place of safety. At that moment a bloody hand raised above the heads a bunch of hair. It was the queue of De Launay, whose head had been just struck off.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ain't It Funny!

How many things one silver dollar will buy? Carnegie's first dollar bred more dollars, and laid the foundation for a vast fortune. Yet that same dollar in the hands of a spendthrift would have produced only a headache.

Every day more and more discriminating people are finding that one of the best ways to make a dollar do its full duty is to invest it in purchasing Health and Strength—in the shape of our pure, fresh Groceries, Fruits and Vegetables.

July, 1789, saw President Washington and the American constitution in the third month of their great experiment in liberty. The first of the presidents was governing under the provisions of an accomplished constitution when the representatives of the French people were declaring at Versailles that they would never adjourn until they had given France a constitutional government. The American Revolution had proclaimed the sovereignty of the people; the French were about to complete that revolution by undermining the throne of the last king. America fought for the independence of the people of Europe. She is still fighting for that today, when she celebrates her national holiday, commemorating the fall of the Bastile, the first great blow struck in her eternal revolution. Several weeks before that blow was struck the first meeting of the French parliament in two centuries was called at Versailles, twelve miles from Paris. It had been called because the court was bankrupt, and the only way to get money was by appealing to the estates of the realm. There was a gorgeous procession from the palace (that palace where now on Sundays the laborer and his family can squat on the green lawn and munch bread and drink wine from the bottle and call the king's fountains and statues their own) to the hall of the estates. In that hall were ranked on either side of the throne the clergy of all orders and the nobles in their blaze of silk and jewels and gemmed swords, and in the rear the 600 commoners, in black and without swords, a little awed, but determined. Far above them all sat the king on his throne, an enormous diamond in the feather of his hat; above him the vast canopy of purple velvet upon which shone the golden threads of the lilies of France. The black-garbed commoners knew what was expected of them; they were merely to ratify the wishes of the great. They did not dream of the great events that were to follow and sweep away in a deluge of blood all this array of pomp and splendor; that they so soon were to be the sole and undisputed rulers of France.

It was soon plain in this strange parliament that the will of the crown was that the three estates—nobles, clergy and commons—were to sit separately; an arrangement like the lords and commons of England, by which it would be easy for the privileged orders to nullify the legislation of the Third Estate, the people. The king announced that they were to disperse and meet the next day in separate halls. But the commons did not disperse. They sat on in silence until the master of ceremonies, little more than a boy, covered with cloth of gold, his fingers studded with diamonds, entered to tell them in his well-bred drawl that they were not to linger, but to go home. Still they would not go. "We are here by the will of the people!" cried Mirabeau, "and only death can dismiss us."

Thirty regiments moved, for the most part German speaking mercenaries, upon whom the court depended in the last resort, to dismiss the commons and capture and disarm seething Paris, twelve miles down the valley. The court saw the commons were determined to have a real voice in affairs, therefore the commons must go. Troops filled the streets of Versailles, new guns rattled along the roads. Would Paris rise? The citizens were without ammunition, and the plans were complete to crush any uprising that might follow the dismissal of the national assembly and its demands for a constitution.

But Paris did rise to protect the rights of its representatives at Versailles. On July 12, a Sunday, the people hurried to the Palais Royal. A young man mounted a table, held up a pair of pistols, and, shouting "To arms!" plucked a leaf from a tree and stuck it in his hat. The people followed his example. In the great square before Town Hall, a jolly Parisian priest, sitting astride a barrel, saw to the serving out of powder and ball. Arms and ammunition, even cannon, were demanded at the Invalides, and obtained. The mob moved on the Bastile on the 14th.

This fortress had been used for centuries as a state prison and was a symbol of arrogant privilege. Besides, it contained most of the ammunition in Paris. There was a demand for its surrender, which was refused. Two men mounted the roof of the guardhouse and broke with axes the chains of the drawbridge, which fell down. The mob rushed upon it and ran to a second bridge, to take it in like manner. At this moment a discharge of musketry from the garrison brought the besiegers to a stand; they fell back, but firing at the same time. There was an attempt to set fire to the building. The French Guards brought up cannon, and the assault went forward in military form. The garrison replied with volleys of grape.

De Launay, in command of the garrison, seized a torch to blow up the fortress. The garrison prevented him and obliged him to surrender. The entrances were thrown open. The people rushed in. A young woman, beautiful and trembling, came forward; she was seized and about to be burned, when a brave soldier wrested her from the hands of the mob and conducted her to a place of safety. At that moment a bloody hand raised above the heads a bunch of hair. It was the queue of De Launay, whose head had been just struck off.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Expense Accounts Almost All In

Candidates in the recent primary have but two more days in which to file an itemized statement of their campaign expenses, as the law requires all such reports to be in by Tuesday, August 1. Five candidates filed their expense accounts with County Judge George Denton yesterday, as follows: Leslie Stegall, constable, precinct No. 1, $206.50; J. J. Padgitt, justice of the peace, precinct No. 1, $274.47; Gus H. West, candidate for county tax collector, $231.65; R. F. Mosley, candidate for county commissioner, precinct No. 2, $106; S. J. Stem, candidate for county commissioner, precinct No. 2, $81.

COTTON

New York.

New York, July 29.—Transactions in the local market for cotton futures today were marked by considerable caution, due to the approaching government report. Opening steady at a decline of 5 to 6 points, the market gradually worked up 3 to 4 points above last night's closing but in the last few minutes met rather liberal selling which promoted sharp reactions and the market finally was steady at a net decline of 1 to 3 points.

The pressure which was responsible for the opening decline was due largely to a disappearance of the gulf disturbance which yesterday caused a good deal of buying in the local market, but the fact that showery conditions over the eastern belt have not entirely disappeared and were expected to continue, started a local buying movement.

Support was extended until near the close when Texas details, showing more rain in the state, than was indicated early on the map, together with the forecast of further precipitation in East Texas tomorrow, led to rather active realizing There was a tendency towards improvement in condition reports from Georgia.

A local trade paper published reports from Arkansas and Tennessee indicating unchanged conditions from a month ago and some deterioration in Missouri and Florida. Fall River print cloth sales for the week were 160,000 pieces against a similar total last year. Prices were firm, reflecting the advance in raw cotton, but demand was less active.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, July 29.—The cotton market was steady on the week-end session, but fluctuations were narrow and trading probably was restricted by the nearness of the government's July condition report. The chief sustaining influence was the belief in bullish figures. A feature of the morning was a private bureau report of 75.8 per cent.

In the early trading, prices were 1 to 2 points under yesterday's close, from which there was a rise until the active months were 4 points over yesterday's finals. Last prices for the day were 1 point up to 1 point down compared to yesterday's close.

Buying was held within moderate limits because of rains in Texas, and the much lighter rainfall in the eastern belt. The Texas rains were considered most favorable, and it was thought with the drier weather in the east farmers would be able to do much needed work in their fields.

The observance of the summer Saturday holiday in Liverpool restricted new business on this side. Liverpool will be closed each Saturday in August.

Much of the trading was to even up old contracts over Sunday and the condition report.

WHEAT

Chicago, July 29.—Increasing receipts from the winter crop region, together with predictions of slightly cooler weather in the northwest gave an advantage today to the bears in wheat. Largely in consequence the market closed weak at ¾@1¾ cents net lower, with September at $1.21@1.21¼ and December at $1.24⅛@1.24⅝. In corn the outcome varied from 1c decline to a like advance, oats finished ⅛@⅝c down and provisions up 5 to 10 to 12½c, except July pork, which showed a final setback of 70c.

Enlarged calls for cars throughout the winter wheat belt tended to make the wheat bears somewhat aggressive. Elevators in Kansas were asserted to be full to the roofs.

Oats were bearishly affected by reports of excellent conditions for the harvest.

Provisions also ranged higher with hogs.

"WAS HELL, BUT IT WAS GRAND."

(London Telegraph.)

A thrilling story of the "big push" was related by a wounded Scot, who has reached London.

"Eh, mon, it was hell, but it was grand," he declared. "We've got a move on at last, and are paying the Huns out. For over a week our guns have been letting rip at them. Talk about the German guns in the early days of the war, they are not in it now. I was in the retreat from Mons, so I reckon I've seen some of the fighting."

"I got — packet Friday night," he added, referring to his wounds. "We were pushed up to our front line trenches early Friday morning. Long before daybreak the guns were at it worse than ever. The noise fair drove some fellows daft, but the worst of all was waiting in the trenches for the order to charge. When that came we were over the top like a lot of dogs let loose. The ground was churned up for miles, and the front of the German trenches simply smashed to bits. We got there under cover of smoke, and fairly rolled in. I shall never forget the sight. The Germans were lying heaped up in all directions, and those who were alive showed no fight, but appeared to have gone 'clean potty.'

"Further on we got into the supports, which had received a terrific smashing about, and it was there we had the scrap. At the last moment it seemed the Germans had rushed a crowd of chaps in, and they had hidden themselves in shell holes and were taking pot shots at us. We rushed them with the bayonet and bombs, and some of them put up a good fight. I had one fellow in front of me, and felt myself a 'goner,' for I tumbled over some wire, when one of our chaps got his bayonet into him. The next second a German 'outed' my chum. 'Never fear, Jock,' he said, 'you did the same trick for me once.' That chap's left a wife and six bairns away up north,' added the Scot.

Asked how he received his wounds, the Scot became somewhat bashful.

"Oh, one of the Huns got at me," he replied. Another wounded hero, however, took up the narrative. "He fair tumbled into a hole where there was half a dozen of 'em hiding," said the second man. "Jock comes of a fighting race, and he gave the Huns a bit for hiding."

Electric Heat.

It is not always necessary to burn something to produce heat. However, we have secured our heat by combustion for so long that most of us believe that heat can be produced in no other way. It is hard to convince the user of an electric flatiron, or even an elecric range, that nothing is burned within the iron, that there is no fire in the range. If you don't believe that heat can be produced without fire and combustion try rubbing a coin briskly on the carpet. In a few seconds the coin will be too hot to hold. If you rubbed it fast enough, and long enough it would set fire to the carpet.

When a coin is rubbed on the carpet it is heated by friction. By this same process is heat produced in an electric iron, or any other heating device. Only, in the case of electricity, "fraction" is called by another name, "resistance." Electric heat is produced by the "resistance" offered to the flow of the current by special resistance metal inserted in the circuit. The current flows easily and smoothly along the copper wire leading into the electric iron. In the bottom of this iron is inserted a stamped leaf, or a grid of resistance wire, through which the current must force its way before it can flow on to complete the circuit. This wire resists the flow of current, but there is pressure, or voltage, enough to force it over the difficult path. In overcoming this resistance a part of the electrical energy is changed to heat energy and the resistance wire becomes quite hot.

All wire offers more or less resistance to the flow of electricity. The term, however, is usually applied only to those wires possessing a higher specific resistance than copper wire. Silver has the lowest electrical resistance of all the metals, but as silver is costly and as a copper has but slightly greater resistance, it is copper wire that it is in commercial use, so all comparisons are made with reference to copper. The function of resistance wire is to offer resistance to the passage of the electric current. This resistance to the current causes the electrical energy to become converted into heat, and it is by the utilization of this heating characteristic that resistance wire finds so great a use today in the electrical trade.

COTTON

New York.

New York, July 29.—Transactions in the local market for cotton futures today were marked by considerable caution, due to the approaching government report. Opening steady at a decline of 5 to 6 points, the market gradually worked up 3 to 4 points above last night's closing but in the last few minutes met rather liberal selling which promoted sharp reactions and the market finally was steady at a net decline of 1 to 3 points.

The pressure which was responsible for the opening decline was due largely to a disappearance of the gulf disturbance which yesterday caused a good deal of buying in the local market, but the fact that showery conditions over the eastern belt have not entirely disappeared and were expected to continue, started a local buying movement.

Support was extended until near the close when Texas details, showing more rain in the state, than was indicated early on the map, together with the forecast of further precipitation in East Texas tomorrow, led to rather active realizing There was a tendency towards improvement in condition reports from Georgia.

A local trade paper published reports from Arkansas and Tennessee indicating unchanged conditions from a month ago and some deterioration in Missouri and Florida. Fall River print cloth sales for the week were 160,000 pieces against a similar total last year. Prices were firm, reflecting the advance in raw cotton, but demand was less active.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, July 29.—The cotton market was steady on the week-end session, but fluctuations were narrow and trading probably was restricted by the nearness of the government's July condition report. The chief sustaining influence was the belief in bullish figures. A feature of the morning was a private bureau report of 75.8 per cent.

In the early trading, prices were 1 to 2 points under yesterday's close, from which there was a rise until the active months were 4 points over yesterday's finals. Last prices for the day were 1 point up to 1 point down compared to yesterday's close.

Buying was held within moderate limits because of rains in Texas, and the much lighter rainfall in the eastern belt. The Texas rains were considered most favorable, and it was thought with the drier weather in the east farmers would be able to do much needed work in their fields.

The observance of the summer Saturday holiday in Liverpool restricted new business on this side. Liverpool will be closed each Saturday in August.

Much of the trading was to oven up old contracts over Sunday and the condition report.

WHEAT

Chicago, July 29.—Increasing receipts from the winter crop region, together with predictions of slightly cooler weather in the northwest gave an advantage today to the bears in wheat. Largely in consequence the market closed weak at ¾@1¾ cents net lower, with September at $1.21@1.21¼ and December at $1.24¼@1.24⅝. In corn the outcome varied from 1c decline to a like advance, oats finished ⅛@⅜c down and provisions up 5 to 10 to 12½c, except July pork, which showed a final setback of 70c.

Enlarged calls for cars throughout the winter wheat belt tended to make the wheat bears somewhat aggressive. Elevators in Kansas were asserted to be full to the roofs.

Oats were bearishly affected by reports of excellent conditions for the harvest.

Provisions also ranged higher with hogs.

FRENCH AIRMAN PHOTOGRAPHS BLAZING GERMAN FOKKER IN PLUNGE TO DEATH

"WAS HELL, BUT IT WAS GRAND."

(London Telegraph.)

A thrilling story of the "big push" was related by a wounded Scot, who has reached London.

"Eh, mon, it was hell, but it was grand," he declared. "We've got a move on at last, and are paying the Huns out. For over a week our guns have been letting rip at them. Talk about the German guns in the early days of the war, they are not in it now. I was in the retreat from Mons, so I reckon I've seen some of the fighting."

"I got — packet Friday night," he added, referring to his wounds. "We were pushed up to our front line trenches early Friday morning. Long before daybreak the guns were at it worse than ever. The noise fair drove some fellows daft, but the worst of all was waiting in the trenches for the order to charge. When that came we were over the top like a lot of dogs let loose. The ground was churned up for miles, and the front of the German trenches simply smashed to bits. We got there under cover of smoke, and fairly rolled in. I shall never forget the sight. The Germans were lying heaped up in all directions, and those who were alive showed no fight, but appeared to have gone 'clean potty.'

"Further on we got into the supports, which had received a terrific smashing about, and it was there we had the scrap. At the last moment it seemed the Germans had rushed a crowd of chaps in, and they had hidden themselves in shell holes and were taking pot shots at us. We rushed them with the bayonet and bombs, and some of them put up a good fight. I had one fellow in front of me, and felt myself a 'goner,' for I tumbled over some wire, when one of our chaps got his bayonet into him. The next second a German 'outed' my chum. 'Never fear, Jock,' he said, 'you did the same trick for me once.' That chap's left a wife and six bairns away up north,' added the Scot.

Asked how he received his wounds, the Scot became somewhat bashful.

"Oh, one of the Huns got at me," he replied. Another wounded hero, however, took up the narrative. "He fair tumbled into a hole where there was half a dozen of 'em hiding," said the second man. "Jock comes of a fighting race, and he gave the Huns a bit for hiding."

Electric Heat.

It is not always necessary to burn something to produce heat. However, we have secured our heat by combustion for so long that most of us believe that heat can be produced in no other way. It is hard to convince the user of an electric flatiron, or even an elecric range, that nothing is burned within the iron, that there is no fire in the range. If you don't believe that heat can be produced without fire and combustion try rubbing a coin briskly on the carpet. In a few seconds the coin will be too hot to hold. If you rubbed it fast enough, and long enough it would set fire to the carpet.

When a coin is rubbed on the carpet it is heated by friction. By this same process is heat produced in an electric iron, or any other heating device. Only, in the case of electricity, "fraction" is called by another name, "resistance." Electric heat is produced by the "resistance" offered to the flow of the current by special resistance metal inserted in the circuit. The current flows easily and smoothly along the copper wire leading into the electric iron. In the bottom of this iron is inserted a stamped leaf, or a grid of resistance wire, through which the current must force its way before it can flow on to complete the circuit. This wire resists the flow of current, but there is pressure, or voltage, enough to force it over the difficult path. In overcoming this resistance a part of the electrical energy is changed to heat energy and the resistance wire becomes quite hot.

All wire offers more or less resistance to the flow of electricity. The term, however, is usually applied only to those wires possessing a higher specific resistance than copper wire. Silver has the lowest electrical resistance of all the metals, but as silver is costly and as a copper has but slightly greater resistance, it is copper wire that it is in commercial use, so all comparisons are made with reference to copper. The function of resistance wire is to offer resistance to the passage of the electric current. This resistance to the current causes the electrical energy to become converted into heat, and it is by the utilization of this heating characteristic that resistance wire finds so great a use today in the electrical trade.

To the Sheriff or Any Constable of McLennan County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon by making publication in some newspaper published in McLennan county, Texas, of this citation, once in each week for eight consecutive weeks previous to the return hereof, E. A. Mexia, if living, the unknown heirs of E. A. Mexia, if dead; Pablo Martinez del Rio, if living, the unknown heirs of Pablo Martinez del Rio if dead; Angelo Martinez del Rio, if living, the unknown heirs of Angelo Martinez del Rio, if dead; Manuel Martinez del Rio, if living, the unknown heirs of Manuel Martinez del Rio, if dead; Ventura Martinez del Rio, if living, of the unknown heirs of Ventura Martinez del Rio, if dead; Julia Martinez del Rio, if living, of the unknown heirs of Julia Martinez del Rio, if dead; Maria Martinez del Rio Castiglioni Stampa, if dead, of the unknown heirs of Maria del Rio Castiglioni Stampa, if dead; of Guiseppe Castiglioni Stampa, if living, of his unknown heirs, if dead; of the unknown heirs of J. L. Farrar, deceased, and L. P. Collins, if living, of the unknown heirs of L. P. Collins, if dead; of Joseph T. Young, if living, of the unknown heirs of Joseph T. Young, if dead; of Joseph F. Young, if living, of the unknown heirs of Joseph F. Young, if dead, file number of suit being No. 6487. The nature of plaintiff's demand is as follows, to-wit: Suit in trespass to try title and to cancel certain vendor's lien notes and declare the same paid and if not paid barred by limitation for following described land: Lying and being situated in McLennan County, Texas, and described as follows: Beginning at point where north line of J. G. Cadwell survey crosses the east line of right of way of Texas Central railway; thence N. 60, E. 411 vrs. to take; thence S. 30, E. 381 vrs. to stake; thence N. 60, E. 155 vrs. to stake; thence N. 30, W. 677 vrs. to stake; thence N. 88, W. 208 vrs.; thence N. 3, E. 237 vrs. to stake; thence S. 78¾, W. 157 vrs.; thence S. 56, W. 172 vrs. to Texas Central railway; thence SE. with meanders of Texas Central railway to the place of beginning, containing 54.3 acres of land out of the Moreno 11 league grant. Plaintiff prays for the cancellation of eleven certain vendor's lien notes, each bearing date December 13th, 1895, the first of said notes being for the sum of $50.00, payable January 1st, 1896; the remaining ten of which were for the sum of $49.20 each, the first two of said ten being due on first day of January, 1897, and two of same due on the first day of January of each year thereafter until paid off and discharged; one-half of said notes payable to L. J. Farrar, agent for E. A. Mexia and the other one-half of same payable to L. J. Farrar, agent for the defendants del Rio and Stampa, recorded in McLennan county deed records, Vol. 110, page 70, to which record reference is here made for more particular description of said notes. Plaintiff prays for judgment for the title and possession of said land for the cancellation of said notes, etc., for cost of suit, etc. Herein fail not and have you then and there this writ with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed same.

Given under my hand and seal of office in the city of Waco, this the 7th day of July, A. D., 1916.

POLLY AND HER PALS

By CLIFF STERRETT

BAYLOR EXAMS HAVE MADE FOR BUSY WEEK

FIRST SERIES OF STATE NORMAL HAS CLOSED AND SECOND SERIES BEGINNING.

WILL LECTURE ON MEXICO

Miss Kate Griffith of Modern Language Department Will Speak on War-Ridden Republic.

The past week has been a very busy one at Baylor because of the state normal examinations which were completed on Thursday. There were 193 who took the examinations, all of whom had been doing work in the Baylor normal during the last six weeks. Some of course were taking exams. for the first time, but there were a large number who were only raising the certificates which they now hold by taking the examinations in the additional subjects required. In this way they build their certificates from year to year until they obtain permanent state certificates. During the first quarter there were enrolled in the normal 222 students, while the rest of the 658 were taking more or less college work. Some of these, however, wre doing work in both the college and the normal. Already more than thirty have enrolled for the second normal, and as entrance may be made as late as tomorrow it is expected that more than fifty will be enrolled. The schooi will still be quite full during the second half because of the fact that perhaps a majority of those enrolled for college work expect to stay throughout the whole term. So the total enrollment for the summer will run well above 700, being thus the largest summer session in the university's history.

The registrar reports that a larger number of requests for catalogues and inquiries concerning entrance have been received than in any previous year, and that already a large number of rooms are reported as reserved in both of the dormitories for men and women. This report, of course, indicates that the enrollment for the fall term will be unusually large and that the people of Texas are realizing what Baylor and Waco have to offer them.

PIANO RECITAL PLEASES MANY.

Miss Bertha Fahrenthold's graduating recital in piano was attended last Friday evening by several dozen people from the city and the university in spite of the very severe rainstorm which came just at the time for the recital to begin. Those who were present enjoyed the splendid program and are complimenting Miss Fahrenthold on her excellent renditions. She is a Waco girl and one of the talented pupils of Prof. Joseph M. Evans.

WILL LECTURE ON MEXICO.

Miss Kate Griffith of the department of modern language, will give the first of the special events for this week, which will be a stereopticon lecture on Mexico. This will be particularly interesting just now when the United States is making an effort to improve the condition of these people and of their government. Miss Griffith has traveled in Mexico and the accounts of her personal experiences will add interest to her lecture. About fifty splendid slides have been secured which show the beautiful scenery of the country, the habits and customs of the people and how they live both in the city and the country, in poverty and in wealth. Miss Griffith says that Mexico has much of the beauty and romance which are usually attributed only to the countries of Southern Europe, and she will seek to show these interesting features to the audience. The time will be 8:15 on the campus.

The History of Libraries will be the subject of the Friday evening lecture by Librarian Willard P. Lewis of the university library, who will speak on the campus at 8:30 p. m. Mr. Lewis is a graduate of the library school at Albany, New York, and is well able to discuss the progress of library work from its early beginnings to the present stage. Just now the best universities of the country pride themselves particularly upon their libraries, and library work and research is becoming a great factor in the study of any well educated man. Mr. Lewis has already made several addresses in Waco and over the state on library work, and his talks are always received with great interest.

NOTES ON BAYLOR LIFE.

The Baylor Book Concern has just completed some improvements which add greatly to its appearance and facilities for public service. The store has been considerably enlarged, new furniture has been added, the entire interior has been repainted in a delicate ivory which affords plenty of light and is very pleasing to the eye. The management state they will be prepared to offer the student body of the coming year better service than ever before.

A letter from Hutt Crouch, who is one of the Baylor boys who are on the border in the Waco militia companies, has written that he is spending a great deal of his time now in the constant hikes and marches which are serving as drill for the militia. He writes that they are seeing tarantulas "as big as your hand" and rattlers "six to ten feet long," but speaks of no harmful results as yet from the company of these vicious looking insects and reptiles.

By exchange with the Waco public library some thirty valuable volumes have recently been added to the Baylor library.

Among old students and alumni who have been on the campus during the past week have been Miss Margaret Royalty of the class of 1916, Miss Lynn White, '15, and Roy L. Morris, '15.

Most of the teachers in the first normal have returned with their families to their homes in the various parts of the state.

Coach "Bubs" Mosley of Baylor's athletic teams, has returned to Waco and is having the field prepared for the football training season which will open early in September. The prospects for a successful season are very good, indeed, and this week's issue of the university paper indicates that practically all of the members of last year's splendid team will return this fall.

SANGER STOREITORIAL

August a Lively Month at Sanger's

Tomorrow, so far as we are concerned, is the first of August. All charge purchases made tomorrow will be entered on September 1st statements.

August used to be thought of as "dog-days," with a sort of relaxation, awaiting the cooler days to begin real work. Those indoors pitied those out-of-doors and those out-of-doors pitied those in-doors, and everyone felt listless. It is "thought" that has much to do with "feeling."

The Sanger store is far away from this "tired" August feeling. August is a lively month here, because we make it so. We are busy, we are just as keen to give you wide-awake interested service as we are at any other time of the year. We never relax, because we derive a real pleasure in giving real service.

Our people and our store are happily prepared. You'll find it a pleasure to shop here because it is comfortable.

Summer goods are marked at "GO" prices and our many buyers, now in the markets, are sending daily shipments of the latest and newest styles. You are always welcome here, whether you come to buy or merely to keep in touch with what is what in fashion.

REPUBLICANS NAME NOMINEES IN COUNTY COMMISSIONER RACE

The county republican executive committee met at 10 o'clock a. m. in justice court room at county court house yesterday and was presided over by Dr. G. M. Patten. Members of county executive committee from the following justice precincts were present: Precinct No. 1, J. W. Cocke; Precinct No. 2, Dr. J. E. Cook; Precinct No. 3, James Griffin; Precinct No. 6, A. A. McNeil; Precinct No. 8, James Casey. Credentials filed by delegates were inspected and a temporary roll for county convention made up. Credentials being found in proper form from all the wards of Texas and from Axtell, Battle, Bruceville, Chalk Bluff, Coke, Downsville, Eddy, Elk, Hallsburg, LaVega Lorena, Mart, McGregor, Moody, Valley Mills, Riesel, South Bosque, West and Windsor. Credentials filed after time were presented by call from Daughtry's Dairy Leroy and Goshen. These were referred to the convention for action. The only contest was from the sixth ward in Waco when two conventions were held on account of an error in time. The Burr delegation was seated. The committee also canvassed the returns of election held for county chairman and members of executive committee and reported as elected B. R. Burr of Waco, who defeated J. W. Bass by a decided majority. Members of executive committee who were declared elected follow: Precinct No. 1, G. M. Patten; precinct No. 2, Dr J. E. Cook; precinct No. 3, James Griffin; precinct No. 5, A. S. Davis; precinct No. 6, C. Sullen; precinct No. 8, S. F. Pierson. No vote was recorded in precincts Nos. four and seven for members of executive committee. The committee recommended as temporary officers of county convention the following: As temporary chairman B. R. Burr; as temporary secretary, R. D. Evans; as sergeant-at-arms, Dr. J. E. Cook. A report to this effect was drawn up and the meeting adjourned.

The county convention met at same place at 2 o'clock p. m., being called to order by Dr. George M. Patten, county chairman. Report of executive committee was read and adopted after a motion to substitute name of J. W. Bass for that of B. R. Burr as temporary chairman was defeated decisively upon call of roll. Motion that temporary organization be made permanent carried unanimously and the chairman appointed committees on credentials, delegations and resolutions and nominations. While the committees were out C. A. Boynton made an enthusiastic speech, indicating victory in the fall elections. The committee on credentials reported ratifying the roll as made out by executive committee and adding the delegates from Daughtry's Dairy, Leroy and Goshen to the roll, and this report was adopted. The committee on resolutions and nominations reported strong resolutions in national affairs, endorsed the acts of the national committeeman, H. F. MacGregor and instructing delegates to vote for Phil Baer for state chairman and for M. M. Patten for member of executive committee for eleventh senatorial district.

The only nominations made for county officers were for officers of county commissioners for which nominations were made as follows:

Precinct No. 2, John L. Vaughan of Mart.

Formal ratification of the election of county chairman and county executive committee was had and the following names were chosen delegates to represent McLennan county in the state and all district conventions: Delegates John L. Vaughan, J. W. Cocke, J. E. Cook, A. A. McNeil, Sam B. Rose, Dr. H. L. Smith R. D. Evans, M. M. Patten. Alternates, S. F. Pierson, W. H. Pierce, Geo. M. Patten, Geo. H. Wiebusch, C. H. Thomas, J. W. Redding, W. W. Nash, C. A. Green.

The convention then adjourned.

BAYLOR EXAMS HAVE MADE FOR BUSY WEEK

FIRST SERIES OF STATE NORMAL HAS CLOSED AND SECOND SERIES BEGINNING.

Miss Kate Griffith of Modern Language Department Will Speak on War-Ridden Republic.

The past week has been a very busy one at Baylor because of the state normal examinations which were completed on Thursday. There were 193 who took the examinations, all of whom had been doing work in the Baylor normal during the last six weeks. Some of course were taking exams. for the first time, but there were a large number who were only raising the certificates which they now hold by taking the examinations in the additional subjects required. In this way they build their certificates from year to year until they obtain permanent state certificates. During the first quarter there were enrolled in the normal 222 students, while the rest of the 658 were taking more or less college work. Some of these, however, wre doing work in both the college and the normal. Already more than thirty have enrolled for the second normal, and as entrance may be made as late as tomorrow it is expected that more than fifty will be enrolled. The school will still be quite full during the second half because of the fact that perhaps a majority of those enrolled for college work expect to stay throughout the whole term. So the total enrollment for the summer will run well above 700, being thus the largest summer session in the university's history.

The registrar reports that a larger number of requests for catalogues and inquiries concerning entrance have been received than in any previous year, and that already a large number of rooms are reported as reserved in both of the dormitories for men and women. This report, of course, indicates that the enrollment for the fall term will be unusually large and that the people of Texas are realizing what Baylor and Waco have to offer them.

PIANO RECITAL PLEASES MANY.

Miss Bertha Fahrenthold's graduating recital in piano was attended last Friday evening by several dozen people from the city and the university in spite of the very severe rainstorm which came just at the time for the recital to begin. Those who were present enjoyed the splendid program and are complimenting Miss Fahrenthold on her excellent renditions. She is a Waco girl and one of the talented pupils of Prof. Joseph M. Evans.

WILL LECTURE ON MEXICO.

Miss Kate Griffith of the department of modern language, will give the first of the special events for this week, which will be a stereopticon lecture on Mexico. This will be particularly interesting just now when the United States is making an effort to improve the condition of these people and of their government. Miss Griffith has traveled in Mexico and the accounts of her personal experiences will add interest to her lecture. About fifty splendid slides have been secured which show the beautiful scenery of the country, the habits and customs of the people and how they live both in the city and the country, in poverty and in wealth. Miss Griffith says that Mexico has much of the beauty and romance which are usually attributed only to the countries of Southern Europe, and she will seek to show these interesting features to the audience. The time will be 8:15 on the campus.

The History of Libraries will be the subject of the Friday evening lecture by Librarian Willard P. Lewis of the university library, who will speak on the campus at 8:30 p. m. Mr. Lewis is a graduate of the library school at Albany, New York, and is well able to discuss the progress of library work from its early beginnings to the present stage. Just now the best universities of the country pride themselves particularly upon their libraries, and library work and research is becoming a great factor in the study of any well educated man. Mr. Lewis has already made several addresses in Waco and over the state on library work, and his talks are always received with great interest.

NOTES ON BAYLOR LIFE.

The Baylor Book Concern has just completed some improvements which add greatly to its appearance and facilities for public service. The store has been considerably enlarged, new furniture has been added, the entire interior has been repainted in a delicate ivory which affords plenty of light and is very pleasing to the eye. The management state they will be prepared to offer the student body of the coming year better service than ever before.

A letter from Hutt Crouch, who is one of the Baylor boys who are on the border in the Waco militia companies, has written that he is spending a great deal of his time now in the constant hikes and marches which are serving as drill for the militia. He writes that they are seeing tarantulas "as big as your hand" and rattlers "six to ten feet long," but speaks of no harmful results as yet from the company of these vicious looking insects and reptiles.

By exchange with the Waco public library some thirty valuable volumes have recently been added to the Baylor library.

Among old students and alumni who have been on the campus during the past week have been Miss Margaret Royalty of the class of 1916, Miss Lynn White, '15, and Roy L. Morris, '15.

Most of the teachers in the first ncrmal have returned with their families to their homes in the various parts of the state.

Coach "Bubs" Mosley of Baylor's athletic teams, has returned to Waco and is having the field prepared for the football training season which will open early in September. The prospects for a successful season are very good, indeed, and this week's issue of the university paper indicates that practically all of the members of last year's splendid team will return this fall.

SANGER STOREITORIAL

August a Lively Month at Sanger's

Tomorrow, so far as we are concerned, is the first of August. All charge purchases made tomorrow will be entered on September 1st statements.

August used to be thought of as "dog-days," with a sort of relaxation, awaiting the cooler days to begin real work. Those indoors pitied those out-of-doors and those out-of-doors pitied those in-doors, and everyone felt listless. It is "thought" that has much to do with "feeling."

The Sanger store is far away from this "tired" August feeling. August is a lively month here, because we make it so. We are busy, we are just as keen to give you wide-awake interested service as we are at any other time of the year. We never relax, because we derive a real pleasure in giving real service.

Our people and our store are happily prepared. You'll find it a pleasure to shop here because it is comfortable.

Summer goods are marked at "GO" prices and our many buyers, now in the markets, are sending daily shipments of the latest and newest styles. You are always welcome here, whether you come to buy or merely to keep in touch with what is what in fashion.

SOMEONE HAS FAITH IN ME.

Because someone has faith in me
I cannot fail, though all the way
Winds up the hill.
My staff in hand, and cheerily,
I can but fare me forth each day
With right good will.

Because someone has faith in me
I need must keep my heart quite true,
My own faith strong.
With clear, far vision I must see,
The path ahead and what the view
To sing a song.

God help me sing the song I pray—
God help me clean and strong to go
Cleared eyed to see
The untrod, upward winding way,
For fail I cannot. One I know
Has faith in me.

Happy Nimble Thimbles Entertain.

The Happy Nimble Thimbles were delightfully entertained Thursday by Mrs. V. O. Laws at the home of Mrs. J. A. Masson, Huaco Heights. This was a morning party and the guests assembled early. The beautiful reception rooms were filled with smiling faces of guests who were soon enjoying the old but delightful game of "progressive 42."

Mrs. I. L. Huff won first prize, a pair of white silk hose, for high score as a guest. Mrs. Mary L. Wilson received the consolation, a pretty crepe handkerchief. Mrs. A. C. Hanna won first prize, a set of gold hat pins, for high score as a club member. Mrs. J. Hammons won consolation, a box of toilet soap.

Mrs. Laws extended a special invitation to the Lady Maccabees of Waco to review No. 99.

The distinguished guest was Mrs. Sallie Botzler of Ennis, beloved county deputy of the Woman's Benefit association of the Maccabees.

Miss Mary Barnett Has Party.

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Barnett was the scene of one of the merriest gatherings of little folks that has taken place this summer.

Invitations were issued early in the week to Miss Mary's many friends, and in response nearly seventy were present.

The lawn had been beautifully lighted with Japanese lanterns but the sudden thunder shower changed the plans for an outdoor party. Such minor interruptions are of small consequence to young people on pleasure bent, and a few minutes the enjoyment over guessing contests was so great that an onlooker could not have told that the occasion had not been intended for an indoor affair.

The bringing in of two large grab bags, one for the girls and one for the boys, in which had been placed a suitable top for each created the most excitement, and to judge from the laughter and noises emanating from them during the rest of the evening nothing could have been more delightful to the little guests.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, and the birthday cake with its twelve candles was duly admired. The attractive little hostess was the recipient of a number of gifts. The hours sped all too swiftly, and goodnight had to be said amid repetitions that the evening had been a happy one. Those in attendance were Misses Mary Maud Ard, Florence Baldwin, Frances M. Barnett, Julia Blizzard, Virginia Blackstock, Barbara and Beatrice Cameron, Barbara Carringer, Mary Clayton, Evelyn and Byrtis Crain, Catherine Dilworth, Annona Denning, Margaret Edgar, Estelle and Fay Grimland, Ruth Hanna, Tina Jenkins, Sarah May Johnston, Ruth Lambert, Otis Lipon, Thelma McBride, Beryl McIntire, Susan Moore, Mabel and Mildred Maddox, Alice Hodge, Anita Nelson, Dorothy Owen, Ruth and Inez Pouncey, Minnie Porter, Mary, Frances and Ellen Phillips, Katherine Phillips, Martha Torbett, Frances and Emily Ward, Grace Yowell, Helen Wildish; Jack Blackstock, Tom Dilworth, William Edgar, Billy Foster, Jack Grimland, Jas. Huggins, John Lucian Hampton, Edison Hanna, Durrie and Billy Hardin, Lee Jenkins, Cullen Jones, Frank Maddox, Paul Nelson, Herbert Owen, Allen Orem, James Paisley, Tom Porter, Eddie Parnum, Prentice Rice, Robert Sherman, W. C. Torbett, Mac and Bob Ward, Benjamin Witsell, G. E. and Reginald West.

Birthday Celebration.

Mrs. H. B. Sligh of Ethel avenue invited a coterie of little folks to come and make merry with her little son, Charles Leroy on his fourth birthday. The ever interesting story of Cinderella was told by the mother and listened to eagerly by the children. A large glass slipper which the grandmother used at her children's parties, was filled with miniature slippers and given as souvenirs. A contest greatly enjoyed was pinning the slipper on a large drawing of Cinderella. The successful one was Mildred Christian who was given a fancy box of candy. Kodak pictures were taken of this attractive group. Each little guest registered his or her name on a blackboard chart.

The birthday cake in all its glory adorned with four burning candles, was the joy of the occasion. Evelyn Gay cut the dime and William Coleman the button. Fickle fortune failed to relinquish the ring. Cream and cake were served before the children bid adieu to their happy little host. Those enjoying this party were Misses Irene Barker, Frances Haney, Lena Fay Dalton, Martha Johnson, Mildred Christian, Ivon and Wanda Fauquet, Doro-

Movie Actresses and Their Hair

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, (this is a secret), many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mxiture which they make up for themselves by putting a teaspoonful of canthrox, (which they get from the druggist), in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. After its use their hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness is delightful, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

FAMOUS NOBLE'S DAUGHTER, HALF AMERICAN, BRIDE

Lady Dorothy Walpole.

Lady Dorothy Walpole, one of the leaders of London society, has just been married to Capt. Arthur H. Mills, a gallant British officer and a nephew of the Earl of Buckinghamshire. Her mother, who died in 1909, was the daughter of the millionaire American railway magnate, D. C. Corbin of New York, and brought her husband a dowry worthy of a princess.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The manager of the Ladies' Ready-to-wear department of one of Waco's large stores recently said:

"Your plant is certainly in the city class, and I never hesitate to recommend your work to the patrons of my department."

Then, too, a prominent Waco lawyer, who is noted for his careful appearance, remarked:

"I must admit my suits come back from your establishment with a certain hang and appearance which is indeed gratifying to me."

Miss Sallie Hall entertained with a forty-two party in honor of these visitors. A Hippodrome party was also given in compliment to Miss McKay's house guests.

On Monday this party adjourns for a camp at Flat Rock with Mr. and Mrs. Pritchett and Mr. and Mrs. Denison chaperons.

"Twenty Daisies" Have Enjoyable Outing.

In recognition of the return of Miss Culbertson Garrett from Oklahoma, a most delightful evening was privileged the "Twenty Daisies" and their escorts on last Thursday when drive was made to the Bosque, supper spread followed by a watermelon cut. These young ladies are including escorts in recent club meetings which gives added zest and pleasure. Mr. and Mrs. Pfaeffle and Mrs. Ed Seidman of San Antonio were the chaperones for Misses Culbertson Garrett, Alliene Quicksall, Violet Siedeman of San Antonio, Marie Pfaeffle, Myrtle Fleming, Clarice Griswold, Ella Stolte, Hester Dietz, Emma Pfaeffle and Messrs. Jack Morris, Speight Jenkins, Granbury, Alfred Stolte, E. Czichos, T. Hawkins, Walter Hang, J. A. McIver and C. Garrett.

Friday Huaco Club Dinners.

For the first time since the dancing hall at the Huaco club received its new paper and paint it was opened for the dancing contingent. After the refreshing shower in the early evening dancing was most delightful and quite a crowd availed themselves of the opportunity to enjoy this pastime.

Jesse McLendon and Miss Nora Gorman were noted among the diners.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Moore Jr. and Mrs. Louis Stephens formed a group of congenial diners.

Last Friday afternoon occurred the second of the weekly outings arranged by the social committee for the business women and girls of the city and found Mesdames Reeves Halsey and William Kelly in charge, assisted by the Mesdames T. D. Hays, J. W. Hale, Charles Boynton and Miss Ella Henry. The automobiles of Mesdames Irwin Clark, Bayless Earle, J. W. Hale, J. W. Orand, J. L. Penix and Mrs. Gildersleeve were in waiting at the Y. W. C. A. headquarters at 4 o'clock to convey the many who had signified their wish to join the merry crowd for an outing at the Fish Pond. The pleasures of boating, dancing, a delightful supper and all manner of good times were privileged Misses Letha Byrd, Gladys Linthicum, Lucile Corbin, Mildred Corbin, Helen Pudig, Irene Bruck, Lavinia Rawlins, Estella Glover, Rose Wallenstein, Nettie Wallenstein, Mary Kneeble, Edna Simmonds, Gretchen Rosenfield, Hallie Saddler, Cecil Harmon, Pearl Mayfield, Emholene Brooks, Mary Brooks, Grace Mayr, Velma Faubian, Josephine Yarbrough, Grace Bloodworth, Dorothy Lange, Mesdames Willie Benson, Mattie Harmon and Eva Gaines.

The social committee of the Y. W. C. A. express grateful appreciation to those who have offered to send their cars to be used in these weekly outings.

Happy Nimble Thimbles Entertain.

The Happy Nimble Thimbles were delightfully entertained Thursday by Mrs. V. O. Laws at the home of Mrs. J. A. Masson, Huaco Heights. This was a morning party and the guests assembled early. The beautiful reception rooms were filled with smiling faces of guests who were soon enjoying the old but delightful game of "progressive 42."

Mrs. I. L. Huff won first prize, a pair of white silk hose, for high score as a guest. Mrs. Mary L. Wilson received the consolation, a pretty crepe handkerchief. Mrs. A. C. Hanna won first prize, a set of gold hat pins, for high score as a club member. Mrs. J. Hammons won consolation, a box of toilet soap.

Mrs. Laws extended a special invitation to the Lady Maccabees of Waco to review No. 99.

The distinguished guest was Mrs. Sallie Botzler of Ennis, beloved county deputy of the Woman's Benefit association of the Maccabees.

Miss Mary Barnett Has Party.

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Barnett was the scene of one of the merriest gatherings of little folks that has taken place this summer.

Invitations were issued early in the week to Miss Mary's many friends, and in response nearly seventy were present.

The lawn had been beautifully lighted with Japanese lanterns but the sudden thunder shower changed the plans for an outdoor party. Such minor interruptions are of small consequence to young people on pleasure bent, and a few minutes the enjoyment over guessing contests was so great that an onlooker could not have told that the occasion had not been intended for an indoor affair.

The bringing in of two large grab bags, one for the girls and one for the boys, in which had been placed a suitable top for each created the most excitement, and to judge from the laughter and noises emanating from them during the rest of the evening nothing could have been more delightful to the little guests.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, and the birthday cake with its twelve candles was duly admired. The attractive little hostess was the recipient of a number of gifts. The hours sped all too swiftly, and goodnight had to be said amid repetitions that the evening had been a happy one. Those in attendance were Misses Mary Maud Ard, Florence Baldwin, Frances M. Barnett, Julia Blizzard, Virginia Blackstock, Barbara and Beatrice Cameron, Barbara Carringer, Mary Clayton, Evelyn and Byrtis Crain, Catherine Dilworth, Annona Denning, Margaret Edgar, Estelle and Fay Grimland, Ruth Hanna, Tina Jenkins, Sarah May Johnston, Ruth Lambert, Otis Ligon, Thelma McBride, Beryl McIntire, Susan Moore, Mabel and Mildred Maddox, Alice Hodge, Anita Nelson, Dorothy Owen, Ruth and Inez Pouncey, Minnie Porter, Mary, Frances and Ellen Phillips, Katherine Phillips, Martha Torbett, Frances and Emily Ward, Grace Yowell, Helen Wildish; Jack Blackstock, Tom Dilworth, William Edgar, Billy Foster, Jack Grimland, Jas. Huggins, John Lucian Hampton, Edison Hanna, Durrie and Billy Hardin, Lee Jenkins, Cullen Jones, Frank Maddox, Paul Nelson, Herbert Owen, Allen Orem, James Paisley, Tom Porter, Eddie Parnum, Prentice Rice, Robert Sherman, W. C. Torbett, Mac and Bob Ward, Benjamin Witsell, G. E. and Reginald West.

Birthday Celebration.

Mrs. H. B. Sligh of Ethel avenue invited a coterie of little folks to come and make merry with her little son, Charles Leroy on his fourth birthday. The ever interesting story of Cinderella was told by the mother and listened to eagerly by the children. A large glass slipper which the grandmother used at her children's parties, was filled with miniature slippers and given as souvenirs. A contest greatly enjoyed was pinning the slipper on a large drawing of Cinderella. The successful one was Mildred Christian who was given a fancy box of candy. Kodak pictures were taken of this attractive group. Each little guest registered his or her name on a blackboard chart.

The birthday cake in all its glory adorned with four burning candles, was the joy of the occasion. Evelyn Gay cut the dime and William Coleman the button. Fickle fortune failed to relinquish the ring. Cream and cake were served before the children bid adieu to their happy little host. Those enjoying this party were Misses Irene Barker, Frances Haney, Lena Fay Dalton, Martha Johnson, Mildred Christian, Ivon and Wanda Fauquet, Doro-

SHE IS CHAIRMAN OF WOMAN'S PARTY

Miss Anne Martin.

Miss Anne Martin of Nevada, chairman of the National Woman's party, is the William R. Willcox and the Vance McCormick of the woman voters of the United States. She will conduct the campaign in the twelve woman suffrage states of the west during the coming months.

FAMOUS NOBLE'S DAUGHTER, HALF AMERICAN, BRIDE

Lady Dorothy Walpole.

Lady Dorothy Walpole, one of the leaders of London society, has just been married to Capt. Arthur H. Mills, a gallant British officer and a nephew of the Earl of Buckinghamshire. Her mother, who died in 1909, was the daughter of the millionaire American railway magnate, D. C. Corbin of New York, and brought her husband a dowry worthy of a princess.

Movie Actresses and Their Hair

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, (this is a secret), many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture which they make up for themselves by putting a teaspoonful of canthrox, (which they get from the druggist), in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. After its use their hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness is delightful, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The manager of the Ladies' Ready-to-wear department of one of Waco's large stores recently said:

"Your plant is certainly in the city class, and I never hesitate to recommend your work to the patrons of my department."

Then, too, a prominent Waco lawyer, who is noted for his careful appearance, remarked:

"I must admit my suits come back from your establishment with a certain hang and appearance which is indeed gratifying to me."

Books on Business Are Available at Public Library

The books listed below have recently been added to the shelves of the public library. Any of them may be borrowed for two weeks with the privilege of renewal for two weeks more. The library is open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on week days and from 2 to 6 p. m. on Sundays. No books may be borrowed on Sundays, but one may return books and use the reading rooms, where there may be found 100 magazines and twelve newspapers. Visitors in the city are cordially invited to use the library.

"The Manufacture of Ice Cream," by M. S. A. Frandsen. A practical book containing formulae for all sorts of ice creams, ices and even hokey-pokey; describes machinery, factory administration, refrigeration, by-products and side lines.

"Markets for the People," by J. W. Sullivan. Convincing demonstration of the advantages of municipal markets. Based on a systematic investigation of the markets of America and Europe. Advocates, as an escape from the high prices of the middle man, the establishment of various kinds of public markets and co-operative associations.

"Letters That Land Orders," by J. H. Lytle. Concrete examples of letters which will "sell goods." More practical and helpful than the usual book on the subject.

"How to Sell," by N. C. Fowler. A series of dialogues designed to illustrate typical situations encountered by the salesman and how to meet them. Clear, sensible advice on the business side of selling, whether from behind the counter or on the road.

"The Efficient Secretary," by E. L. Spencer. A book which will be helpful to stenographers and others wishing to become secretaries. Gives suggestions on filing and other routine work; points out the value of proper dress and food, and the personal habits and qualities which will make the secretary invaluable to his employer.

"Power of Will," by F. C. Haddock. One of the "Power books" which are used today by the business man who desires to make himself more efficient.

"Practical Surveying," by C. E. McCullough. A practical book intended for surveyors who have had little experience in surveying and who have no knowledge of mathematics beyond the arithmetic taught in grade schools.

"Engineering as a Career," by F. H. Newell. A compilation of articles by eminent engineers, each of whom writes of one special branch of engineering, giving a general idea of what the work is, the opportunities and required training, and service on some of the personal qualities needed to become a successful engineer.

"The Torrens System," by A. G. Cameron. Clearly presented arguments in favor of this system of the registration of titles to real property. Useful to lawyers, real estate dealers, owners of property and title guarantee companies.

On next Sunday morning, beginning at 9:30, in the gold room of the Raleigh hotel, the official headquarters, the Texas Travelers will hold one of the most interesting of all sessions, as various matters in connection with the growth of the association will be handled.

One of the principal features will be the discussion of the part the organization will take in the celebration of Traveling Men's Day at the Cotton Palace this fall, it being the consensus of opinion that this will be one of the biggest events of the entire sixteen day's exposition.

This will be the first meeting of August, after a lapse of two Sundays, and a large gathering is expected. The organization expects to reach the 500-mark before winter.

William Foster Has Dance.

Mrs. Louie Stephens paid special compliment to her young brother, William Foster on Saturday evening. This was in recognition of his fourteenth birthday and handsomely engraved invitations were issued in advance for this occasion. Fourteen couples joined in the latest parlor dances, with the host and Miss Kate Padgitt leading the march.

Mrs. Stephens had her home bright with cut flowers and beautifully lighted for this birthday occasion and the polished floors were the delight of the dancers. Cooling punch was served during the intermission. This was one of the exclusive gatherings of the school set and those participating were Misses Carolyn Pryor, Jane Dodd Moore, Evelyn Bondurant, Elizabeth Clark, Dorothy Rylander, Mary Bray, Frances Nash, Willie Sypret, Frances Zizinia, Virginia Lovelace of Austin, Monteith Schroeder, Mary Alice Baker, Evelyn Baker of Stamford, Marguerite Eddens, May Beasley; Messrs. When Andrew Jackson Blundered Into Florida.

In 1817 another Indian campaign brought Andrew Jackson before the public in a far from agreeable light. Florida still belonged to Spain, and the Seminole Indians had a way of making sudden raids across the border into Georgia. The Spanish colony offered them a safe place of retreat after an orgy of murder and pillage. It was also a refuge for white criminals of many nations and kinds, who added their iniquity to the forays.

The raids became so frequent and daring that Jackson was ordered to put an end to them. The exact degree of authority given him was later a subject of bitter dispute. He claimed that he had distinct orders to invade Florida, and that the government knew and approved his belief that eastern Florida should be taken and held as indemnity for outrages upon our citizens. The administration denied this.

Whatever his orders, he did not stop until he had taken Pensacola and accidentally executed two Englishmen whom he found there helping the Indians. This raised a storm at home and abroad. Resolutions of censure were introduced in both branches of congress and debated to the exclusion of all other business, in one house or the other, for the space of twenty-seven days. The house finally voted to sustain him, while the senate laid the resolution on the table. Clay making a speech arraigning Jackson, for which he was never forgiven.

In Monroe's cabinet discussion was equally violent, though not made public. Long years afterward Jackson learned that Calhoun, secretary of state, had favored disavowing Jackson's acts and holding him to account, and on the instant his previous admiration for the South Carolinian changed to undying hate. John Q. Adams upheld him, being the only member of the cabinet to do so, and cited authorities on international law and instances of history to prove that the impetuous general was well within his rights. Jackson learned of this at the time, but ungratefully poohpoohed the attempt to thrust him into the academic past.

"Damn Grotius!" he said. "Damn Pufendorf! Damn Vattel! This is a mere matter between Jim Monroe and myself."

Books on Business Are Available at Public Library

The books listed below have recently been added to the shelves of the public library. Any of them may be borrowed for two weeks with the privilege of renewal for two weeks more. The library is open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on week days and from 2 to 6 p. m. on Sundays. No books may be borrowed on Sundays, but one may return books and use the reading rooms, where there may be found 100 magazines and twelve newspapers. Visitors in the city are cordially invited to use the library.

"The Manufacture of Ice Cream," by M. S. A. Frandsen. A practical book containing formulae for all sorts of ice creams, ices and even hokey-pokey; describes machinery, factory administration, refrigeration, by-products and side lines.

"Markets for the People," by J. W. Sullivan. Convincing demonstration of the advantages of municipal markets. Based on a systematic investigation of the markets of America and Europe. Advocates, as an escape from the high prices of the middle man, the establishment of various kinds of public markets and co-operative associations.

"Letters That Land Orders," by J. H. Lytle. Concrete examples of letters which will "sell goods." More practical and helpful than the usual book on the subject.

"How to Sell," by N. C. Fowler. A series of dialogues designed to illustrate typical situations encountered by the salesman and how to meet them. Clear, sensible advice on the business side of selling, whether from behind the counter or on the road.

"The Efficient Secretary," by E. L. Spencer. A book which will be helpful to stenographers and others wishing to become secretaries. Gives suggestions on filing and other routine work; points out the value of proper dress and food, and the personal habits and qualities which will make the secretary invaluable to his employer.

"Power of Will," by F. C. Haddock. One of the "Power books" which are used today by the business man who desires to make himself more efficient.

"Practical Surveying," by C. E. McCullough. A practical book intended for surveyors who have had little experience in surveying and who have no knowledge of mathematics beyond the arithmetic taught in grade schools.

"Engineering as a Career," by F. H. Newell. A compilation of articles by eminent engineers, each of whom writes of one special branch of engineering, giving a general idea of what the work is, the opportunities and required training, and service on some of the personal qualities needed to become a successful engineer.

"The Torrens System," by A. G. Cameron. Clearly presented arguments in favor of this system of the registration of titles to real property. Useful to lawyers, real estate dealers, owners of property and title guarantee companies.

On next Sunday morning, beginning at 9:30, in the gold room of the Raleigh hotel, the official headquarters, the Texas Travelers will hold one of the most interesting of all sessions, as various matters in connection with the growth of the association will be handled.

One of the principal features will be the discussion of the part the organization will take in the celebration of Traveling Men's Day at the Cotton Palace this fall, it being the consensus of opinion that this will be one of the biggest events of the entire sixteen day's exposition.

This will be the first meeting of August, after a lapse of two Sundays, and a large gathering is expected. The organization expects to reach the 500-mark before winter.

William Foster Has Dance.

Mrs. Louie Stephens paid special compliment to her young brother, William Foster on Saturday evening. This was in recognition of his fourteenth birthday and handsomely engraved invitations were issued in advance for this occasion. Fourteen couples joined in the latest parlor dances, with the host and Miss Kate Padgitt leading the march.

Mrs. Stephens had her home bright with cut flowers and beautifully lighted for this birthday occasion and the polished floors were the delight of the dancers. Cooling punch was served during the intermission. This was one of the exclusive gatherings of the school set and those participating were Misses Carolyn Pryor, Jane Dodd Moore, Evelyn Bondurant, Elizabeth Clark, Dorothy Rylander, Mary Bray, Frances Nash, Willie Sypret, Frances Zizinia, Virginia Lovelace of Austin, Monteith Schroeder, Mary Alice Baker, Evelyn Baker of Stamford, Marguerite Eddens, May Beasley; Messrs. Tom Padgitt, Hubert Foster, Joe Reed, Allie Waldrop of Bryan, Jack Foster, George Smith, Stanton Dossitt, Robert Henry, Deshay Patton and William Foster.

Working Girls' Club Enjoys an Outing.

When Andrew Jackson Blundered Into Florida.

In 1817 another Indian campaign brought Andrew Jackson before the public in a far from agreeable light. Florida still belonged to Spain, and the Seminole Indians had a way of making sudden raids across the border into Georgia. The Spanish colony offered them a safe place of retreat after an orgy of murder and pillage. It was also a refuge for white criminals of many nations and kinds, who added their iniquity to the forays.

The raids became so frequent and daring that Jackson was ordered to put an end to them. The exact degree of authority given him was later a subject of bitter dispute. He claimed that he had distinct orders to invade Florida, and that the government knew and approved his belief that eastern Florida should be taken and held as indemnity for outrages upon our citizens. The administration denied this.

Whatever his orders, he did not stop until he had taken Pensacola and accidentally executed two Englishmen whom he found there helping the Indians. This raised a storm at home and abroad. Resolutions of censure were introduced in both branches of congress and debated to the exclusion of all other business, in one house or the other, for the space of twenty-seven days. The house finaly voted to sustain him, while the senate laid the resolution on the table. Clay making a speech arraigning Jackson, for which he was never forgiven.

In Monroe's cabinet discussion was equally violent, though not made public. Long years afterward Jackson learned that Calhoun, secretary of state, had favored disavowing Jackson's acts and holding him to account, and on the instant his previous admiration for the South Carolinian changed to undying hate. John Q. Adams upheld him, being the only member of the cabinet to do so, and cited authorities on international law and instances of history to prove that the impetuous general was well within his rights. Jackson learned of this at the time, but ungratefully poohpoohed the attempt to thrust him into the academic past.

"Damn Grotius!" he said. "Damn Pufendorf! Damn Vattel! This is a mere matter between Jim Monroe and myself."

Raisin Biscuit

1 cup chopped SUN-MAID Raisins
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons shortening
1-3 cup milk

Sift flour, salt and baking powder into bowl, add the shortening and rub in very lightly; add enough cold milk to hold together; add the raisins and mix. Place dough on floured board, roll or pat with hands until ½ inch thick; then cut with biscuit cutter and brush tops with cold milk; bake in hot oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Bring Out Your Hidden Beauty

Beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon. Mercolized wax will gradually, gently absorb the devitalized surface skin, revealing the youthfully fresh, white and beautiful skin underneath. Used by refined women who prefer complexions of true naturalness. Mercolized wax in one ounce package, with directions for use, is sold by all druggists.

Our Semi-Annual Sale

Of Summer Goods---Odd Pieces and Discontinued Patterns

Commences Monday Morning, July 31, 1916

Our sales are recognized as events to be looked forward to by the conservative buyers of Waco, due to the fact that we always offer big bargains and do not misrepresent anything. Summer Furniture is bulky, takes up lots of room, and it pays us to sacrifice it rather than carry it over to next Spring. During every season we break a good many matched suits that cannot be replaced. The factories do not run the same patterns always, but drop some every season. Therefore, if we did not close out the odd pieces and dropped patterns, with the new goods coming in, it would soon take the Amicable building to show and warehouse our stock. Hence these sales. We do not expect to make a profit on the individual pieces sold, but we do make money in the long run by closing them out. The entire stock is not on sale, but there is something marked down of every kind we carry, and you can furnish a home from the articles on sale.

Somehow it has not been realized in Texas that the great threatened railroad strike, involving the whole of the United States, was really a probability, or that it was close at hand, but railroad men in Waco were yesterday discussing with grave faces the proposed strike, which is due to come off August 6 unless some amicable arrangement is reached in the meantime, which does not seem very probable at this time.

The matter has been pending for months, and tens of thousands of columns have been written about the strike in various sections of the country, but the public has accepted it apathetically, evidently thinking that promptly the matter would be settled without resort to the actual strike.

The demands of the men, so the railroads claim, would entail an enormous annual increase, but the men claim it is nothing but what is just and right, and that other things are involved besides the mere question of increased pay incident to shorter hours in some cases.

Bob Etchison Is Thankful to His Many Friends

I wish to record my sincere appreciation of the support accorded by my friends in the recent contest for public weigher in Precincts 1 and 4, which I lost by a small number of votes, and to congratulate my worthy opponent on the fact that he won.

It is matter of gratification to each of us that the race was a clean one, without aspersion or acrimony, or any undesirable features. For those who did not support me I have the kindest feelings, as they did right in supporting the person whose cause they wished to champion.

It is my intention to enter the race again two years from now, when I hope for a favorable verdict from the people.

Respectfully,
BOB ETCHISON.

Friday and Saturday—"Under Two Flags," five-reel Fox with Theda Bara. New Mutt and Jeff. New Keystone.

"The Captive God."

Virtually the entire second part of the new Ince-Hart play, "The Captive God," showing at the Hippodrome tomorrow and Tuesday, is devoted to fighting of a sort totally new to the screen drama. It is fighting between the Tehuan and Aztec armies, the story having to do with a romance of the sixteenth century in ancient Mexico. Therefore, the warfare is novel, for the weapons instead of being guns and swords are rocks and spears. To supply ammunition fifteen men were kept busy for several weeks molding the rocks and cutting the spears. Approximately 10,000 of each were prepared, and some idea of the work involved can be gained when it is known that every rock had to be painted and every spear decorated with feathers. Most of the fighting takes place in the open, but there are several fierce hand-to-hand encounters in the interiors. William S. Hart appears in a new characterization, that of a stalwart Spaniard, who, found by the Tehuans when a child, is trained by them and later made their leader because of his superior wisdom. His wonderful personality and magnetism is very evident even though he appears in the Indian garb without his familiar western make-up and six-shooters.

Chiapa is the leader of the Tehuans when their fierce enemies, the Aztec armies, attack and surprise them, carrying off their women and gold through the treachery of Tecolete, a lewd woman in love with Mexitli, the Aztec chief. Later the Tehuans plan revenge and drive back the Aztecs with great losses. But Chiapa is captured and prepared to be sacrificed to the great Aztec god. He is hidden by Lolomi, the princess of the Aztecs, who has fallen in love with him, but they are found and the priess promised by her father to Mexitli. How the two escape is shown in a series of extraordinary scenes, wonderful in their bigness and action.

"The Wild Girl of the Sierras."

From time to time in the motion picture industry there have been assembled remarkable casts whose unusual harmony in getting results coupled with distinct native ability long, long kept them together as regular producing combinations. Such an association was that of Mae Marsh, Robert Harron and Wilfred Lucas, the three stars now appearing in the new Fine Arts Triangle picture, "A Wild Girl of the Sierras," showing at the Hippodrome Wednesday and Thursday. Five years ago they appeared together in the first "primitive man" film ever made, "Man's Genesis," under the personal direction of D. W. Griffith. Their work was commented upon enthusiastically and it was thought that they would continue together. But somehow or other Lucas was transferred to a distant branch of the studio and the plan was abandoned. Recently at the Fine Arts studio in California the three were reunited and this is their first picture together in five years. Olga Gray is also in the cast, and James O'Shea, and Maizie Radford.

The wild girl has lived all her life in the forest with no companions but the wild beasts. When she was an infant her father, Jim Hamilton, and his wife went with a lot of others to a mine in the far west. While the men were absent one day from the camp, all the women were killed by the Indians and it was thought the baby died, too. But years later when the father, now a gentleman gambler, went to sell the mine to a tenderfoot, Bob Jordan, they shoot at what they think is a deer and find they have wounded a wild girl who can utter animal sounds but cannot speak nor understand a word of English. How they take her on to camp and what happens then is told in a wonderfully interesting manner in "The Wild Girl of the Sierras."

"Under Two Flags."

"Under Two Flags," the Ouida story which William Fox has adapted to the screen with Theda Bara as the star and which will play at the Hippodrome Friday and Saturday, is a story of French army life in Algeria. A dramatic swing and martial atmosphere run through the plot which Miss Bara by her versatile talent and superb acting has interpreted in a marvelously appealing manner. In this sympathetic role of the little favorite of the soldiers at the French army camp, Miss Bara is a far different character from the woman her picture usually represents her, and she says she is glad that this is so. According to her confession, there is no fun in being a "vampire" and having the world consider you one in real life. As Cigarette, Miss Bara is an appealing, loyable little girl who delights in kindnesses to the soldiers and who loves her sweetheart so much she is willing to make supreme sacrifices for him. Herbert Heyes, an unusually handsome stage actor, who has been recently engaged by Fox, will play opposite Miss Bara, and Stuart Holmes and Claire Whitney have important roles.

Cigarette loves everybody in the fort, but she has not known what real love is until handsome Bertie Cecil comes to Algeria and enlists in the army. But the Marquis de Chateauoye dislikes

Bertie from the very first, and when the young man thwarts the marquis' plan to bring the wife of an Arabian Emil to shame, the two become bitter enemies. The marquis is finally successful in goading Bertie into striking him, a superior officer, and at a court-martial the young man is condemned to die. Cigarette hears of this and starts on her perilous journey to obtain a reprieve for him. The girl braves hostile Arabs, a terrible sandstorm on the desert, and many other dangers. The climax is both tragically beautiful and impressive.

Sir Gilbert Parker Gives Review of European War

London, July 29.—The Right Honorable Sir Gilbert Parker, Bart, M. P., whose services to the British cause have been notable in the field of publicity in the United States, has made the following statement to the Associated Press on the European war:

"You ask me to make a statement upon the two years of war in which England with her allies has been engaged.

"Three months ago the task would have been far more difficult than it is today. Since then Great Britain and France have moved forward on their fronts and with tremendous effect—but of that later. Also during that time Russia has moved heavily upon the troops of the central empire, and in the southeastern corner of the Russian front has driven in league upon league the Austrian troops, has captured sector upon sector, city upon city in the regions where Austria was dominant and has made prisoners of 300,000 men.

"Over in Asia Minor the field of conquest has been enlarged and developed. Erzerum and Erzingan have been captured and other centers of Turkish authority have been taken. The renowned Von Hindenburg up in the Riga district has been driven back mile after mile and Russian prowess has proved itself beyond question.

WHAT HAS STOPPED GERMANY?

"Looking back, one is forced to wonder how Germany was stayed in her march of conquest. According to every rule, she should have been in Paris at the time she herself appointed early in the autumn of 1914. She came very near it. What stopped her?

"She had left out of her calculations the strategic skill which belongs by nature to the French army, the new French army from behind Paris and 'the contemptible little British army.'

"It is a remarkable thing that on the western front the only gains of Germany were achieved in the first few weeks of the war. Those gains were of immense strategic value to her. They included the mining and industrial districts of France and nearly the whole of Belgium from which she has steadily drawn practical support and advantage and supplies. The wonder is not that the allies have done so well, but that with all her preparations and her perfect armament Germany and her obedient colleagues, Austria and Turkey and Bulgaria have done so badly.

"Apparently at the beginning of the war everything was in their hands, everything except the British navy. If Germany could have mastered her as she mastered Belgium and a goodly portion of France, the war long since would have been over; France would have been a third rate power under practical German control; Russia would have been driven back into her steppes and plains, once more the Slav of German influence and control, and the British empire as we know it would have been a thing of the past. What the British navy did was to sweep German merchant commerce from the seas, prevent Germany from trading with the rest of the world except by crooked methods, bottle up her fleet to uselessness, drive her South Atlantic fleet to the bottom of the sea and throttle and choke German exports to an extent that great cities like Hamburg have lost the hum of their activity and outside the Baltic sea there is no stir of German commerce save in a freakish enthusiasm like that of the Deutschland. Those, however, who count the work of the Deutschland as extraordinary should remember that it is not original, since a considerable number of British submarines have crossed the Atlantic during the past year safely and surely. It is not strange that the Deutschland accomplished its feat. It is not strange that the Deutschland accomplished its feat. It will be very strange, however, if that feat is repeated by many sister submarines.

SCOFFS AT SUBMARINE MERCHANT SHIPS.

"German foreign commerce cannot be rehabilitated by the activities of submarines. Since the battle of Jutland it can be safely and surely said the seas still are controlled overwhelmingly by the British fleet. The German fleet came out and then fled to cover again after a still fight.

"But let us now take the field battle on the western front. For a whole year or more critics in the United States whose only idea of warfare was that of constant action have continuously asked why was it that Great Britain, which had recruited between three million and four million men, should be doing nothing on the western front. They complained that France was left alone at Verdun and elsewhere. They did believe that France knew she had at her disposal at any moment the British troops, which were holding their own line of front and steadily extending it. They did not remember at the beginning the British were armed on a basis of a mere handful of men; that all the machinery of equipment was upon a basis of the handful—a million or two millions—she still could not equip them because she had no factories or munitions except upon the scale of the handful.

"Men had to be recruited, fed, uniformed, equipped ;artillery had to be developed and extended all experience of the past. Rifles had to be supplied. And the one reason why there was such delay in making a move on the western front by the British was lack of equipment. The push forward at Loos was not final and effective because there were not sufficient munitions.

"But what is the condition of affairs tonight? There is enough munitions because big men have given their brains and skill to the task of organization; because the manual workers of England have roused themselves to a complete sense of duty; because they have given up trades union regulations for the period of the war; because without murmuring they have thrown up their holidays; because hundreds and thousands of women have joined the munitions works or have entered into fields of occupations once monopolized by men, such as the conduction of cars on tram lines, driving vans, working upon farms, clerking in stores, doing men's work in scores of small trades; because all England, in every corner of it, is alive to the terrible significance of the world fight and have given its best blood, mind, strength and craft to the nation's cause.

"In spite of criticism and complaint, England would not and did not move on the western front until she was ready, though she was willing to help at Verdun if needed, and said so. And she was not ready until she could demonstrate as she has done the German artillery by a greater weight of metal; until making a movement forward over the whole of her line with France moving forward on the whole of her line, they both could make good their successes mile by mile and steadily and surely diminish the capacity of resistance upon the part of Germany. This they have done.

"What is the position today? Every one of the allies has removed forward and at the same, time and every one has succeeded as he has moved. Italy, like Russia, France and elsewhere, has succeeded in her field against Austria. Germany cannot put forward her men to help Russia. Austria is harrassed by Italy and Russia. Germany is harassed and hammered by England, Russia, France and Belgium.

"There is no rest for Germany anywhere. She cannot shift her troops from front to front to smash another enemy.

"Mistakes? The allies no doubt have made mistakes, but England has made no such mistakes as have been made by Germany, all of whose plans have gone awry.

"Americans should understand that it is not alone in the field of battle that Great Britain has proved her capacity for organization. She has proved it in the civil field; she has nationalized the railways of the country and has protected the regular dividends. She secured the sugar crop of the world at the very beginning of the war, through which sugar is cheaper today in Great Britain than it is in the United States and at the same time has gone out of it a revenue of nearly thirty-four million dollars.

BRITISH ARE ORGANIZED.

"She rescued the British people from being done by meat trusts, by seizing all ships which could carry chilled meat, and having the ships she could get her meat on fair terms, and has done so—fifty thousand tons a month for Great Britain and France and 10,000 tons for Italy. She has also supplied France with steel, boots, shoes and uniforms. She has made coal mining a public military service and by act of parliament has fixed the profit of the coal mines and she supplies the British, French and Italian navies with coal.

"She has organized the purchase of wheat by a small committee which also buys and ships wheat and oats, fodder, etc., for Italy. She has bought up the fish supply of Norway and very lately bought up against German intrigue the great bulk of food exports of Holland.

"She has put on a five shilling income tax, which has been paid without protest by the mass of the British people. She has drawn upon her financial resources till she has loaned her allies and her overseats dominions 450,000,000 pounds, and she has taken as high as eighty per cent of the war profits of the great manufacturing firms.

"The organization is not ornate and spectacular, but there never was a time when all the people of the country were so occupied in national things, when so many have given themselves up without pay or reward to doing national work. Her power of organization is proved most thoroughly by the work of the ministry of munitions, which under the indefatigable Mr. Lloyd-George has increased the three government munition factories before the war to 4000 establishments with two million workers, has arranged canteens for 500,000 people and has erected to national workshops, with one case, a population of 50,000 people.

"As for manufacture—in a fortnight as many heavy shells can be made as were made in the first year of the war. Great Britain has shown her ancient skill for organization in a new and successful light."

They complained that France was left alone at Verdun and elsewhere. They did believe that France knew she had at her disposal at any moment the British troops, which were holding their own line of front and steadily extending it. They did not remember at the beginning the British were armed on a basis of a mere handful of men; that all the machinery of equipment was upon a basis of the handful—a million or two millions—she still could not equip them because she had no factories or munitions except upon the scale of the handful.

"Men had to be recruited, fed, uniformed, equipped ;artillery had to be developed and extended all experience of the past. Rifles had to be supplied. And the one reason why there was such delay in making a move on the western front by the British was lack of equipment. The push forward at Loos was not final and effective because there were not sufficient munitions.

"But what is the condition of affairs tonight? There is enough munitions because big men have given their brains and skill to the task of organization; because the manual workers of England have roused themselves to a complete sense of duty; because they have given up trades union regulations for the period of the war; because without murmuring they have thrown up their holidays; because hundreds and thousands of women have joined the munitions works or have entered into fields of occupations once monopolized by men, such as the conduction of cars on tram lines, driving vans, working upon farms, clerking in stores, doing men's work in scores of small trades; because all England, in every corner of it, is alive to the terrible significance of the world fight and have given its best blood, mind, strength and craft to the nation's cause.

"In spite of criticism and complaint, England would not and did not move on the western front until she was ready, though she was willing to help at Verdun if needed, and said so. And she was not ready until she could demonstrate as she has done the German artillery by a greater weight of metal; until making a movement forward over the whole of her line with France moving forward on the whole of her line, they both could make good their successes mile by mile and steadily and surely diminish the capacity of resistance upon the part of Germany. This they have done.

"What is the position today? Every one of the allies has removed forward and at the same, time and every one has succeeded as he has moved. Italy, like Russia, France and elsewhere, has succeeded in her field against Austria. Germany cannot put forward her men to help Russia. Austria is harrassed by Italy and Russia. Germany is harassed and hammered by England, Russia, France and Belgium.

"There is no rest for Germany anywhere. She cannot shift her troops from front to front to smash another enemy.

"Mistakes? The allies no doubt have made mistakes, but England has made no such mistakes as have been made by Germany, all of whose plans have gone awry.

"Americans should understand that it is not alone in the field of battle that Great Britain has proved her capacity for organization. She has proved it in the civil field; she has nationalized the railways of the country and has protected the regular dividends. She secured the sugar crop of the world at the very beginning of the war, through which sugar is cheaper today in Great Britain than it is in the United States and at the same time has gone out of it a revenue of nearly thirty-four million dollars.

BRITISH ARE ORGANIZED.

"She rescued the British people from being done by meat trusts, by seizing all ships which could carry chilled meat, and having the ships she could get her meat on fair terms, and has done so—fifty thousand tons a month for Great Britain and France and 10,000 tons for Italy. She has also supplied France with steel, boots, shoes and uniforms. She has made coal mining a public military service and by act of parliament has fixed the profit of the coal mines and she supplies the British, French and Italian navies with coal.

"She has organized the purchase of wheat by a small committee which also buys and ships wheat and oats, fodder, etc., for Italy. She has bought up the fish supply of Norway and very lately bought up against German intrigue the great bulk of food exports of Holland.

"She has put on a five shilling income tax, which has been paid without protest by the mass of the British people. She has drawn upon her financial resources till she has loaned her allies and her overseats dominions 450,000,000 pounds, and she has taken as high as eighty per cent of the war profits of the great manufacturing firms.

"The organization is not ornate and spectacular, but there never was a time when all the people of the country were so occupied in national things, when so many have given themselves up without pay or reward to doing national work. Her power of organization is proved most thoroughly by the work of the ministry of munitions, which under the indefatigable Mr. Lloyd-George has increased the three government munition factories before the war to 4000 establishments with two million workers, has arranged canteens for 500,000 people and has erected to national workshops, with one case, a population of 50,000 people.

"As for manufacture—in a fortnight as many heavy shells can be made as were made in the first year of the war. Great Britain has shown her ancient skill for organization in a new and successful light."

AMONG THE BOYS

News and Facts and General Round-up from Among the Boys Who Get the Orders—Patronize It Next Sunday.

One of the busiest places in Waco is Jackson's garage, at 1101 Franklin street, and the reason is easily understood when one watches the experienced workmen there. They seem to make an example out of every job they get and it seems to pay as well as bring back more business. "Anything that is worth doing is worth doing well," seems to be the Jackson garage slogan.

One of the greatest troubles autoists have is engine trouble. When the engine gets sick and the car is out of commission, one of the most painstaking workmen in Waco is J. M. Sedberry at 929 Franklin street. Mr. Sedberry has made a life-long study of the automobile and especially engines, and is entitled to the splendid patronage he is getting along this line.

And another thing about the automobile business in Waco is the fact that the dealers who have continually advertised in the Auto Section of the Waco Morning News are the dealers who have done the greatest amount of business and have more orders on their hooks. Moral: Get in the Auto Section and stay there.

Dallas wants to come into the Automobile Section of the Waco Morning News. Gentlemen, we'll file your application and let you know later. The space in the Auto Section of the News is for Waco people exclusively, and as long as they take it there will be no small town stuff in it.

"If Houston would take out the numbers they have sold to motorcycles and other numbers that are not really automobiles, Waco would have the city down where the railroads meet outclassed in number of automobiles," comes from a former Houstonian. Welcome to our circles, brother, we don't doubt the truthfulness of your statement and we are glad to see you recognize what is when you see it.

One of the busiest places of its kind in Waco is the Texas Cycle company at 211 South Sixth street. B. J. Knowles is the chief chemist at this popular resort for run down, out of tune, broken down bicycles and motorcycles and he keeps on the job every hour in the day. There is one thing about the Texas Cycle company and that is that they figure that a job worth taking money for is worth doing well, hence their business is growing.

The last week's good rains throughout Waco's trade territory means the purchase of at least 2,000 cars, within a radius of fifty miles of Waco. This is a very conservative estimate; in fact, there should be no surprise about it if more than twice this amount were sold. The car buyer of today is making a more careful investigation of what he buys than he has at any time before and he is looking to the proper medium for this information. There is not a place to which the prospective auto buyers have access to more information about cars than in the Automobile Section of the Waco Morning News. Every issue of the paper carries columns of advice and information, full particulars of the different cars, and it is an easy matter for a person to pick out just the car that suits his particular need. Keep your eye on the Automobile Section of the Waco Morning News, and before you buy a car make a thorough investigation of what you buy—you are entitled to it.

Automobile owners should take a great lot of pride in roads. McLennan county is particularly fortunate in having the best system of public roads in the Southwest. Such a happy state of affairs can only be held by a thorough co-operation of the people who use such roads. Building roads is one thing and maintaining them is another. One of the greatest things that will help keep our good roads in condition is for every autoist who travels our roads to watch out for bad places and report same. Such places can be repaired at the proper time at a much smaller expense than if they go unrepaired and get in bad shape. Besides, the wear and tear of automobiles and other vehicles, by reason of such bad places, amounts to an enormous expense during the period of a year. Help keep McLennan county roads in good condition by reporting every bad place that you find. That's community co-operation, and community co-operation makes communities grow.

The Waco Morning News has had many compliments paid it for the efforts it has put forth in developing and creating a greater interest in the automobile industry in this section of the country. We appreciate these compliments very much and we shall always strive to merit them. We started out several months ago to specialize upon an Automobile Section, and to leave nothing undone that would add to the upbuilding of it. We are always glad to print any article for the common good of the automobile public, and we appreciate very much the patronage given us from our local dealers. We figure that by making a special feature of the automobile business we can help Waco grow, make it a greater distributing point for automobiles and automobiles are no small part of the commercial world. Keep your eye on the Automobile Section; help us make it better when you can, and feel sure that any courtesies extended in co-operation with us along this line will be highly appreciated. The Waco Morning News, by reason of specializing on automobile advertising, has attracted the attention and goes regularly to more prospective automobile purchasers than any paper in Central Texas.

Mr. Foster of the Dixie Motor company made a flying business trip to Lott Friday of this week and reports very prosperous conditions existing in that section of Waco's trade territory.

A small spark will burn a big house. If you have an automobile to sell, advertise it in the Automobile Section of the Waco Morning News. It is the logical spot and it's the place what is to get results.

How I wonder what you are,
Wait, I'll come up in my car."

A man can eat beans with a knife after the fashion of the days of old, but he mighty near has to have an automobile for business purposes these days. The logical spot to buy a car is to peruse the columns of the Auto Section of the Waco Morning News.

James Herrick, one of the crack salesmen of the Herrick & McLarty Auto company, and Buick auto salesman, made a flying trip to Temple Friday of this week. Needless to say Jim brought back a couple of orders.

Layton Puckett is the proud owner of an Oakland Six since the last issue of the Waco Morning News Automobile Section.

W. R. Weaver is enjoying life in his new Oakland purchased from the Herrick & McLarty Automobile company the past week.

E. O. Keaton, manager of the accessory department, has been on the sick list for the past week but was back on the job Saturday morning.

Salesman Lazenby of the Herrick & McLarty Auto company, made a couple of successful demonstrations the past week, one was a Paige and the other an Oakland.

T. D. Humphries, manager of the Herrick & McLarty Auto company, accompanied by Mr. LaDue of the Oakland factory, made a hurry up trip to Hillsboro Thursday of this week. Mr. LaDue is very much impressed with the outlook for Oakland business in and around Waco, and is very much in love with the town and its people.

M. C. Dailey, salesman for the Herrick & McLarty Auto company, made a business trip to Italy. While there he delivered four Chevrolet cars, which means in reality four more souls made happy.

Mrs. Clara E. Allen is the proud owner of a Paige Light Six since Tuesday of the past week.

Four more cars of Chevrolets arrived the past week, together with two carloads of Oaklands which will fill some of the orders on the hook at the Herrick & McLarty Auto company.

Attorney J. W. Hale has just purchased himself a Buick Six. Bruton Orand made the sale and Mr. Hale is very much pleased with his new car.

R. C. Russell of the Herrick & McLarty Auto company, smeared the dotted line three times the past week but that's not the reason he is off on his vacation next week.

Mrs. M. L. Westbrook placed an order the past week for a Buick Six.

W. A. Phelan of the Mirror bar placed an order for a Buick Six the past week and is looking forward to the arrival of the next carload of Buicks.

Jim Crowder of the Central Texas Exchange National bank is the proud owner of a Buick Six since Wednesday of the past week.

W. H. Thomason of the Behrens Drug company was among the Buick purchasers the past week.

One of the most remarkable, and by the way, a very interesting pastime, is to watch the local stopping places four tourists through this section of the country and converse with them with reference to what they think of Waco and this section of the country. A full hundred per cent of them express a wonderful surprise at the good roads around Waco, as compared with the roads back home. They are also greatly surprised at the number of new automobiles in the town. There is no end to the good advertising the McLennan county roads have given Waco, and for this reason they should be kept in first-class condition.

C. W. Lake of the Lake Motor company, spent the week-end in Dallas on business.

In another part of the News is full partculars of the marriage of R. C. Russell, one of the crack salesmen of the Herrick & McLarty Automobile company. It is useless to say that the automobile editor wishes Mr. Russell and his beautiful young wife all the happiness, prosperity and good will on earth, and it is useless for him to say that when Mr. Russell returns from his honeymoon, the dotted line will be smeared the more oftener, that is to say, more orders for cars will be brought into the office of the Herrick & McLarty Automobile company by R. C. Russell, or who is more commonly known around the shop as "Bob." Congratulations, old boy. Every man needs a wife, and we believe that a man with a good wife can sell cars better than a man without a wife.

One of the largest local orders placed with the Spencer-Carroll company of this city was given the past week by the Hayes Tire Co. The order called for over one hundred different articles and as a result the stock of the Hayes Tire company is not only greatly replenished, but one of the most complete in central Texas. The Hayes Tire company has experienced a phenomenal growth during the past month and carries one of the most complete stocks of automobile accessories, tires, etc., to be found in this section of the state. They have just received the Miller tire agency and have a large stock of these tires on hand, all of which will be greatly appreciated by people who favor the Miller tire.

Mr. Smith, salesman for the Maxwell Automobile company, reports a splendid week's business the past week and predicts that August will bring about greater activities in the automobile line than has been here for several months.

V. M. Washam, the popular Maxwell distributor for Waco, made a flying trip to several of his local agents this past week. Mr. Washam reports crop conditions very good in the districts he visited and indicates that automobile business for the fall will be a record-breaker.

W. Eldridge and wife, accompanied by W. W. Eldridge and wife of Waverly, Ia., passed through Waco Thursday of the past week en route to Houston, Angelton and Galveston. The party was traveling in a Moxwell 25 and in their trip of 1500 miles they say that they have experienced no trouble of any kind with the exception of one puncture. They were equipped with a full camping outfit, weighing over 2900 pounds, which included tent, suit cases, bedding, cooking utensile and other things to make the trip enjoyable. The car was No. 174279, stamped Waverly, Iowa, and from this date on Mr. Eldridge and son will keep posted on the news from Waco through the columns of the Waco Morning News.

Messrs. J. S. and B. Stegall received a Buick roadster the past week and placed an order for a five-passenger Buick, to be delivered later on.

Earle A. Womble bought himself a Buick Six the past week.

Sam Sanger placed an order the past week for a Buick Six, to be delivered September 1st, upon his return from the eastern markets.

Another car load of Buick Sixes arrived Saturday and that's the reason Brown is so busy.

Dr. E. R. H. Eanes purchased the first 1917 Buick Four to be delivered to this territory. The doctor is as proud to have the car as Brown is to sell it.

(Clearfield, Penn., Cor. New York (Herald.)

With patriotism and cheeks aflame, Miss Mary Hainsey, 19 years old, and one of the city's prettiest girls, kissed 971 soldier lads belonging to the Sixth infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, when the three sections of the train on their way to the Mexican border stopped here the other day. The regiment, when it left Mt. Gretna, numbered 1,031 men; consequently 60 men, through no fault of their own, failed to get a kiss from Pennsylvania's most thoroughly kissed maiden.

Daring fate, Miss Hainsey stood on the platform of a car of the third section until the train began moving. She then jumped into the arms of Chief of Police McHenry, who saved her from injury. The engine driver had spoiled a clean score, and sixty soldiers continued on their way unkissed.

A Stranger Pays Tribute.

(San Francisco Chronicle.)

A queer little old man, with a foreign accent, visited the morgue. He wanted to see the body of the man first identified and buried as that of William Haase, later exhumed and now awaiting identification. In the presence of the dead he removed his hat reverently and gently laid a wreath of flowers upon its breast. A note fluttered to the floor. It read: "From a stranger to a stranger, with the kindliest of feeling. Declining to give his name, the little old man went away.

(San Francisco Chronicle.)

A queer little old man, with a foreign accent, visited the morgue. He wanted to see the body of the man first identified and buried as that of William Haase, later exhumed and now awaiting identification. In the presence of the dead he removed his hat reverently and gently laid a wreath of flowers upon its breast. A note fluttered to the floor. It read: "From a stranger to a stranger, with the kindliest of feeling. Declining to give his name, the little old man went away.

LICENSED MACHINES TOTAL TWENTY

Auto licenses for the week ending last night show an increase of one car over the previous week. Twenty machines received licenses, as against nineteen for the seven days ending July 22.

The Ford did not enjoy such a runaway in the matter of popularity, and while leading the other makes, was closely pressed by the Buick. Seven Fords were purchased, five Buicks, two Dodges, two Oaklands, one Dixie Flyer, one Overland, one Cadillac, one Marion.

3941—H. W. Hill, Waco, 4-cylinder, 20-horsepower Ford.
3942—W. M. A. Romans, Waco, 4-cylinder, 30-horsepower Dodge.
3943—G. A. Will, Lorena, 4-cylinder, 30-horsepower Dixie Flyer.
3944—French Bakery, Waco, 4-cylinder, 20-horsepower Ford.
3948—Sanger Bros., Waco, 4-cylinder, 20-horsepower Ford.
3949—Miss Winnie Cardine, Waco, 4-cylinder, 35-horsepower Overland.
3954—Mrs. J. D. Horan, Waco, 4-cylinder, 22-horsepower Ford.
3957—Fred Arnold, West, 4-cylinder, 20-horsepower Ford.

National Motor Co. Is One of Fastest Growing Concerns

George M. Dickson, general manager of the National Motor Vehicle company, points with pride to the herculean strides being made by the National factories during the last year, and says that this company is one of America's fastest growing automobile concerns manufacturing better-grade cars. The increase of more than 300 per cent in National car sales this year registers a phenomenal advance in the production of cars of National's price and over.

It is only because of this tremendous manufacturing capacity that the National car builders are able to produce both a six and a twelve cylinder.

It is said that only about 5 per cent of all the automobiles built in the United States annually are of National's price and over. The vast majority of cars that compose the 95 per cent being of less than National's price. In other words, it is calculated that in 1917 there will be 3,000,000 automobiles in operation in the United States, of which about 150,000 cars are known as the better-grade machines of National's price and over. The 2,850,000 others are of the lower-priced cars.

For the last several years this ratio has remained about the same, as the number of lower-priced cars increased, the number of better-grade cars increased pro rata, due to the fact that owners of lower-priced cars graduated into National's class.

In fact, George M. Dickson, general manager of the National factories, gives tremendous credit to the builders of such low-priced cars for having made possible the increased market for the better-grade cars. He says, "Hundreds of thousands of people would not invest the price of a better-grade car originally, but when they bought their lower-priced car and found it a success, it whetted their appetite and established them once and forever as car owners. From the ranks of these people have come the increase in purchases of better-grade cars. Of course, there's a certain clientele who always did and always will buy the best and most expensive cars. But this class would not create the market for the tremendous increase in better-grade cars that has come about."

"A Little Fellow With a Brick."

(From "Over There," by Zona Gale in Collier's Weekly.)

It was just a story about a little fellow with a brick. They met him, a little boy six years old, somewhere in Europe, going along up toward one of the milk stations at sunrise. They wondered why he carried a brick, and they asked him: "Why do you have the brick?" "You see," he says, "it's so wet. I can get up on this." And he stood on his brick in the mud before the milk station for five hours, waiting for his war supplies that was a pint of milk to take home to his ma.

Maybe it was queen that this struck me all of a heap when the big war I'd kind of got used to. But you can't get used to the things that hurt a child.

And then I kept thinking about Bennie. Supposing it had been Bennie with the brick? Bennie was the little boy that his young father had gone back to the old country to enlist, and Bennie hadn't any mother. So I had him.

Because I had to do something I went out on the porch and called him. He came running from his swing—his coat was too big for him and his ears stuck out, but he was an awful sweet little boy. The kind you want to have around.

"Bennie," I says, "I know little boys hate it. But could you leave me hug you?"

He kind of saw I was feeling bad—like a child can—and he came right up to me and says:

Then he run back down the path, throwing his legs out sidewise, kind of like a little calf, the way he does. And I set down on the side stoop, and I cried.

"Oh, blessed God," I says, "supposing Bennie was running round Europe with a brick, waiting five hours in the mud for milk for his ma, that he ain't got none?"

And I thought: "He ain't no different from them over there. Them little tikes, with no pas and no suppers and nothing to play with, only mebbe a brick to lug."

DODGE CAR FILM IS ONE OF WONDERMENT

Waco is soon to see "Death Valley Dodge," probably the most remarkable motion picture ever produced by an automobile manufacturer for the entertainment of patrons. The Central Motor Company has just received information from headquarters that the insistent demands throughout the country have made it necessary for Dodge Bros., manufacturers of the Dodge Bros. Motor Car, to put into the field a large number of additional films and motion picture machines. For this reason it will be possible for Mr. J. M. Nash to give the entertainment much earlier than had been anticipated. The picture is being shown now in all parts of the country.

While no effort is made to conceal the fact that it is fundamentally an "advertising picture," in the sense that it constitutes a testimonial to the wonderful stability of the Dodge Bros. car, it is true also that thousands of persons have found the "advertising" so intensely gripping that they have stood on sidewalks and in the middle of the street, in some of the larger cities, watching eagerly until the end.

The keen interest is due to the fact that it is a real show, full of merit. The two reels portray the bleak desolation of the "valley of death," the automobile's terrific battles with the sands and boulders, and the grandeur of the cliffs and mountains that formed giant barriers in the path across the desert. It is a picture of genuine merit when considered from the artistic viewpoint, and a revelation almost unbelievable to the engineer. The trip across Death Valley was made by O. K. Parker of Los Angeles. He wanted to see if it could be done; he wanted the motion pictures, and he wanted to see if the Dodge Bros. car could do it. In each of the three he was vastly successful. The car used was selected at random from the stock of the Los Angeles dealer. It is no different from any other car turned out by Dodge Bros. And it made the complete trip through Death Valley and back again without a mechanical break.

Since then it has performed an even more remarkable feat, having descended to the bottom of Grand Canyon, heretofore regarded almost as an impossibility.

Death Valley Dodge Will Be Shown in Waco Tomorrow

Back in '49, great caravans of men and horses trudged wearily over vast desert lands, bound for California, the land of gold. Many men died on the way, and the trails were littered with the bodies of horses. A few months ago there was another "gold rush." This time the motor car was brought into play by the eager fortune hunters. Among them was the "Death Valley Dodge," which, a few weeks before, had made itself famous the world over by crossing Death Valley, a feat which is to be portrayed in motion pictures to be shown in this city Monday, by the Central Motor company, the Dodge Brothers dealer.

The new mining camp was at Goldstone, north of Barstow, Cal., and a big fleet of cars of every description "hit the trail." The "Death Valley Dodge," however, beat them all. O. K. Parker, the man who drove across Death Valley, was at the wheel. He not only outdistanced other cars on the road, but frequently made short cuts through open fields and through mountainous districts which the others dared not tackle. With a final burst of speed he rushed over Blue Gren Summit, near Pilot Knob, far ahead of all competitors.

As a result, Mr. Parker returned with a sackful of free milling gold ore, richly sparkling with nuggets. Also he obtained the three best claims in a district that promises to be one of the most fertile in the mining field.

The car in which Mr. Parker made the trip, crossed Death Valley and other western deserts, and in which he recently drove to the bottom of Grand Canyon, will be seen in the free motion picture performance coming here tomorrow and tomorrow night.

Film Depicture of Dodge's Trail Across Desert Here Monday

It has been decided definitely that the "Death Valley Dodge" motion pictures will be shown in Waco. Word has been received by the Central Motor company, Dodge Brothers local dealer, that the film has been allotted to him for them, when it will be shown at the Hippodrome tomorrow and tomorrow night. The coming of this production insures for them an opportunity to see the "unbelievable" in motoring. No one could imagine that the Death Valley Dodge's feats were possible unless they were enacted before his eyes. The film provided by Dodge Brothers for the benefit of their dealers, patrons and the public in general leaves no opportunity for imagination. Nothing more could be dreamed of a car. It crosses an expanse of desert area on which many an explorer has gone to death. Sands, rocks and rivers form no barrier. Mountains are made mere mole hills.

The scenery throughout is in turn awe-inspiring and magnificent. Critics have termed it one of the most remarkable pictures yet produced. The fact that all these obstacles were surmounted by an ordinary stock car selected from the salesroom of the Los Angeles dealer, bespeaks the quality of Dodge Brothers car.

"The picture must be exceptionally vivid and convincing," said Mr. Nash, "or the company would not expend an enormous sum to produce it before the entire country and even in cities in other nations."

I want to thank my friends for their loyalty and support in my race for county treasurer, and for those who supported my opponents I have not the least censure or resentment. I also want to say that I will be a candidate for county treasurer two years hence.

Respectfully,

The Reward of Consistency—

In all branches of business and industry the big successes have been won by the firms and individuals who settled upon the right principles and then stuck to them.

The valve-in-Head principle has been rigidly adhered to from the start by the Buick Motor Co. It is the reason for the Buick's great success. It is the reason for the present overwhelming demand for Buick cars.

The Buick Motor Co. first made sure that the Valve-in-Head motor principle was right. Then they stuck to it. They were sure they were right because all the laws of common sense and engineering science told them so. And they stuck to it because the ever-increasing encouragement from the public enabled them to do so.

The public is always right in the long run. Surely and also swiftly the people have found out the superior power, flexibility and economy of Buick Valve-in-Head motors.

The measure of the "swiftness" with which they have found out is revealed in the present overwhelming demand for Buick Valve-in-Head motor cars. It is a demand that is country-wide, and which climbs in an ever-increasing tidal wave. At no time since the announcement was first made, over a year ago, have we been able to supply the great demand for these wonderful cars. The 1917 models are now being delivered. Place your order now, or you will be disappointed.

GOOD BALANCE PRIME FACTOR IN CAR DESIGN

In reviewing the progress that has been made in automobile designing, the results secured by engineers in the direction of proper balance deserve a big share of attention.

When the motor car industry was in its earlier stages, not much consideration was paid to the problem of good balance. There was often a difference of many hundreds of pounds between the amount of weight that was carried by the rear and front wheels. Automobile engineers generally were of an opinion that it was impossible to get cars to the point where the front and rear constructions would be practically evenly balanced.

By reason of long study and experimenting, Studebaker engineers have developed Studebaker cars to the point where the present day models show almost perfect balance. Specifically, there is only fifty pounds difference in the weight that is carried by the front and rear wheels. Considering the weight of the cars, that is almost a negligible amount.

The reason why good balance was sought for and secured was to give the car safety on the open road at high speeds by preventing it from bouncing and swaying about. Then, too, it was appreciated that even balance of the front and rear construction would prevent uneven wear on the tires, and would reduce tire expense.

In the earlier days only the heaviest of cars could be depended upon to hold the road at fast speeds. Weighing 5,000 pounds or more, their mere avoirdupois was responsible for their steady riding. By reason of good balance, Studebaker engineers have adopted lighter, stronger and better steels in their product and at the same time have secured far better roadability than the bulky machines of days gone by boasted of.

Lighter weight has been secured in the present Studebaker models, but its advantages would be lost were it not for the factor of good balance that keeps the cars close to the road, however rough the highway may be.

Studebaker Notes.

With a trailer containing 1,714 pounds of baggage hitched on behind his Studebaker Four touring car, A. M. Lull has just completed a trip from Los Angeles, Cal., to his home in Portland, Ore. This unique tour stands as the longest on record to be made by an automobile equipped with a trailer.

LACK OF HORSES WILL HELP AUTOMOBILE TRADE

Estimates of exports of horses and mules from the United States up to July 1, 1916, based on the statistics up to and including March 1, 1916, show that nearly 1,000,000 draft animals have been shipped abroad for use in the war. About 700,000 of these were horses and the rest mules. As the total stock of draft animals in the United States in 1914 was calculated at 20,000,000, the export of 1,000,000 animals constitutes a serious problem for the United States government. It is the general opinion that this combination of factors—scarcity and high price of animals, and plentiude and low price of motor cars—will redound to the advantage of the latter, and there seems every indication of large purchases to be made by the United States army authorities for use in the border campaign now going on.

The demand from abroad for horseflesh has had the inevitable effect of raising prices, and the average price of the horses exported since the war started is $212 compared with $149 in the 1914 fiscal year, $138 in 1913 and $137 in 1912. The average price of the mules shipped abroad similarly has been $200 against $141 in 1914, $154 in 1913 and $149 in 1912.

This rise in prices and the increasing difficulty of getting animals in quantity, coupled with the growing governmental and private appreciation of the merits of the motor truck, is expected to cause large increases in truck sales.

TEXAS GIRLS OUTDO MOTHERS.

(Houston Post.)

For months they have been learning to can things their mothers had been throwing away. They got so expert at the new job that many of them are now advertising in the local papers to do canning and preserving for such patrons as they may secure.

The canning club girls are good business women, too. They know just how to go about making a success of their new work, and they are setting an example in their preparedness campaign that their fathers will do well to copy.

In the first place, they go in together and buy their materials at wholesale prices. Many a club has purchased an entire carload of tin cans. The glass jars and the rubber bands and the sugar are bought in big lots. They have managed to save many dollars in this way. In fact, their saving has enabled them to make prices on canning and preserving which appears to be less than cost to the housewife.

FORD OWNERS: Save a Third of Your Maintenance Cost!

The One You Will Eventually Buy

NO REBOUND
NO TOSSING
NO SIDE SWAY
EASY STEERING
SAFE DRIVING

The jolts and jars of driving on rough roads are hard on your tires and hard on your car throughout. It is the continual strain due to repeated jerks, rebounds and sidesway that in any make of car will gradually loosen a part here and another there and cause friction and wear. Eliminate the rough riding, make your Ford ride smoothly, and you will save considerable of your maintenance cost. You can do this by equipping with the

Hassler Shock Absorber

Actual records of thousands of cars so equipped show that their owners' maintenance cost is fully a third less than when their cars were running without HASSLER SHOCK ABSORBERS.

The HASSLER SHOCK ABSORBER is unique in that it not only provides easy, gentle downward motion in connection with the leaf springs, but also prevents the sharp rebound.

HASSLER SHOCK ABSORBERS cost very little and can be applied without special tools. They are sold on ten days' trial and are guaranteed absolutely for a year. 100,000 in use.

Among them was the "Death Valley Dodge," which, a few weeks before, had made itself famous the world over by crossing Death Valley, a feat which is to be portrayed in motion pictures to be shown in this city Monday, by the Central Motor company, the Dodge Brothers dealer.

The new mining camp was at Goldstone, north of Barstow, Cal., and a big fleet of cars of every description "hit the trail." The "Death Valley Dodge," however, beat them all. O. K. Parker, the man who drove across Death Valley, was at the wheel. He not only outdistanced other cars on the road, but frequently made short cuts through open fields and through mountainous districts which the others dared not tackle. With a final burst of speed he rushed over Blue Gren Summit, near Pilot Knob, far ahead of all competitors.

As a result, Mr. Parker returned with a sackful of free milling gold ore, richly sparkling with nuggets. Also he obtained the three best claims in a district that promises to be one of the most fertile in the mining field.

The car in which Mr. Parker made the trip, crossed Death Valley and other western deserts, and in which he recently drove to the bottom of Grand Canyon, will be seen in the free motion picture performance coming here tomorrow and tomorrow night.

Film Depicture of Dodge's Trail Across Desert Here Monday

It has been decided definitely that the "Death Valley Dodge" motion pictures will be shown in Waco. Word has been received by the Central Motor company, Dodge Brothers local dealer, that the film has been allotted to him for them, when it will be shown at the Hippodrome tomorrow and tomorrow night. The coming of this production insures for them an opportunity to see the "unbelievable" in motoring. No one could imagine that the Death Valley Dodge's feats were possible unless they were enacted before his eyes. The film provided by Dodge Brothers for the benefit of their dealers, patrons and the public in general leaves no opportunity for imagination. Nothing more could be dreamed of a car. It crosses an expanse of desert area on which many an explorer has gone to death. Sands, rocks and rivers form no barrier. Mountains are made mere mole hills.

The scenery throughout is in turn awe-inspiring and magnificent. Critics have termed it one of the most remarkable pictures yet produced. The fact that all these obstacles were surmounted by an ordinary stock car selected from the salesroom of the Los Angeles dealer, bespeaks the quality of Dodge Brothers car.

"The picture must be exceptionally vivid and convincing," said Mr. Nash, "or the company would not expend an enormous sum to produce it before the entire country and even in cities in other nations."

I want to thank my friends for their loyalty and support in my race for county treasurer, and for those who supported my opponents I have not the least censure or resentment. I also want to say that I will be a candidate for county treasurer two years hence.

Respectfully,

The Reward of Consistency—

In all branches of business and industry the big successes have been won by the firms and individuals who settled upon the right principles and then stuck to them.

The valve-in-Head principle has been rigidly adhered to from the start by the Buick Motor Co. It is the reason for the Buick's great success. It is the reason for the present overwhelming demand for Buick cars.

The Buick Motor Co. first made sure that the Valve-in-Head motor principle was right. Then they stuck to it. They were sure they were right because all the laws of common sense and engineering science told them so. And they stuck to it because the ever-increasing encouragement from the public enabled them to do so.

The public is always right in the long run. Surely and also swiftly the people have found out the superior power, flexibility and economy of Buick Valve-in-Head motors.

The measure of the "swiftness" with which they have found out is revealed in the present overwhelming demand for Buick Valve-in-Head motor cars. It is a demand that is country-wide, and which climbs in an ever-increasing tidal wave. At no time since the announcement was first made, over a year ago, have we been able to supply the great demand for these wonderful cars. The 1917 models are now being delivered. Place your order now, or you will be disappointed.

Five-passenger D-6-45 touring car, $1020.00. D-6-44 roadster, $985.00. The new Buick 4-cylinder, 35 horsepower, 5-passenger touring car, $665.00. Roadster, $650.00. It will be to your interest to investigate these cars before buying elsewhere.

In reviewing the progress that has been made in automobile designing, the results secured by engineers in the direction of proper balance deserve a big share of attention.

When the motor car industry was in its earlier stages, not much consideration was paid to the problem of good balance. There was often a difference of many hundreds of pounds between the amount of weight that was carried by the rear and front wheels. Automobile engineers generally were of an opinion that it was impossible to get cars to the point where the front and rear constructions would be practically evenly balanced.

By reason of long study and experimenting, Studebaker engineers have developed Studebaker cars to the point where the present day models show almost perfect balance. Specifically, there is only fifty pounds difference in the weight that is carried by the front and rear wheels. Considering the weight of the cars, that is almost a negligible amount.

The reason why good balance was sought for and secured was to give the car safety on the open road at high speeds by preventing it from bouncing and swaying about. Then, too, it was appreciated that even balance of the front and rear construction would prevent uneven wear on the tires, and would reduce tire expense.

In the earlier days only the heaviest of cars could be depended upon to hold the road at fast speeds. Weighing 5,000 pounds or more, their mere avoirdupois was responsible for their steady riding. By reason of good balance, Studebaker engineers have adopted lighter, stronger and better steels in their product and at the same time have secured far better roadability than the bulky machines of days gone by boasted of.

Lighter weight has been secured in the present Studebaker models, but its advantages would be lost were it not for the factor of good balance that keeps the cars close to the road, however rough the highway may be.

Studebaker Notes.

With a trailer containing 1,714 pounds of baggage hitched on behind his Studebaker Four touring car, A. M. Lull has just completed a trip from Los Angeles, Cal., to his home in Portland, Ore. This unique tour stands as the longest on record to be made by an automobile equipped with a trailer.

LACK OF HORSES WILL HELP AUTOMOBILE TRADE

Estimates of exports of horses and mules from the United States up to July 1, 1916, based on the statistics up to and including March 1, 1916, show that nearly 1,000,000 draft animals have been shipped abroad for use in the war. About 700,000 of these were horses and the rest mules. As the total stock of draft animals in the United States in 1914 was calculated at 20,000,000, the export of 1,000,000 animals constitutes a serious problem for the United States government. It is the general opinion that this combination of factors—scarcity and high price of animals, and plentitude and low price of motor cars—will redound to the advantage of the latter, and there seems every indication of large purchases to be made by the United States army authorities for use in the border campaign now going on.

The demand from abroad for horseflesh has had the inevitable effect of raising prices, and the average price of the horses exported since the war started is $212 compared with $149 in the 1914 fiscal year, $138 in 1913 and $137 in 1912. The average price of the mules shipped abroad similarly has been $200 against $141 in 1914, $154 in 1913 and $149 in 1912.

This rise in prices and the increasing difficulty of getting animals in quantity, coupled with the growing governmental and private appreciation of the merits of the motor truck, is expected to cause large increases in truck sales.

The jolts and jars of driving on rough roads are hard on your tires and hard on your car throughout. It is the continual strain due to repeated jerks, rebounds and sidesway that in any make of car will gradually loosen a part here and another there and cause friction and wear. Eliminate the rough riding, make your Ford ride smoothly, and you will save considerable of your maintenance cost. You can do this by equipping with the Actual records of thousands of cars so equipped show that their owners' maintenance cost is fully a third less than when their cars were running without HASSLER SHOCK ABSORBERS.

The HASSLER SHOCK ABSORBER is unique in that it not only provides easy, gentle downward motion in connection with the leaf springs, but also prevents the sharp rebound.

HASSLER SHOCK ABSORBERS cost very little and can be applied without special tools. They are sold on ten days' trial and are guaranteed absolutely for a year. 100,000 in use.

DODGE CAR PLOUGHES THROUGH ARID WASTE

CAR FORCED ACROSS DUNES

Indomitable Dodge Literally Ploughed Its Way Through Miles and Miles of High Sand.

In spite of Bush's long experience in western driving his car was stuck repeatedly, its wheels buried to the hubs in the yellow powder sand of the great dunes, and finally as they were in the middle of the dunes something in the mechanism of the car gave way and the trip was off as far as the motor car was concerned. Bush was so exhausted that he could go no farther and it was up to the chauffeur to go for help. This he volunteered to do, though it was thirty-two miles to Rhyolite and no water for over half that distance on the fierce climb from below sea level to 4,337 feet elevation at the head of Boundary Canyon in the Funeral Range mountains. This terrific climb was through soft powder sand, over a man's shoe top, with occasional stretches of malapai boulders where often he had to get down on his hands and knees and literally crawl. The chauffeur had no recollection of the last few miles of his fight toward Rhyolite. They found him near Hole-In-the-Rock, a little trickling spring making its way out of the side of the canyon within a thousand feet of where he dropped. When they had revived the chauffeur enough to learn his story he was determined, in spite of his badly swollen tongue and rising fever, resulting from his terrible experience, to go back to Pete. This the rescue party would not permit but leaving one of their members to care for the boy they hurried on down the canyon hoping against hope that they would find Bush alive. In the midst of the sand dunes they found the car nearly to the hubs in the sand, with the dead body of Pete under the car where he had crawled to find shelter from the fierce rays of the sun.

Having heard the story of Bush, Engineer Parker concluded that there was no rougher spot for his test. It was Death Valley then for him in this demonstration, in spite of the fact that no one had had the temerity to attempt the crossing of Death Valley since Bush lost his life the year before.

"Death Valley, as you know," said Mr. Parker, "is a great trough in the earth's surface, the lowest point below sea level, and to be reached from the east or west only by crossing the Panamint mountains of the Funeral Range. The Panamints tower to a height of over 11,000 feet and the lowest summit in this range is near the mining camp of Skidoo, 5,259 feet above sea level. From this nearly mile high climb the only way to get down into the valley with a motor car is to force one's way over great masses of storm-tossed boulders that have accumulated in the torrential downpours that sweep that region, leaving these boulders in masses often piled fifty feet in height. The drop from a mile above sea level to 149 feet below is made in a distance of fourteen miles. In spite of this down grade it is a terrible strain on the car, for it is warped from end to end a thousand times in making the descent from the summit of the pass to the floor of the valley.

"I found the conditions even worse than I had imagined from the story that Judge Turner had told me about Bush's experience. Just before we attempted the trip that region had been swept with a terrific windstorm that piled the sand in great drifts even across the flat on the west side of the valley, which was reported as being a level waste four miles in width. In the dunes the sand was as soft as though you had taken it in your hands and let it trickle along until it piled up like waves from ten to fifty feet in height. There was no way to cross the valley except to force the car through and over these dunes. 'Death Valley Dodge' only stopped once in the sand and that at a windblown stretch where the sand was sufficiently compact so that we could start without difficulty. Here we took the sand dune picture that accompanies this article and which I believe is the only one that has ever been taken on the floor of Death Valley.

"After crossing the valley our car climbed Boundary Canyon to an elevation of 4,337 feet at the summit of the Funeral Range. There was no sign of a road in Boundary Canyon, the entire sixteen-mile climb being through fine sand interspersed with malapai boulders. We reached the summit without mishap and were welcomed at Rhyolite as being the most fortunate of men to win through the terrors of that dreaded region.

"From Rhyolite we continued on south to Las Vegas and Searchlight, Nevada, then to Needles, California, and back over the National Old Trails through the Mojave Desert to Barstow, then to San Bernardino and Los Angeles.

"The total distance of the trip was 957 miles, made in exactly seven days. We had no mechanical trouble of any kind and only one puncture, and that while passing through the town of Searchlight. Our report to Mr. Arnold was that we did not believe any man could take a Dodge Brothers motor car and break it up so long as it remained on its wheels. If our Dodge Brothers motor car had not been dependable it would have been left as Bush's car was—a wreck in the dunes, soon to be covered with drifting sand and some day perhaps to be again revealed to recall the fate of one daring motor car party that had attempted to make the terrific drive but without the success accomplished with 'Death Valley Dodge.'"

Film of Death Valley Dodge Car Will Be Shown Here

Through the efforts of the Central Motor Company, Dodge Brothers dealer in this city, Waco people may have an opportunity to see the much-talked about "Death Valley Dodge" motion pictures. The film shows the famous car in the most perilous portions of its trip through "the Valley of Death," the desert on which many men have lost their live and which had not been crossed in a motor car before the feat was accomplished by O. K. Parker of Los Angeles.

The motion pictures, taken by Mr. Parker and the man who accompanied him, are being distributed throughout the country by Dodge Brothers. Mr. J. M. Nash, realizing the possibilities they offered as a means of entertainment, was among the first to apply for the privilege of showing them. Since then the demands from other dealers have been enormous, but the pictures made such a big impression in the larger cities, where they were first released, that dealers there are still giving nightly performances. Owing to this fact the factory has put out a large additional supply of films and machines and J. M. Nash yesterday received assurance that he will be assigned a date immediately, unless some unforeseen development disarranges present plans. If obtained for this city, the motion picture will be shown either at one of the theaters, or at Mr. Nash's salesroom at Waco.

"The fish resent that because it is against nature," Mr. Bridges asserts. "They decide they are not being treated right and stay away."

MAXWELL PRESIDENT IS FOR AUTO TOURING WEEK

SAYS WIDESPREAD PUBLICITY IS BEING GIVEN THE IDEA OF TOURING WEEK.

"Walter E. Flanders, president and general manager of the Maxwell Motor company, Inc., of Detroit, has endorsed the movement for a national automobile touring week, August 6 to August 12. Manufacturers of automobiles and accessories are co-operating to make this event such a success that it will be a pleasurable annual festivity and Mr. Flanders looks on it as a healthy sign of the public's growing interest in motor touring. The automobile editors all over the country are giving the movement their support and the result is widespread publicity of keen interest to motorists," says V. M. Washam, local distributor.

There is no doubt but that the motorist who uses his car for touring gets the maximum out of it from the standpoint of health and enjoyment. Moreover, it brings a more intimate knowledge of the country traveled. The automobilist will find beauty spots he didn't know existed within a brief ride of his home.

"This is a movement that deserves the unqualified support of motor car manufacturers and all others interested in the trade," said Mr. Flanders. "I believe it makes for a more cordial relationship between the manufacturers and the public. Besides, the benefit to the industry is obvious. It will instill a larger desire for motor cars in the minds of those who do not own them and it will create that demand at an ideal time for the motorist.

"This is the natural time of the year to buy a car. August, September and October are by far the most enjoyable motoring months of the year. The roads are in the best possible condition and the weather ideal for touring.

"It is certainly appropriate that a brief session be set aside as a fitting testimonial of appreciation for what the automobile has done to add comfort and enjoyment to the daily life of millions.

"It will be primarily the week of the motor car owners, during which time their thoughts will be especially directed to the great boon the automobile has given them. If the plans of the promoters carry out every country road will swarm with tourists during 'Touring Week.' Now is the time to get the old car ready or buy a new one, if you intend to take part."

tI isn't the weather that is hot so much as it is the way you live that is hot. There are hot livers and cool livers pretty much the year around. If you know the art of hot weather housekeeping you can get along very comfortably. Do you realize, for instance, the difference it makes when things just look cool? Take the cloth off the dining table and see if it doesn't look cooler. Take the roast off and put a green salad in its place and see if it doesn't look cooler yet. There is coolness in summer furniture, too. Put away the heavy library table and substitute something in light wicker and see hiw the temperature of the room drops. Upholstered chairs should go, too, and light, hard surfaced ones be put in their place. Roll up the heavy rugs. You can have straw or grass matting if you like, but a bare polished floor is the coolest. Window draperies and all hangings should come down, and even pictures that are heavily framed should be removed. Everything suggestive of heaviness or stuffiness should be banished. This includes all manner of cushions and the cats that usually may be found sleeping on them. And if you are so unfortunate as to have anything like a plush piano stool in the room or a plush album, fire them first of all.

If you do these things right you can make the living room look as cool as the lounging deck of a ship. Of course, the room must be darkened during the day. Keep the sun out. Keep even the sun-heated air out. You can do that by closing the windows and lowering the curtains, and the awnings, too, if you have them. Don't be afraid that you will make the room hot by closing the windows. The cool air is inside during the day.

"RUSSIA WILL FIGHT BRITAIN."

The Baltic is like the Black sea, a double locked area, controlled by inner and outer doors, the one at the Dardanelles and Gibraltar, the other at the Danish Straits and the English Channel. Curiously enough, it is the same great power (Russia) in either case that is thus doubly locked in, and to complete the analogy, the same great power (England) in each case holds the outer key.

Is it possible to contemplate such a situation and not see in it the possibility, almost the guarantee, of trouble? In one respect there is an important difference. The inner door, though held in each case by comparatively weak powers, is really controlled in the north by the foremost of continental powers. Whoever would force the Danish Straits must reckon with Germany, a power which, though not actually adjacent, is vitally interested and in a position of full control. Germany's recent determination, however, to make Constantinople her objective, completes the analogy between the two situations.

Russia, in either case, is locked behind double doors. In each case the inner door is held by a feeble power backed by Germany. In each case the outer door is held by Britain. That is the reason why Russia is fighting Germany now, and the reason why she will be fighting Britain later.

There was no sign of a road in Boundary Canyon, the entire sixteen-mile climb being through fine sand interspersed with malapai boulders. We reached the summit without mishap and were welcomed at Rhyolite as being the most fortunate of men to win through the terrors of that dreaded region.

"From Rhyolite we continued on south to Las Vegas and Searchlight, Nevada, then to Needles, California, and back over the National Old Trails through the Mojave Desert to Barstow, then to San Bernardino and Los Angeles.

"The total distance of the trip was 957 miles, made in exactly seven days. We had no mechanical trouble of any kind and only one puncture, and that while passing through the town of Searchlight. Our report to Mr. Arnold was that we did not believe any man could take a Dodge Brothers motor car and break it up so long as it remained on its wheels. If our Dodge Brothers motor car had not been dependable it would have been left as Bush's car was—a wreck in the dunes, soon to be covered with drifting sand and some day perhaps to be again revealed to recall the fate of one daring motor car party that had attempted to make the terrific drive but without the success accomplished with 'Death Valley Dodge.'"

What a Maxwell Will Do for You

A Maxwell may win you a bride. Its beauty and luxury will appeal to her. Any bride will smile sweeter if the groom owns this car.

Mother approves the purchase because she knows it means health and happiness for all the family.

"Dad"—who pays the bill—smiles as he pays it. He knows he got full value received when he bought the 1917 Maxwell.

MAXWELL PRESIDENT IS FOR AUTO TOURING WEEK

SAYS WIDESPREAD PUBLICITY IS BEING GIVEN THE IDEA OF TOURING WEEK.

"Walter E. Flanders, president and general manager of the Maxwell Motor company, Inc., of Detroit, has endorsed the movement for a national automobile touring week, August 6 to August 12. Manufacturers of automobiles and accessories are co-operating to make this event such a success that it will be a pleasurable annual festivity and Mr. Flanders looks on it as a healthy sign of the public's growing interest in motor touring. The automobile editors all over the country are giving the movement their support and the result is widespread publicity of keen interest to motorists," says V. M. Washam, local distributor.

There is no doubt but that the motorist who uses his car for touring gets the maximum out of it from the standpoint of health and enjoyment. Moreover, it brings a more intimate knowledge of the country traveled. The automobilist will find beauty spots he didn't know existed within a brief ride of his home.

"This is a movement that deserves the unqualified support of motor car manufacturers and all others interested in the trade," said Mr. Flanders. "I believe it makes for a more cordial relationship between the manufacturers and the public. Besides, the benefit to the industry is obvious. It will instill a larger desire for motor cars in the minds of those who do not own them and it will create that demand at an ideal time for the motorist.

"This is the natural time of the year to buy a car. August, September and October are by far the most enjoyable motoring months of the year. The roads are in the best possible condition and the weather ideal for touring.

"It is certainly appropriate that a brief session be set aside as a fitting testimonial of appreciation for what the automobile has done to add comfort and enjoyment to the daily life of millions.

"It will be primarily the week of the motor car owners, during which time their thoughts will be especially directed to the great boon the automobile has given them. If the plans of the promoters carry out every country road will swarm with tourists during 'Touring Week.' Now is the time to get the old car ready or buy a new one, if you intend to take part."

Beating the Thermometer.

tI isn't the weather that is hot so much as it is the way you live that is hot. There are hot livers and cool livers pretty much the year around. If you know the art of hot weather housekeeping you can get along very comfortably. Do you realize, for instance, the difference it makes when things just look cool? Take the cloth off the dining table and see if it doesn't look cooler. Take the roast off and put a green salad in its place and see if it doesn't look cooler yet. There is coolness in summer furniture, too. Put away the heavy library table and substitute something in light wicker and see hiw the temperature of the room drops. Upholstered chairs should go, too, and light, hard surfaced ones be put in their place. Roll up the heavy rugs. You can have straw or grass matting if you like, but a bare polished floor is the coolest. Window draperies and all hangings should come down, and even pictures that are heavily framed should be removed. Everything suggestive of heaviness or stuffiness should be banished. This includes all manner of cushions and the cats that usually may be found sleeping on them. And if you are so unfortunate as to have anything like a plush piano stool in the room or a plush album, fire them first of all.

If you do these things right you can make the living room look as cool as the lounging deck of a ship. Of course, the room must be darkened during the day. Keep the sun out. Keep even the sun-heated air out. You can do that by closing the windows and lowering the curtains, and the awnings, too, if you have them. Don't be afraid that you will make the room hot by closing the windows. The cool air is inside during the day.

(Kansas City Star.)

Don't tolerate flies.

Don't allow them on your premises.

Don't allow garbage ,rubbish or manure to accumulate on your lot or near it.

Dont' allow dirt in your house. Look in the corners, behind the doors and furniture, under stairs and beds. Remove the cuspidors. In brief, keep the house clean.

The Baltic is like the Black sea, a double locked area, controlled by inner and outer doors, the one at the Dardanelles and Gibraltar, the other at the Danish Straits and the English Channel. Curiosly enough, it is the same great power (Russia) in either case that is thus doubly locked in, and to complete the analogy, the same great power (England) in each case holds the outer key.

Is it possible to contemplate such a situation and not see in it the possibility, almost the guarantee, of trouble? In one respect there is an important difference. The inner door, though held in each case by comparatively weak powers, is really controlled in the north by the foremost of continental powers. Whoever would force the Danish Straits must reckon with Germany, a power which, though not actually adjacent, is vitally interested and in a position of full control. Germany's recent determination, however, to make Constantinople her objective, completes the analogy between the two situations.

Russia, in either case, is locked behind double doors. In each case the inner door is held by a feeble power backed by Germany. In each case the outer door is held by Britain. That is the reason why Russia is fighting Germany now, and the reason why she will be fighting Britain later.

Through the efforts of the Central Motor Company, Dodge Brothers dealer in this city, Waco people may have an opportunity to see the much-talked about "Death Valley Dodge" motion pictures. The film shows the famous car in the most perilous portions of its trip through "the Valley of Death," the desert on which many men have lost their live and which had not been crossed in a motor car before the feat was accomplished by O. K. Parker of Los Angeles.

The motion pictures, taken by Mr. Parker and the man who accompanied him, are being distributed throughout the country by Dodge Brothers. Mr. J. M. Nash, realizing the possibilities they offered as a means of entertainment, was among the first to apply for the privilege of showing them. Since then the demands from other dealers have been enormous, but the pictures made such a big impression in the larger cities, where they were first released, that dealers there are still giving nightly performances. Owing to this fact the factory has put out a large additional supply of films and machines and J. M. Nash yesterday received assurance that he will be assigned a date immediately, unless some unforeseen development disarranges present plans. If obtained for this city, the motion picture will be shown either at one of the theaters, or at Mr. Nash's salesroom at Waco.

Says Fish Can Talk.

(New York World.)

Stephen Decatur Bridges, of Verona, near Bangor, who is known as the salmon and alewife king of the Penobscot, is positive not only that fish have brains, but that fish reason and form dislikes and tells their opinions to each other.

Bridges explains the disappearance of salmon from the Penobscot in two ways—either "salmon tell other salmon how dirty its waters are and how it is not fit for any respectable salmon to live in," or the fish resent it because at the hatchery in East Orland they are taken from the water and stripped of their eggs."

"The fish resent that because it is against nature," Mr. Bridges asserts. "They decide they are not being treated right and stay away."

GOODYEAR PEOPLE ARE STRESSING INNER TUBE

MUCH OF PLEASURE OF MOTORING DEPENDS UPON SERVICE THE TIRES GIVE.

Goodyear Has Constructed a Special Heavy Tourist Tube for Long Distances.

One of the important features of tire equipment that the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, is emphasizing at this season of the year when thousands of enthusiastic motorists have heard the call to wander awheel and discover the beauty spots hidden in the woodlands of their dreams, is the inner tube.

There is much of the nomad in human nature which finds its expression when motorists can spend their vacations in their cars and flit where fancy beckons them. The satisfaction of such a pilgrimage depends largely upon the run of the car and especially upon the tire and tube equipment. Such a tour demands inner tubes that can defy the unusual and overcome the abnormal—stout and sturdy tubes that will bear the brunt on cars which must render hard and heroic service.

So Goodyear has constructed Heavy Tourist Tubes, that tourists may derive from their vacation jaunts a-wheel the full measure of satisfaction that comes from knowing "the tubes are all right." These thick and sturdy Heavy Tourist Tubes are built for extra service, and are made thickest on the rim side, where rim rust and pinching must be resisted.

By using the laminated process, that is, building them up layer on layer, of pure gum, many former tube troubles have been overcome, and extra tube strength insured for cars which travel at high speeds and take long tours.

Every detail that would add to strength has been emphasized in their construction—for instance, in the splendid protection furnished by the vulcanized tube patch, the valve being vulcanized into the tube, becoming an integral part of it.

These Heavy Tourist Tubes may be used in any tire, better still in a Goodyear, and best of all in sturdy Goodyear Cord Tires.

"The fittest survive! Neither men nor machines, if they are unfit, can long withstand the crushing strain of an exacting existence," says W. E. Brown, manager Herrick Hardware auto department.

"Buick Valve-in-Head motor cars are built on principles that were established when the motor car industry started, and that these cars have survived without change in their fundamentals is convincing proof that they are constructed on basic principles that are correct.

"In the making of Buicks there has been no yearly shifting from one set of engineering and manufacturing principles to an entirely different set. The Buick Valve-in-Head principle was right in the beginning, and it has been right ever since. Each passing hour finds this great principle more firmly and securely established in the estimation of the motoring public.

"The Valve-in-Head principle is the great reason for the survival of Buick motor cars. If this principle had not been correct, Buick, too, would have found it necessary to jump from one kind of motor to another in a ceaseless effort to find something that would stand the grilling work a motor car is called upon to do.

"The Buick has survived every test that a quarter of a million users could devise in the most exacting conditions of worldwide service. There could be no better proof that the Buick is the fittest among motor cars."

Firestone Tire Co. Employes Enjoyed Great Outing

Yesterday the big event of the year in the eyes of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company employes was held at Silver Lake park, near Akron, Ohio. Their annual picnic took place, and elaborate preparations were made to keep it in harmony with the immense growth of the company during the last year.

In the morning there were special cars to carry the picnickers to the lake. The activities of the morning included a soccer football game and baseball game between department teams. At noon the time-honored custom of the "family basket" idea was recognized with all due formality. From then on there was one continuous round of sports and wholesome fun until time for departure.

There was a spectacular and gorgeous display of fireworks in the evening, planned by pyrotechnic experts. Set-pieces of enormous size were included. This took place on the island in the center of the lake, and the effect produced proved a sight worth while. During the course of the day and evening at least 25,000 people, composed of Firestoneites and their families, were in attendance.

Champion Bullfrog Catcher

No one had been speaking of bullfrogs, but that didn't make the slightest difference to E. Stansbury, owner of a seven-acre patch on the banks of the Little Blue, a thirty-third degree bullfrog fan and admitted champion, in those parts, in the fascinating art of jerking the plumpest hoppers from their reveries along the mudbanks.

"Yeah, speakig of bullfrogs," chimed in Mickely Noonen, thirty-second degree fan in the same spot, and first assistant to Stansbury in hunting hoppers, washing out the boat, pulling it miles up and down the creek, or doing any of the thousand other tasks required of a champion bullfrog catcher and his chief assistant.

A frown from Stansbury silenced Micky. "Speaking of bullfrogs," went on Stansbury, and the little group in the general store at Vale, Mo., grew suddenly silent while the champion frog catcher of the Little Blue prepared to discuss one of the main tops of interest to the small but thriving community.

"Frogs sure are a mighty human lot of beasts, take them by and large,' remarked Stansbury, and the audience sat at breathless attention. 'Take that big one in the bag there—show them the big one in the bag, Micky.' Micky, as became the first assistant to the chief frog catcher, immediately produced the "big one" from the bag, while Stansbury continued. "I've had 'em do all sorts of things in my nine years of close contact with 'em, but that one sure did surprise me today when I hooked him under the jaw with the gaff and jerked him into the boat. I ain't particularly religious, but it shocked me when he said plain as ray: 'Damn you.'"

A frown cut short further comment from the assistant, and Stansbury went on. "Mostly, I never heard them do much of anything in a speaking way further than to say 'Go-rum, go-rum,' which is only the frog way of expressing satisfaction with life in general. But there's a lot of people right around here, too, that wouldn't admit a frog ever says anything understandable."

"For instance, you sit in a boat listening for a frog to holler. Pretty soon, off there, you hear a little frog pipe out: 'Knee deep—knee deep.' Most folks wouldn't even understand what he was saying, let alone know enough to sit still and hear what the old frog has to say back."

Micky was drawing forth the "middling sized one," a frog weighing about a pound, while Stansbury continued with his tale of the day's adventures. "Well, I got him this afternoon just by knowing something of frog nature and their little ways. Little frog hadn't more'n got the words 'knee deep' out of his mouth before I hears the reply: 'Better-go-round—better-go-round.'

"I just pulls my boat around—I pulls the boat around," Micky puts in. "Yes, Micky pulls the boat around," corrects Stansbury, "and there he sits giving out his advice to the little frog, who says it's only 'knee deep' where he is a-sitting."

"Look here," interjects Micky, pulling at the fastening of the frog bag to prove that his chief has put to good use every whit of his frog knowledge in making the haul for the day. Through the net of the bag could be seen twenty-three giant frogs, the smallest of which would tip the scales at a pound and the largest at a pound and a half.

"The biggest one I ever got," answers Stansbury, "was one I hauled out of the creek last summer. It weighed just two pounds and a quarter."

"That's the biggest one we ever got," says Micky from his perch on the cracker box. But a word from his chief to see that none got from the bag shut off further comment from the assistant frog catcher.

The scientific side of the frog doesn't interest Stansbury much. Neither does the commercial side of the business, though it might, for a bag of frogs weighing 25 to 35 pounds isn't a bad day's work from a financial standpoint. But it's what he calls the "humanness" of a frog that appeals to him, and residents around Vale says that when it comes to getting right under the skin of a frog, and knowing what he is thinking about and why he is thinking it, Stansbury has the world beaten, at least by two good frog leaps.

"There's people that say I have a kind of hypnotic power I use in catching 'em," continues Stansbury. "I admit I can pick up a frog in my hands without him so much as saying a word, but there isn't any hynotism about it. A frog is a good deal like a horse. You get one idea into his head and he doesn't care about anything else. Just show him something like a bright light at night and he's plumb flabbergasted. The way I catch 'em is to go along the creek with a lantern in my hand. When I see the white throat of Mr. Frog I keep the lantern where he can see it. He's a little puzzled at first and by the time I get the boat up close to him he's forgotten everything else and is just running over in his mind all the things he has seen that's most like that steadily glowing thing. I just put my hand behind him and pick him up. Lots of times I've felt kind of sorry for their ignorance and stroked 'em and stroked 'em, before I had the heart to put my fingers under their arms and lift 'em into my sack."

"Lots of times Stansburys stroked 'em that way," testified Micky, but this time he got no further.

"Of course, daytime, I get 'em with a fishpole a foot or two of line and a grab hook at the end. It doesn't hurt 'em when the hook jabs into the cartiledge around their lips, though I've seen some that were mighty surprised, like that one that swore at me today."

"'S fact. They sometimes are surprised, like that one that swore at us today," concluded Micky, as he shouldered the bag of frags of his chief and fell into the wake of the champion frog catcher.—Kansas City Star.

PAIGE CARS HAVE RECORDS IN SALES AND SATISFACTION

"Paige Sixes have established a twofold record of overwhelming success. The first was a record of sales by Paige dealers; the second is a record of satisfactory service in the hands of thousands of Paige owners," says T. D. Humphreys, manager of Herrick & McLarty Auto company.

"The best engineering knowledge and experience, the finest skilled workmanship and the highest quality of materials have been put into the new Paige Six. Every important feature of Paige goodness is apparent, but the distinction of this model, as in all other Paige cars, lies in the superior excellence of the little things. That makes the difference between just a good car and a Paig excess value car.

"The beauty of the European stream line is impressive. It is an exact duplicate of the artistic Six '46,' in a five passenger model. For roomness and comfort in seating arrangements we know there is no car to surpass it. Five full grown people can sit with perfect freedom of bodies and limbs. The rear seat is forty-seven inches wide, and the front is forty-six inches wide. The rear compartment is forty-three inches from back of rear seat to back of front seat. The front compartment is forty inches from back of seat to front edge of toe board. Find another car that provides five occupants with such an abundance of room.

"In chassis design the Fleetwood Six '38' is a duplicate of the Fairfield Six '46,' possessing the most distinctive elements. The new motor is 3 1-8 inches bore and five inches stroke, bigger, more powerful, and speedier. The crank shaft is one-fourth inch larger, therefore, more rigid and less likely to cause vibration at high speeds. The transmission is in a unit with the motor and the same as the big six transmission. The clutch is exactly like the big car—the same fine, smooth, dependable, multiple disc, cork insert clutch ,running in a bath of oil. The rear axle is of the same sturdy design but somewhat lighter, the luxurious cantilever type rear spring is used. In fact, every feature in the Fleetwood design shows the same unusual engineering skill at the Six '46.'

"In equipment and finish, too, the new Six has all the qualities of the Fairfield. The same Gray & Davis starting and lighting, the same pantasote top material, the same costly hand buffed, French glazed leather, the same springy, genuine curled hair upholstering, the same perfect painting, finish, and the same painstaking care throughout."

"The fittest survive! Neither men nor machines, if they are unfit, can long withstand the crushing strain of an exacting existence," says W. E. Brown, manager Herrick Hardware auto department.

"Buick Valve-in-Head motor cars are built on principles that were established when the motor car industry started, and that these cars have survived without change in their fundamentals is convincing proof that they are constructed on basic principles that are correct.

"In the making of Buicks there has been no yearly shifting from one set of engineering and manufacturing principles to an entirely different set. The Buick Valve-in-Head principle was right in the beginning, and it has been right ever since. Each passing hour finds this great principle more firmly and securely established in the estimation of the motoring public.

"The Valve-in-Head principle is the great reason for the survival of Buick motor cars. If this principle had not been correct, Buick, too, would have found it necessary to jump from one kind of motor to another in a ceaseless effort to find something that would stand the grilling work a motor car is called upon to do.

"The Buick has survived every test that a quarter of a million users could devise in the most exacting conditions of worldwide service. There could be no better proof that the Buick is the fittest among motor cars."

Firestone Tire Co. Employes Enjoyed Great Outing

Yesterday the big event of the year in the eyes of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company employes was held at Silver Lake park, near Akron, Ohio. Their annual picnic took place, and elaborate preparations were made to keep it in harmony with the immense growth of the company during the last year.

In the morning there were special cars to carry the picnickers to the lake. The activities of the morning included a soccer football game and baseball game between department teams. At noon the time-honored custom of the "family basket" idea was recognized with all due formality. From then on there was one continuous round of sports and wholesome fun until time for departure.

There was a spectacular and gorgeous display of fireworks in the evening, planned by pyrotechnic experts. Set-pieces of enormous size were included. This took place on the island in the center of the lake, and the effect produced proved a sight worth while. During the course of the day and evening at least 25,000 people, composed of Firestoneites and their families, were in attendance.

THREE SISTERS GRADUATE FROM UNIVERSITY ON THE SAME DAY AND ESTABLISH NEW RECORD FOR EDUCATIONAL ACHIEVEMENT

Three sisters of aristocratic lineage, all under twenty-three years of age, established a record in this country for educational achievement in one family by graduating with honors this season, and taking their degrees on the same day from the University of Alabama. The three girls are the Misses Mamie Rose, Ruby Elizabeth, and Jennie Clyde McKay, who received the degrees of B. A., B. S. and B. A. in the order named.

Champion Bullfrog Catcher

Speaking of bullfrogs—

No one had been speaking of bullfrogs, but that didn't make the slightest difference to E. Stansbury, owner of a seven-acre patch on the banks of the Little Blue, a thirty-third degree bullfrog fan and admitted champion, in those parts, in the fascinating art of jerking the plumpest hoppers from their reveries along the mudbanks.

"Yeah, speakig of bullfrogs," chimed in Mickely Noonen, thirty-second degree fan in the same spot, and first assistant to Stansbury in hunting hoppers, washing out the boat, pulling it miles up and down the creek, or doing any of the thousand other tasks required of a champion bullfrog catcher and his chief assistant.

A frown from Stansbury silenced Micky. "Speaking of bullfrogs," went on Stansbury, and the little group in the general store at Vale, Mo., grew suddenly silent while the champion frog catcher of the Little Blue prepared to discuss one of the main tops of interest to the small but thriving community.

"Frogs sure are a mighty human lot of beasts, take them by and large," remarked Stansbury, and the audience sat at breathless attention. 'Take that big one in the bag there—show them the big one in the bag, Micky." Micky, as became the first assistant to the chief frog catcher, immediately produced the "big one" from the bag, while Stansbury continued. "I've had 'em do all sorts of things in my nine years of close contact with 'em, but that one sure did surprise me today when I hooked him under the jaw with the gaff and jerked him into the boat. I ain't particularly religious, but it shocked me when he said plain as ray: 'Damn you.'"

A frown cut short further comment from the assistant, and Stansbury went on. "Mostly, I never heard them do much of anything in a speaking way further than to say 'Go-rum, go-rum,' which is only the frog way of expressing satisfaction with life in general. But there's a lot of people right around here, too, that wouldn't admit a frog ever says anything understandable."

"For instance, you sit in a boat listening for a frog to holler. Pretty soon, off there, you hear a little frog pipe out: 'Knee deep—knee deep.' Most folks wouldn't even understand what he was saying, let alone know enough to sit still and hear what the old frog has to say back."

Micky was drawing forth the "middling sized one," a frog weighing about a pound, while Stansbury continued with his tale of the day's adventures. "Well, I got him this afternoon just by knowing something of frog nature and their little ways. Little frog hadn't more'n got the words 'knee deep' out of his mouth before I hears the reply: 'Better-go-round—better-go-round.'

"I just pulls my boat around—I pulls the boat around," Micky puts in. "Yes, Micky pulls the boat around," corrects Stansbury, "and there he sits giving out his advice to the little frog, who says it's only 'knee deep' where he is a sitting."

"Look here," interjects Micky, pulling at the fastening of the frog bag to prove that his chief has put to good use every whit of his frog knowledge in making the haul for the day. Through the net of the bag could be seen twenty-three giant frogs, the smallest of which would tip the scales at a pound and the largest at a pound and a half.

"The biggest one I ever got," answers Stansbury, "was one I hauled out of the creek last summer. It weighed just two pounds and a quarter."

"That's the biggest one we ever got," says Micky from his perch on the cracker box. But a word from his chief to see that none got from the bag shut off further comment from the assistant frog catcher.

The scientific side of the frog doesn't interest Stansbury much. Neither does the commercial side of the business, though it might, for a bag of frogs weighing 25 to 35 pounds isn't a bad day's work from a financial standpoint. But it's what he calls the "humanness" of a frog that appeals to him, and residents around Vale says that when it comes to getting right under the skin of a frog, and knowing what he is thinking about and why he is thinking it, Stansbury has the world beaten, at least by two good frog leaps.

"There's people that say I have a kind of hypnotic power I use in catching 'em," continues Stansbury. "I admit I can pick up a frog in my hands without him so much as saying a word, but there isn't any hynotism about it. A frog is a good deal like a horse. You get one idea into his head and he doesn't care about anything else. Just show him something like a bright light at night and he's plumb flabbergasted. The way I catch 'em is to go along the creek with a lantern in my hand. When I see the white throat of Mr. Frog I keep the lantern where he can see it. He's a little puzzled at first and by the time I get the boat up close to him he's forgotten everything else and is just running over in his mind all the things he has seen that's most like that steadily glowing thing. I just put my hand behind him and pick him up. Lots of times I've felt kind of sorry for their ignorance and stroked 'em and stroked 'em, before I had the heart to put my fingers under their arms and lift 'em into my sack."

"Lots of times Stansburys stroked 'em that way," testified Micky, but this time he got no further.

"Of course, daytime, I get 'em with a fishpole a foot or two of line and a grab hook at the end. It doesn't hurt 'em when the hook jabs into the cartiledge around their lips, though I've seen some that were mighty surprised, like that one that swore at me today."

"'S fact. They sometimes are surprised, like that one that swore at us today," concluded Micky, as he shouldered the bag of frags of his chief and fell into the wake of the champion frog catcher.—Kansas City Star.

PAIGE CARS HAVE RECORDS IN SALES AND SATISFACTION

"Paige Sixes have established a two-fold record of overwhelming success. The first was a record of sales by Paige dealers; the second is a record of satisfactory service in the hands of thousands of Paige owners," says T. D. Humphreys, manager of Herrick & McLarty Auto company.

"The best engineering knowledge and experience, the finest skilled workmanship and the highest quality of materials have been put into the new Paige Six. Every important feature of Paige goodness is apparent, but the distinction of this model, as in all other Paige cars, lies in the superior excellence of the little things. That makes the difference between just a good car and a Paig excess value car.

"The beauty of the European stream line is impressive. It is an exact duplicate of the artistic Six '46,' in a five passenger model. For roomness and comfort in seating arrangements we know there is no car to surpass it. Five full grown people can sit with perfect freedom of bodies and limbs. The rear seat is forty-seven inches wide, and the front is forty-six inches wide. The rear compartment is forty-three inches from back of rear seat to back of front seat. The front compartment is forty inches from back of seat to front edge of toe board. Find another car that provides five occupants with such an abundance of room.

"In chassis design the Fleetwood Six '38' is a duplicate of the Fairfield Six '46,' possessing the most distinctive elements. The new motor is 3 1-8 inches bore and five inches stroke, bigger, more powerful, and speedier. The crank shaft is one-fourth inch larger, therefore, more rigid and less likely to cause vibration at high speeds. The transmission is in a unit with the motor and the same as the big six transmission. The clutch is exactly like the big car—the same fine, smooth, dependable, multiple disc, cork insert clutch ,running in a bath of oil. The rear axle is of the same sturdy design but somewhat lighter, the luxurious cantilever type rear spring is used. In fact, every feature in the Fleetwood design shows the same unusual engineering skill at the Six '46.'

"In equipment and finish, too, the new Six has all the qualities of the Fairfield. The same Gray & Davis starting and lighting, the same pantasote top material, the same costly hand buffed. French glazed leather, the same springy, genuine curled hair upholstering, the same perfect painting, finish, and the same painstaking care throughout."

DIXIE FLYER IS STUDY IN HARMONY THROUHOUT

Is Equipped With Spring Mounting of Radiator—Is Simple and Easy to Control.

The instrument board is covered with leather and outlined with raised aluminum binding, the interior of the doors are covered with the same heavy grade of upholstering material as the cushions, and the floors and toe board are covered with deep piled carpet of a tan-olive shade blending into the general color scheme. It is close fitting and neatly and durably bound around the pedal and lever openings.

It is this carefully thought-out and artistic harmonizing of details that contributes so much to the distinctiveness and quiet elegance of the whole car.

Dixie body lines and coloring get away from the monotonous sameness. Pass a hundred cars on the road and they all look much alike. A Dixie Flyer will instantly attract your attention—it is distinctive.

Dixie radiators are of the honeycomb cellular type and the style of their spring mounting is a distinct improvement over the old-style rigid construction. The springs eliminate all lateral strain, absorb the vibration and shock due to extreme road conditions, and minimize the danger of damage or leakage due to this cause.

Lubrication — Constant circulating splash system. The lower half of crank case contains four small wells which are fed with a constant flow of oil by plunger oil pump operated by eccentric on the cam shaft. The connecting rod bearing caps are fitted with dippers which plunge into the oil wells, and thus insure a perfect lubrication of all the moving parts.

Cooling — Thermo-Syphon system. The water jackets are extremely large and each cylinder barrel is independent from the other, thus permitting the free circulation of water all around it. The valve cages are similarly jacketed, assuring uniform and effective cooling as in the cylinders. Inlet and exhaust pipes of large diameter. Aluminum fan of two-blade aeroplane pattern, belt driven, and easily adjustable.

Clutch—Cone type, pressed steel, leather faced, twelve inches in diameter, 2 3-8-inch face, with siv compensating plungers under leather to insure easy engagement when starting, thus relieving the car of sudden jerk and strain.

Transmission—Three-speed selective gear type. All gears and shafts of chrome nickel steel, heat treated. The main shaft is mounted both front and rear in double row ball bearings. The entire clutch and transmission case of cast aluminum with the exception of the top gear box, which is of cast iron. The case is bolted to the rear of the motor forming a unit power plant.

Control—Change gear lever and emergency brake lever of convenient height, located at driver's right hand in center of car. The change gear lever operates on ball pivot, with automatic locking device for each speed. Spark and throttle levers super-imposed on steering wheel.

Starter—Dyneto electric system of starting and lighting. Connecticut ignition. (Made by the Dyneto Electric Co., the same starter as furnished and used with such great success on the Franklin for the last three years. Same type as used on the Regal, White, Chalmers, etc.)

Just one ride in the Dixie Flyer will give you confidence in its absolute dependability in every situation and will convince you that it is the ideal car for which you have been waiting.

It has the roominess and convenience of arrangement that is so essential to the comfort of driver and passenger.

It has the grace of line, beauty of finish, and quiet refinement of appointment that satisfies the most fastidious taste.

It has a simplicity and ease of control that can be readily understood and operated with perfect safety by the younger members of your family.

And it has that quiet, steady flow of power, that quick "pick-up" and "getaway" into speed that thrills every red blooded man, woman and child. Power that is smooth, flexible and positive, instantly responsive to the merest touch of throttle or accelerator. Power that will throttle down to a neasy walk or jump into a stretch of road at better than forty miles per hour if you want it—and the easiest riding you ever had.

How Does Your Motor Run?

Half of the engine troubles in automobiles is due to inexperienced workmanship or improper adjustment. Do not let just anybody "fix" your motor. It requires careful, painstaking, experienced workmanship to keep it running right. The engine is the whole thing to an automobile. Without it you can't ride. I have made a study of them, have the machinery to repair, adjust and rebuild them. If you are having engine troubles I can stop them. Bring me your car.

NUMBER AUTOS LAST YEAR WAS 2,445,664

During the fiscal year 1915, the number of automobiles in the United States reached 2,445,664 and the license and registration fees paid for them into the treasuries of the forty-eight states of the union totaled $18,254,713, including owners', drivers' and dealers' licenses. Ninety per cent of this sum was spent by the state governments on the improvement of roads and bridges, contributing more than seven per cent of the total amount required for the proper maintenance of roads. Comparison with 1906, when automobiles paid less than three-tenths of one per cent of this cost, shows the importance of license money in road construction.

According to the information gathered by the department of agriculture, the growth of the volume of fees and registrations is noted by the fact that in 1901 New York—which was the first state in the union to require fees—collected only $954. In 1906, only 48,000 cars were registered throughout the entire United States. By 1915, however, the number had jumped to the figure given, so that there is slightly more than one motor car registered for each of the 2,375,000 miles of road outside of the incorporated towns and cities.

The relation between cars and road mileage varies widely in different sections. There is only one motor car for every six miles of rural road in Nevada, but narly six motor cars for every mile of such road in New Jersey. There is an average of one motor car registration for every forty-four persons in the United States. Iowa apparently leads, however, with one motor car for every sixteen persons, while only one for every 200 persons is registered for Alabama.

It must be understood, however, that the figures of registration do not necessarily represent a total number of cars, as some of the states do not require annual registration, others group pleasure and commercial cars and motorcycles in their accounts, while still other states do not require registration of motorcycles.

There s great inequality in the registration fees charged by the different states. The average for the United States is $4.46. The state of Vermont, however, secured in 1915 a gross revenue of $18.10 for each motor car, while Minnesota received only about fifty cents annually for each car. In Texas and South Carolina no annual registration fees are collected, the only requirement being a county fee of fifty cents and $1 respectively for perennial registration. Most of the states, however, also levy annual taxes on motor vehicles, and this adds importantly to the public revenue contributed by the owners of motor-propelled vehicles.

In the use of fees, however, there seems to be a general policy of applying directly to road betterment the major part of the money collected from automobilists. In forty-two states of the union all or the major portion of the motor-vehicle revenue must be expended for the construction, improvement, or maintenance of the public roads, or for the maintenance of the state highway department. In twenty states, all or the major portion of the net motor-vehicle revenues are expended by or under the supervision or direction of the state highway department. In seven states one-half to one-fourth of the state motor-vehicle revenues are expended through the state highway department, and the remainder by the local authorities. Many states, in addition to applying license fees to road construction expend for this purpose a large part of the fines and penalties collected from owners.

In the number of registrations New York state led in 1915 with 255,242; Illinois was second with 180,832; California third with 163,797, and Pennsylvania fourth with 160,137. In gross revenues received from this source, however, California led with $2,027,432; New York was second with $1,991,181; Pennsylvania third with $1,665,276, while Iowa, with 145,000 cars registered, came fourth in point of revenue with $1,533,054.—Automobile Topics.

(Chicago Journal.)

No longer is it regarded as good manners to count uniform pieces one by one in manufacturing plants. Scales especially constructed for the purpose are now being employed for counting material of like units. Not only is the weighing machine more accurate because it substitutes simple manual operation and the highest degree of mechanical precision for the complicated mental figuring and inaccuracies of other systems, but it counts from 100 to 1,000 per cent faster than the time-worn methods.

CONFIDENCE HAS MUCH TO DO WITH AUTO SALE

CUSTOMER MUST FEEL THAT HE IS GETTING A REPUTABLE MACHINE.

Prospective Buyer Must Also Have Faith in the People He Is Dealing With.

"Sales are based on the confidence instilled in the prospective buyer by the quality of the product he is buying, and by the institutional character of the concern with which he is dealing. This was the big point made in an address by Andrew E. Coburn, advertising manager of the Maxwell Motor company, Inc., of Detroit, at a recent convention of the company's sales representatives," says V. M. Washam, local distributor.

Mr. Coburn's speech contained some sound salesmanship philosophy, particularly as it relates to the marketing of motor cars. He pointed out a clear-cut, definite program looking to a cordial relationship between public and manufacturer, a relationship founded on perfect trust on the part of the buying public, a trust that has its inspiration in fair-dealing and decency on the part of the manufacturer.

DESTROYING FAITH.

He pointed out a number of ways by which some manufacturers destroy the faith of their clientele. Constant changes in models, extravagance in advertising statements and absurdly exaggerated claims were among the things, he said, that tend to make the public skeptical.

The practice of changing models every year resorted to by some manufacturers was referred to in a humorous and highly effective way. When the styles in motor cars change with as much frequency and even more radically than do the styles in clothes, an owner hasn't much time to feel a sense of pride in his automobile, the speaker declared.

"Such a policy leaves us with no momentum to carry over from one year to the next," said Mr. Coburn. "We have the active partisanship of the drivers of our current year's models, and our last year's partisans are offering alibis for being out of date."

THE FUNCTION OF ADVERTISING.

The difference between the function of advertising and the function of salesmanship was clearly defined in Mr. Coburn's concluding remarks.

"Advertising can create a desire for something you have to sell," he said. "It can help build eputation for the company and the product which you represent—it can cause the public to regard favorably what you offer them—and it can make the name and the merits of the product you sell universally familiar. When advertising has done that, it has done its share in the selling plan—except to maintaining what it has accomplished.

"Advertising has no mysterious powers—it performs no miracles. There have been, in the past, advertising campaigns built on false statements and unsound claims which have been credited with remarkable results. But they were done in that period of the automobile industry's development when a great many things 'got by' that could not possibly succeed today."

Queer Tobacco Lore.

(Boston Globe.)

Every one knows that tobacco was one of the girts of the New World to the Old, and that Sir Walter Raleigh made smoking fashionable in England in the days of Queen Elizabeth. For the next fifty years the smoking of pipes not only became general among all classes, but a thing of highest fashion, held in light of an art. In these days it was not said that a man smoked tobacco, but that he "drank" or "sucked" tobacco; and the smoker was called a "tobacconist."

A curious feature of tobacco manners among fashionable smokers of the Elizabethan period was the practice of passing the pipe from one to another, after the fashion of the loving cup. In a play of 1614, one London gallant says to another who is smoking, "Please you to import your smoker?" "Very willingly, sir," says the smoker. No. 2 takes a whiff or so and courteously says: "In good faith a pipe of excellent vapor."

The rich young swell carried about him an elaborate tobacco apparatus, often of gold or silver. It included a tobacco box, tongs with which to lift a live coal to light his pipe, a ladle "for the cold snuffle into 'nostrils'," a priming iron and as large a collection of pipes as his means could afford and his pockets could find room for. Sometimes the tobacco box was of ivory and occasionally a looking glass was set in the lid, so that when the beau opened it to take out tobacco he could also have a view of his delectable person.

According to the information gathered by the department of agriculture, the growth of the volume of fees and registrations is noted by the fact that in 1901 New York—which was the first state in the union to require fees—collected only $954. In 1906, only 48,000 cars were registered throughout the entire United States. By 1915, however, the number had jumped to the figure given, so that there is slightly more than one motor car registered for each of the 2,375,000 miles of road outside of the incorporated towns and cities.

The relation between cars and road mileage varies widely in different sections. There is only one motor car for every six miles of rural road in Nevada, but narly six motor cars for every mile of such road in New Jersey. There is an average of one motor car registration for every forty-four persons in the United States. Iowa apparently leads, however, with one motor car for every sixteen persons, while only one for every 200 persons is registered for Alabama.

It must be understood, however, that the figures of registration do not necessarily represent a total number of cars, as some of the states do not require annual registration, others group pleasure and commercial cars and motorcycles in their accounts, while still other states do not require registration of motorcycles.

There s great inequality in the registration fees charged by the different states. The average for the United $7.46. The state of Vermont, however, secured in 1915 a gross revenue of $18.10 for each motor car, while Minnesota received only about fifty cents annually for each car. In Texas and South Carolina no annual registration fees are collected, the only requirement being a county fee of fifty cents and $1 respectively for perennial registration. Most of the states, however, also levy annual taxes on motor vehicles, and this adds importantly to the public revenue contributed by the owners of motor-propelled vehicles.

In the use of fees, however, there seems to be a general policy of applying directly to road betterment the major part of the money collected from automobilists. In forty-two states of the union all or the major portion of the motor-vehicle revenue must be expended for the construction, improvement, or maintenance of the public roads, or for the maintenance of the state highway department. In twenty states, all or the major portion of the net motor-vehicle revenues are expended by or under the supervision or direction of the state highway department. In seven states one-half to one-fourth of the state motor-vehicle revenues are expended through the state highway department, and the remainder by the local authorities. Many states, in addition to applying license fees to road construction expend for this purpose a large part of the fines and penalties collected from owners.

In the number of registrations New York state led in 1915 with 255,242; Illinois was second with 180,832; California third with 163,797, and Pennsylvania fourth with 160,157. In gross revenues received from this source, however, California led with $2,027,432; New York was second with $1,991,181; Pennsylvania third with $1,665,276, while Iowa, with 145,000 cars registered, came fourth in point of revenue with $1,533,054.—Automobile Topics.

SOISSONS OF TODAY: RUINS OF ONCE BEAUTIFUL FRENCH CITY; DEAD MAN'S HILL, PHOTOGRAPHED AS GERMANS SHELL POSITION

These pictures, just received from the battle front, show two places in France that have been very much in the news during the last few months. The German bombardment of Dead Man's hill during the past four months has been one of the most terrific sustained attacks in the history of warfare.

BERNHARDT COMING TO ACT IN ENGLISH

Displaying the same indomitable courage that has kept her on the stage since her operation a year ago, despite her artificial right leg and her seventy-two years, Sarah Bernhardt is planning a visit to the United States this fall. She will appear in a number of cities, and in some of her plays and playlets will speak English, for the first time in America.

Counting Out of Date.

(Chicago Journal.)

No longer is it regarded as good manners to count uniform pieces one by one in manufacturing plants. Scales especially constructed for the purpose are now being employed for counting material of like units. Not only is the weighing machine more accurate because it substitutes simple manual operation and the highest degree of mechanical precision for the complicated mental figuring and inaccuracies of other systems, but it counts from 100 to 1,000 per cent faster than the time-worn methods.

CONFIDENCE HAS MUCH TO DO WITH AUTO SALE

CUSTOMER MUST FEEL THAT HE IS GETTING A REPUTABLE MACHINE.

Prospective Buyer Must Also Have Faith in the People He Is Dealing With.

"Sales are based on the confidence instilled in the prospective buyer by the quality of the product he is buying, and by the institutional character of the concern with which he is dealing. This was the big point made in an address by Andrew E. Coburn, advertising manager of the Maxwell Motor company, Inc., of Detroit, at a recent convention of the company's sales representatives," says V. M. Washam, local distributor.

Mr. Coburn's speech contained some sound salesmanship philosophy, particularly as it relates to the marketing of motor cars. He pointed out a clear-cut, definite program looking to a cordial relationship between public and manufacturer, a relationship founded on perfect trust on the part of the buying public, a trust that has its inspiration in fair-dealing and decency on the part of the manufacturer.

DESTROYING FAITH.

He pointed out a number of ways by which some manufacturers destroy the faith of their clientele. Constant changes in models, extravagance in advertising statements and absurdly exaggerated claims were among the things, he said, that tend to make the public skeptical.

The practice of changing models every year resorted to by some manufacturers was referred to in a humorous and highly effective way. When the styles in motor cars change with as much frequency and even more radically than do the styles in clothes, an owner hasn't much time to feel a sense of pride in his automobile, the speaker declared.

"Such a policy leaves us with no momentum to carry over from one year to the next," said Mr. Coburn. "We have the active partisanship of the drivers of our current year's models, and our last year's partisans are offering alibis for being out of date."

THE FUNCTION OF ADVERTISING.

The difference between the function of advertising and the function of salesmanship was clearly defined in Mr. Coburn's concluding remarks.

"Advertising can create a desire for something you have to sell," he said. "It can help build epuigtion for the company and the product which you represent—it can cause the public to regard favorably what you offer them—and it can make the name and the merits of the product you sell universally familiar. When advertising has done that, it has done its share in the selling plan—except to maintaining what it has accomplished.

"Advertising has no mysterious powers—it performs no miracles. There have been, in the past, advertising campaigns built on false statements and unsound claims which have been credited with remarkable results. But they were done in that period of the automobile industry's development when a great many things 'got by' that could not possibly succeed today."

Queer Tobacco Lore.

Every one knows that tobacco was one of the girts of the New World to the Old, and that Sir Walter Raleigh made smoking fashionable in England in the days of Queen Elizabeth. For the next fifty years the smoking of pipes not only became general among all classes, but a thing of highest fashion, held in light of an art. In these days it was not said that a man smoked tobacco, but that he "drank" or "sucked" tobacco; and the smoker was called a "tobacconist."

A curious feature of tobacco manners among fashionable smokers of the Elizabethan period was the practice of passing the pipe from one to another, after the fashion of the loving cup. In a play of 1614, one London gallant says to another who is smoking, "Please you to import your smoker?" "Very willingly, sir," says the smoker. No. 2 takes a whiff or so and courteously says: "In good faith a pipe of excellent vapor."

The rich young swell carried about him an elaborate tobacco apparatus, often of gold or silver. It included a tobacco box, tongs with which to lift a live coal to light his pipe, a ladle "for the cold snuffle into 'nostrils'," a priming iron and as large a collection of pipes as his means could afford and his pockets could find room for. Sometimes the tobacco box was of ivory and occasionally a looking glass was set in the lid, so that when the beau opened it to take out tobacco he could also have a view of his delectable person.

CRAVEN AND JENKINS FREE TIRE SERVICE PROVES BIG WINNER

One of the most appreciated business additions to the town seems to be that of Craven & Jenkins—the Free Tire Service people, who are located at 209 South Sixth street. These people have experienced a good business from the start, they are conveniently located and look after business intrusted to them in a way that is fast winning them approval from the automobile population of Waco and surrounding country.

Free tire service anywhere and any time is made to be true with these people, for it is no uncommon thing for them to be called miles in the country at an hour far from high noon, but they answer the call, deliver the goods and there seems to be no kick about the time it takes them to do it in. These popular people have a big free introductory offer on tires for ten days that it will pay every auto owner to investigate.

Craven & Jenkins carry a full line of standard, high-grade tires, accessories, do a general vulcanizing business and employ a corps of men in their establishment who know their business and are giving satisfaction from every standpoint.

"Around the Square"

The Special Page entitled "Around the Square," which appeared in the News July 16th created so much favorable comment and attracted so much attention that a second trip around this historic spot was taken yesterday by a News reporter.

There is one peculiar characteristic about business around the square, and that is, there is less fluctuation and trade is more steady day after day than anywhere else in Waco.

Since the founding of the city the public square has been the scene of busy, bustling activity—and so it still is today. Here the people from the rural districts find a ready market for their grains, cotton, vegetables, etc. And here, too, they do much of their trading.

One of the most wide-awake and active business men of this district is Otto Fullen, manager of the Square Drug Store. He reports that business has never been so good as now.

"More people," says Mr. Fullen, "are getting the habit of phoning their orders to a drug store. We handle a vast number of such calls every day, and pride ourselves on prompt delivery."

Oriental Drug Store
109 S. Third Street

The Waco Cash Market, on the east side of the square, is a thriving concern, doing a large business all over the city. They kill all their own meats, and buy nothing from the packers. To this they attribute the popularity of their market.

M. Losavio, grocer and fruit dealer, on the west side of the square, frequently imports fine cheese, olive oil, etc., direct from Italy. A recent shipment has just arrived, and Mr. Losavio says that these imported delicacies have a wide demand in Waco.

The buyers for Harris & Wolf, popular dry goods dealers on the south side of the square, are now in eastern markets. Mr. Wolf says that they are making heavy purchases of fall creations for the benefit of the store's many customers. Announcement of the arrival of these goods will be announced in the paper later, he says.

The Brazos Fish Market, through Manager Henry, reports the receipt of the first oysters of the season. They are not shipped in large quantities until September, and the supply he has will soon be exhausted.

The Square Cafe is ever a good place to get a good square meal. Panas & Pappas, the managers, are wide awake and active. They serve excellent meals at quite moderate prices.

Dr. J. H. Womack, proprietor of the Oriental Drug Store, on the west side of the square, has but just returned from New York City, where he took a post-graduate course in medicine, specializing in genito-urinary, skin and rectal diseases. He says that the increase in his drug store's business that he is able to note since his return is very gratifying, and indicates that business on the square is showing a steady, healthy growth.

The big "Merger for Efficiency" which was effected about two weeks ago between the Glide and Oakland Motor Co. and Herrick & McLarty, by which the latter firm now sells "The Famous Four"—the Glide, the Paige, The Chevrolet and the Oakland cars—was a very successful move, according to T. D. Humphrey, general manager of the company.

Mr. Humphrey says that his company is now in the enviable position of being able to supply a purchaser with cars in four different price classes and of four different types. In fact, they sell a car for any purpose, any size and of a cost to fit any pocketbook. Manager Humphrey reports that business has been exceedingly good in the last two weeks and he expects it to grow steadily better.

Complimentary Reports Come From Conway Band Concerts

Since Waconns are scheduled to hear the famous Conway band during the next Cotton Palace, they are naturally interested in the reports that follow the concerts. The following is taken from the Philadelphia Public Ledger of the past week:

"Coming to Willow Grove park yesterday for his annual engagement, Patrick Conway, one of the most popular of the American bandmasters, brought with him an organization of fifty musicians and augmented the brilliancy of four striking concerts with the work of a number of soloists, both instrumental and vocal. The Conway organization has invariably been popular with the patrons of Willow Grove, and judging by the size of the audiences on the first day's concerts and the open-hearted approval voiced by the throngs in the music stadium, Conductor Conway is listed to add considerably to his prestige during an engagement which will continue for two weeks.

"For his first concert Director Conway gave the Suppe overture, 'The Beautiful Galatea,' and then introduced one of his instrumentalists, H. Benne Henton, a saxophone artist, who has been heard in prior seasons by Philadelphians. Other numbers of this concert included excerpts from Mendelssohn's 'Midsummer Night's Dream,' the prologue from 'Pagliacci' and the 'Songs of Our Nation,' by Lampe.

"Chief interest in the second afternoon concert, as well as in the final night concert, was centered in Mme. Florence Le Roy Chase, a soprano who has won repute in metropolitan circles. The audiences were not disappointed, for Mme. Chase's interpretation of 'The Inflammatus,' from Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' was so creditably effective, yet rendered with surprising ease, that an encore number was vigorously called for. At the night concert Mme. Chase gave the aria from 'Traviata' with equal success and beauty. Another soloist who appeared at the second afternoon concert was Pedro Lozano, an artist on the trombone. At the first evening concert John Dolan, a cornetist, also known to Philadelphians, gave the cavatina from Verdi's 'Ernani.' During the final night concert Conway captured his audience by the wonderful effect he drew from his band in the interpretation of Sweets' 'Grand Descriptive Military Fantasia.' As other numbers of final night concert Director Conway selected Liszt's 'Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2,' the 'March de Nuit,' by Gottschalk, and the 'Chanson Negre,' by the same writer."

Methodist Orphanage Is Farming Seventy-Eight Acres

The Methodist orphanage owns forty-eight acres of good land. Dr. Burroughs, manager, says he needs a much larger farm. He rented thirty acres this year, and is planning to rent more another season. On this seventy-eight acres, the boys, under the wise supervision of A. G. Livingston, the assistant manager, have raised 296 bushels of oats, 174 busnels of barley and 1,200 to 1,400 bales of hay have been stored from the first cutting. The corn crop will be excellent, and there is plenty of sorghum for the cattle. Twenty-one cows, seven calves, thirteen yearlings and forty-seven hogs take a great deal of feed to keep them in good condition. The orphanage is not merely a begging institution; it does what it can to help itself. The children have plenty of milk, butter and eggs. Plans are being made to increase the number of chickens raised and later on to add beehives. There has been an abundance of peas and kershaws raised for the children and another year they expect to have a greater variety of all kinds of eatables. This is the only way to make the institution self-supporting.

Taborians Return in Special Train to Their Homes

Special railroad equipment was made necessary on the Katy railroad today by returning delegates of the Knights and Daughters of Tabor, the great negro gathering which has been in progress in Waco during the past week.

Two chair cars will carry the returning delegates to Galveston and an extra chair car will be placed on the Limited at 4:40 this afternoon for the accommodation of delegates going to Fort Worth. A special train also will leave at 10:45 this morning over the Katy, bearing delegates to Dallas and points beyond there.

Chief Grand Menton C. E. W. Day feels that the sessios has been a great success as do the delegates.

Thursday night the K. P.s sent us a goperous supply of big, ice-cold watermelons. Each child in the home joins me in sincere thanks for this delicious feast. It has ever been most gratifying to find the good people of Waco so kind and interested in the orphanage. We truly thank one and all. R. A. MURROUGHS, Mgr.

Injured Engineer Is on Road to Recovery
